A Real Stigma.
Who Cares for News?

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

WINSLOW, Ariz., Feb. 14.

THIS is written on "The Chief" of the Santa Fe, one of many fast trains that travel on the different trans-continental roads, from the front door of the United States on the Pacific, to the back door on the Atlantic.

YOU see in a 3,000-mile stretch of American territory, all sorts of lands, plains, mountains and people. At this moment, the train rolls through the high hills of Arizona, covered with magnificent pine trees, snow on the hills, the marvelous blue sky which according to F. G. Bonfils of the Denver Post, is limited absolutely to Colorado, and cut off all around the Colorado border like a pie crust around a pie. It will annoy Bonfils but Arizona has that sky also.

YOU see on this trip what early travelers and Indians called "the Bad Lands." Alkali that poisons men and animals rises to the surface and lies in white patches. There is no vegetation for man or his beast. Lizards, jack rabbits and coyotes own the territory.

LATER in Chicago, New York and other big cities you will pass through other "bad lands."

The "bad lands" now become the BAD MEN.

Crime, dissipation, ignorance and desperation are written on their faces, as the alkali poison lies on the surface of the Bad Lands.

BUT irrigation and cultivation changes the Bad Lands to lands of great fertility, magnificent crops. Irrigation bleaches out the alkali, and the rich, deep, fertile soil yields wealth and happiness.

Eventually in cities, education, knowledge, kindness, opportunity will change the bad men into good men, not in one generation perhaps, but easily in two or three.

No man really WANTS to be bad, there is no man that has no GOOD WITHIN HIM.

MAN is a curious animal, more than 1,000,000 years away from real civilization, and strange trifles interest him.

You drive to the Los Angeles railroad station a little before 10 at night and the newsboy, good judge of human nature, holding his early morning papers calls out news that he feels sure will interest you deeply.

IT HAS nothing to do with the naval conference, the gigantic Pacific on your right, the stars over your head or the government at Washington to the East.

The boy calls out "Extry—John Gilbert will fight Tully again."

JOHN GILBERT, you should know, is a good looking moving picture actor. Mr. Tully writes for a living and Mr. Gilbert disliked something that Mr. Tully wrote, so that Mr. Gilbert, whose moving picture training makes him a hero under all circumstances, rushed at Mr. Tully and was knocked flat on his back. Mr. Tully has developed roughness.

STILL a hero undismayed, Mr. Gilbert let the world know that when he meets Mr. Tully again there will be another terrific battle, and the newsboy cries the challenge into the night.

If the newspaper has announced on the front page, "The circle has been squared" or "Einstein recants and apologizes to Newton" or "All the lost poems of Sappho have been found," the newsboy would still have shouted through the night air, "Gilbert will fight Tully again."

FIVE states of the South, highest in illiteracy, are conducting educational campaigns to reduce "The Stigma."

Census takers list illiterates:

Iowa has only 1.1 percentage of illiterates, lowest in the nation. Nebraska came first until 1920, and is striving to regain the championship.

HOWEVER persuading or forcing hard working people to study at night when they are tired out, and learn about their A B C's to remove the illiteracy stigma is not doing much.

To be ABLE to read and write, when you lack LEISURE to do either, and have no access to books worth while is no help.

As well teach a man five thousand miles from Egypt to read hieroglyphics on Egyptian monuments.

Hard, underpaid labor and lack of work are a "STIGMA" worse than illiteracy.

IN THIS part of the world news day by day seems not important, you hardly miss it. Looking out of the car windows, toward the north, over rolling hills and plains, or toward the south, where Byrd is worrying his way home, what they are doing back of you on the Pacific Coast, or ahead of you in Chicago, Boston, New York seems unimportant.

TODAY'S newspaper, if you had it, would say that Uncle Sam is trying to prevent the use of submarines, France and Japan won't let him.

In Washington, solemn men with thin long faces, are saying that prohibition is a perfect success and we ought to have more of it, while men with round, plump faces, say that prohibition is a complete failure, and we ought not to have any of it.

YOU know that stocks are probably wobbling, from side to side, not going up or down, waiting for the little Wall Street lambs to grow a new crop of tender dollar-mark wool, and being out of the market, you don't care.

CLUE HINTS BANK CLERK WAS SLAIN

Brother of Graham Coming Here With Clothing Taken From Body Found in Ohio

An unmarked grave in Portsmouth, O., is the seal that may hide the mysterious disappearance and probably the murder of Harold Graham, 19-year-old Mellon Bank clerk.

J. H. Graham, of Fairmont, W. Va., a brother of the youth, today was en route to Pittsburgh. Under his arm is a bundle of clothing — a comparatively new pair of trousers and an ill-used coat, vest and trousers.

The coat and one pair of trousers were taken from a body found in the Ohio River last May. The missing boy's family had the second pair of trousers.

SAYS TROUSERS MATCH

The two pairs of trousers, Mr. Graham is satisfied, are identical and part of the same two-trouser suit bought by his brother in a Pittsburgh store.

With the help of store officials and friends, the Fairmont man hopes today to verify his belief—that Harold was murdered; that it is his body in the Ohio grave. And if his belief is verified, he hopes to have the body exhumed.

Mr. Graham believes that because the suit that clothed the youth's body had been rent of identification normal to all clothing, his brother was murdered.

MURDER INDICATED

Other reasons that indicate murder (perhaps the tossing of the youth in the Allegheny River) are these:

January 17, 1929. Graham left the home of Miss Eleanor Schneider, 7462 Penfield court, in high spirits after spending a pleasant evening.

The following day a telephone call was received by Miss Louise Brown, a secretary of the bank, who roomed at 1419 North Euclid avenue, the same house in which Graham lived.

The speaker purported to be a cab driver. He said a note had been left in his cab after Graham had alighted from it the night be-

VARE MAY RUN WITH COPELAND

Westmoreland Jurist Likely Candidate for Governor; Grundy Ticket Held Weak

Judge Charles D. Copeland, of Westmoreland County, may run for governor on a ticket headed by William S. Vare as candidate for United States senator.

Copeland is said to share Vare's opinions on the prohibition issue and, representing both ends of the state, the pair would be a serious threat to any opposition, according to observers.

LEADERS SKEPTICAL

Local leaders were skeptical of a report current yesterday that W. L. Mellon had approved a slate headed by Senator Joseph R. Grundy, to succeed himself, and Samuel S. Lewis for governor.

At Mellon's office it was emphatically denied that the former Republican state chairman had even remotely indicated his choice of candidates.

Mellon leaves tonight for a three weeks' visit to Florida and is expected to remain silent on slates.

Lewis conferred for a half hour today with Gov. John S. Fisher in Harrisburg regarding Lewis' candidacy, but neither would comment on results, according to an Associated Press report.

Gov. Fisher is reputedly opposing the slating of Lewis and there was no indication that differences between them had been eliminated.

The Governor said he had no knowledge of another conference at Washington or elsewhere. It was also indicated the Governor felt disposed to believe that harmony in the party at the May primaries was impossible with Francis Shunk Brown's announcement that he would be a gubernatorial candidate and with

MOB ROUTED IN JOB PARADE

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 14.—(AP.)—An unemployment demonstration near the City Hall by a crowd of men and women estimated at about 200, carrying placards, was broken up by police today.

Twelve men and two women were arrested charged with inciting to riot. In the clash to prevent some of the leaders going up the stairway leading to the offices of Mayor Harry A. Mackey, several marchers were struck by policemen.

Police had been awaiting the demonstration. The marchers had not received a police permit for a parade, but were permitted to proceed unmolested until they stepped upon the plaza at City Hall.

Placards were inscribed, "We want work;" "organize and fight;" "down with the politicians" and "we want equality."

House Cheers Paulina, Visiting on Birthday

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—(AP.)—Miss Paulina Longworth, daughter of Speaker Nicholas Longworth and Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, today celebrated her fifth birthday anniversary by attending for the first time a session of the House, where he father presides.

Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, Republican floor leader, called attention of the House to Miss Paulina, who sat in the very front row of the speaker's gallery with two attaches of her father's office and her maid.

When Mr. Tilson announced that the young lady was celebrating her fifth birthday anniversary, members of the House arose and loudly applauded the little girl, who waved her left hand gaily, but was extremely self-possessed toward the members below her.

After the tribute she glanced around the galleries, much as her mother often does through a lorgnette, while sitting in the same seat during unusual debate.

She seemed particularly interested in her father, watching his every movement and listening intently to his every word, and sat very still until the House went into a committee as a whole to discuss an appropriation bill.

After he relinquished the gavel to another member, Miss Paulina's interest in the session ceased, and she demanded that her party move on to her father's office.

Guard Missing, 4 in Hospital As Strike Violence Shifts From East End 'War Zone'

Drivers and guards were attacked, one deputy sheriff was reported kidnaped and two cabs were burned in the Oakland district today in a new outbreak of terrorism in the taxicab strike.

While police reserves were concentrated in East Liberty, scene of yesterday's rioting, the center of the cab warfare suddenly shifted to Oakland and Bellefield.

One cab ran wild down the Neville street grade after strike sympathizers had released the brakes, then overturned and caught fire in the ravine near the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks. Another cab was set on fire in front of 704 Clyde street.

GUARD, CAB MISSING

Eight strike sympathizers set upon a Green cab parked in Craft avenue, between the Boulevard of the Allies and Forbes street, police reported.

Charles Miller, 25, of Connellsville, Pa., the driver, and his unidentified guard were dragged from the cab after it had been stoned and windows shattered. Miller took to his heels and found refuge in the Magee Hospital, four blocks distant.

When police arrived, the deputy and cab were both missing. The cab is believed to have been one of those burned.

FOUR IN HOSPITAL

Two Green cabs were stoned in front of Webster Hall, Fifth avenue and Dithridge street. Two guards and two drivers, injured, were removed to West Penn Hospital. The cab was seized by the attackers and run down the grade in Neville street, where it ignited. Firemen extinguished the blaze with chemicals.

At Bayard and Craig streets, another cab was attacked, and the cab door torn off. The driver and his guard were arrested.

Another cab was stoned, and after the cabmen fled, it was run over a hill at the foot of Frazier street.

When a brick was hurled at a Green cab at St. James street and

SHERIFF MOVES TO ARM GUARDS

Sheriff Robert S. Cain today announced he was considering the arming of deputies who serve as taxicab guards as a means of quelling strike disorder.

The sheriff also said he would invite Mayor Charles H. Kline and Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh to a conference with a view to "immediate action" toward preventing further rioting.

"Something must be done at once," said Cain, "and I think that the mayor, his police head and myself should get together without delay.

MAYOR INACTIVE

"Up to this time, my deputies have carried no arms with the exception of police sticks, but this situation has become so serious that I believe they should be armed with guns and tear gas bombs against those

SENATORS ASSAIL SUPREME COURT CORPORATION RULINGS

DILL SEES 'SLAVERY' OUTCOME

Flare-Up Over Confirmation Of Hughes Continues; Threaten to Curb Power

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—The battle of Independents and Liberals in the Senate against the recent trend of economic decisions in the United States Supreme Court flared forth anew today as an aftermath to the four-day contest over the confirmation of Charles Evans Hughes as chief justice.

The court was warned by Senator Dill (Dem.) of Washington either to modify its present economic policy or else prepare for continuous political warfare. Dill charged the court with plunging itself into politics by launching a "judicial system bringing economic slavery to the American people."

NORRIS SEES ISSUE

Senator Norris (Rep.) of Nebraska, who started the fight against confirmation of Hughes, declared the confirmation of Hughes would linger in American politics "like a ghost." He said the court's decisions were "a living issue."

The opposition to Hughes was characterized by Senator Vandenberg (Rep.), of Michigan, as a part of a 100-year-old fight on the judiciary by the legislative branch of the government. He charged the opposition was seeking to legislate judicial opinions.

Norris countered by declaring the fight was due to the Supreme Court "legislating" in its decisions. He said the court had gone beyond the law, overthrown legislation and deprived citizens of their individual rights. He joined with Dill in predicting the court would remain "in politics" unless its policy were changed.

Dill said that when the people found their telephone bills, carfares and other necessities being increased by Supreme Court decisions, "the Supreme Court will be in politics." He warned the court that if the people were thoroughly aroused they would amend the constitution to curb the court's powers.

TO OFFER AMENDMENT

"Let those forces beware," said Dill, "that are exploiting the common people of America through watered valuations, built upon Supreme Court decisions. The American people will insist on and secure justice in the end."

Senator Brookhart (Rep.), of Iowa, gave notice that he intended to offer a constitutional amendment which would deprive the Supreme Court of the power to set aside actions of Congress.

Hughes can take the oath as chief justice at any time. If he prefers to wait until the Supreme Court assembles, the ceremony will be delayed until Monday, February 24, when the highest tribunal next meets.

BIGGER NAVIES MAY FOLLOW PARLEY

France's Demand Likely to Result Only in Fixing Ratios for Armament

By HARRY B. FLORY
International News Service

LONDON, Feb. 14.—Any hope which may have existed that the five power naval conference here would result in a treaty calling for an actual reduction of the world's present naval armaments virtually went a glimmering today.

Instead it now appears that the treaty which eventually will come out of the present conference will represent an actual increase of naval tonnage over that which is afloat on the seven seas today.

FRANCE ADAMANT

This assumption was based upon information emanating from official circles of the conference, following France's virtually unqualified demand for 724,427 total tons of naval armament and Japan's firm, though conciliatory, stand on her original tonnage demands, together with Italy's continued indication that she will demand parity with whatever tonnage eventually is allotted to France.

The delegates point out, however, that even though this conference does not succeed in obtaining reduction, it will have achieved equilibrium in the principal world navies, and thus will have paved the way for actual reduction at the next such conference, probably to be held in 1935.

WILLING TO REDUCE

In the course of a lengthy meeting at St. James' Palace today, M. Tardieu again stressed France's willingness to reduce her tonnage figures provided the powers formulated a mutual security treaty. The meeting was attended by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, Foreign Minister Arthur Henderson, First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander, Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow and Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas.

While the United States is definitely opposed to participation in such a thoroughly European agreement, if it comes to a showdown and success or failure of the conference hinges upon this pact, it is certain the American delegates would explore the possibility of participation.

WHO KILLED MELVIN?

MELVIN HORST

Melvin, 4 when he vanished a year ago Christmas. Today the case is reopened and two charge that each other killed him.

HORST BOY SLAIN, 2 CHARGE

Both Accuse Each Other of Killing Lad; Prosecutor To Search for Body

WOOSTER, O., Feb. 14.—Two men today accused each other of having slain the missing 4-year-old Melvin Horst, Special Prosecutor Walter J. Mougey announced.

Earl C. Conald, 42, railroad brakeman and alleged bootlegger, named Charles Hanna, 50, as the killer, and Hanna charged Conald with beating to death the boy who disappeared from his home at Orrville on December 27, 1928, Mougey said.

STATEMENTS SIGNED

In signed statements from the two prisoners they agree that the killing took place in an Orrville garage in which Conald kept his car, Mougey reported.

Hanna charged that Conald coaxed the boy into the car and beat him, the authorities quoted. Conald accused Hanna of putting Melvin in the machine and a few minutes later crying out:

"My God, I believe I've killed him."

Both men had been drinking, Mougey said.

An intensive search for the body was under way today in order that murder charges might be filed against both men, Mougey announced.

Both Hanna and Conald deny knowledge of the body's disposition. Conald accused Hanna of leaving the garage with Melvin's limp body under his arm and Hanna retorted that after Conald had slain the boy he, Hanna, went home, the authorities said.

NO MOTIVE FOUND

Mougey said he had not established a motive. At first a bootlegging feud was considered on the grounds that Hanna and Conald "had it in for Roy Horst," Melvin's uncle, who as town marshal had been active against bootleggers.

Renewed questioning of Junior Hanna, 10-year-old son of the prisoner, led to the arrest of the father and Conald, Mougey said. Junior had changed his first story which he invented to "save my daddy."

Now Junior tells that he saw his playmate Melvin in the garage near the Horst home but had been forced by his father to keep the knowledge secret, according to Mougey.

The statements of the two prisoners agree that Melvin was slain on the night he disappeared.

FIRST VERSION

The first version accepted by authorities was based on the story of Junior Hanna. Junior told of seeing Melvin coaxed into the Arnold home by Elias Arnold and his son, Arthur, 17. It was Junior's testimony that brought a conviction against the Arnolds but, after being sentenced to long prison terms, they won a new trial at which they were acquitted.

Both Hanna and Conald tell of visiting the Horst home the next day to offset suspicion, Mougey quoted. The Christmas tree was still standing in the front room of the modest Horst home—and it has been standing since, for Melvin's mother refused to remove it until her son returned.

Mougey's problem today was to find the body. He pointed out that neither man might be prosecuted for murder unless the body was produced. In the event it is not found, Mougey said, he was prepared to file charges of manslaughter or child stealing. This latter charge was the one upon which the Arnolds were prosecuted.

The disappearance of Melvin has constituted one of the greatest mysteries in Ohio in several years. Ora Slater, famed detective, was hired to trace the kidnapers, or murderers, but he was unable to solve the mystery in the months he spent here.

BENSON TAYLOR HURT IN CRASH

COATESVILLE, Pa., Feb. 14.—(AP.)—Benson E. Taylor, secretary of the State Department of Property and supplies and mentioned as a possible candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, suffered a slight concussion of the brain in an automobile accident near here last night.

Physicians announced that while his condition is not critical the secretary's age contributes to the seriousness of his injuries. He was reported to be getting along "as well as can be expected."

Taylor's auto skidded on the icy highway at Rocklyn and was wedged between two poles. He was thrown over the shoulders of the chauffeur and struck his head on the floor.

Taylor and Frank St. Clair, of Harrisburg, chief of the Bureau of Engineering and Construction, were together in the auto.

They were given first aid treatment by Dr. George Morton, of Honeybrook, and then brought by ambulance to the local hospital. St. Clair was able to return to Harrisburg shortly afterward. He was not seriously injured.

Shoots Stepfather After Mother Cries

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—(INS.)—A 17-year-old boy was held today for shooting his stepfather after the latter had quarreled with the boy's mother and made her cry.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—(AP.)—On exhibition in a bookshop is what is represented as the oldest Protestant prayer book, containing prayers dictated by Martin Luther to his secretary in 1520. The book was brought to this country by Hans Trausil, a Bavarian poet.

TRAFFIC SIGNS ACTION HALTED

The Oakmont Chamber of Commerce last night decided not to take hasty action on the much discussed six stop signs which were erected on the two principal streets in the borough. They were advised to wait for further developments and were assured by members of the borough council who were present that if the signs to which popular objection has been raised did not prove satisfactory in the near future, a remedy to the situation will be in order.

John Rice, engineer for the Better Traffic Commission, city of Pittsburgh, and Mr. Truxall, attorney for the Automobile Club of Pittsburgh, the principal speakers, debated and answered questions for traffic in general and urged the chamber to wait a while and see how it works out. The following officers for the year were elected: J. E. Stewart, president; Ross Bryan, C. J. Kletzly and Joseph Caufield, vice presidents. The directors elected are: Ernest Reinhold, W. H. Keister, Charles Wolfe, J. M. Bosert and George Mathews.

Taft Able to Sign Important Paper

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—(INS.)—Ex-Chief Justice William Howard Taft continued to improve today.

The following statement was made at noon by his physicians, Dr. Francis R. Hagner and Dr. Thomas J. Claytor:

"There is a decided improvement in the former Chief Justice's condition today, and he was able to sign an important paper."

The "important paper" is believed to be a statement to his former colleagues of the Supreme Court expressing regret at retirement.

TERM TICKET WEAK

Local politicians believe the rumored Grundy-Lewis ticket is weak for the reason that Grundy is certain to meet vigorous opposition from a number of strong state groups and that his only chance of success is the winning of the almost unanimous support of Philadelphia voters.

That support is not invited by ignoring a Philadelphian as a candidate to run with Grundy and selecting Lewis who lives in York County, it was pointed out.

In addition to expected coolness in the Eastern city, local observers said they could see no indication that Allegheny County had been pledged to the reported Grundy-Lewis ticket.

The ticket included Senator Frank J. Harris as a candidate for lieutenant governor, but Harris said yesterday he has not decided to leave the Senate.

He explained he had been approached to run for the state office but that many of his friends discouraged the move.

"WAR BOARD" ACTIVE

They argued Harris can best serve his community by remaining in the Senate, at least until his contemplated extension welfare program is completed.

James P. Woodward, McKeesport, secretary of internal affairs, whose name has been omitted from the slate said to be considered by the powers that be, was in town today to confer with former State Chairman Mellon. He failed to meet with him.

Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell yesterday denied reports that he was aligned with any group in the coming state fight.

He will leave tonight for Bermuda and in the meantime "is keeping quiet in seven languages," he said.

Salus to Meet Davis, Then Confer With Vare

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 14.—(AP.)—State Senator Samuel W. Salus today went to Washington to confer with Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, preliminary to a trip to Florida, where decision is expected to be made whether William S. Vare will be a candidate for the United States Senate at the May primary.

Mayor Harry A. Mackey, returning today from a West Indian cruise, said: "I always expected William S. Vare to run for the Senate, but I am for Joseph R. Grundy."

Mackey was Vare's campaign manager in the 1926 campaign, but lerer broke with him. The Mayor said he was not a candidate for governor and desired to do "nothing at variance with the state organization's wishes."

Girl, 5, Killed When Hit By Truck

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Feb. 14.—Mary Andler, 5, daughter of Mark Andler, of Daisytown, was killed when she ran into the path of a truck driven by Thomas Anderson, of Belle Vernon. State highway patrolmen released the driver on his own recognizance to await an inquest.

VALLEY ROAD INSTALLS CARS

Parades and christenings in 12 Allegheny Valley towns tonight will mark the installation of 12 new street cars on the Valley route, running from Aspinwall to Natrona.

Twelve girls, residents of each of the towns for which the street cars will be named, are each to christen a street car before it starts from their town to join the parade.

The procession itself was to start in Natrona, with cars Miss Natrona and Miss Brackenridge, winding up in a nine-car parade in Aspinwall. Community officials of towns and cities served by the line, the sponsors of each car, and representatives of the Allegheny Valley Street Railways Company will take part in the processional.

Installation of the new vehicles is said to be the nearest approach to rapid transit which modern methods of transportation have made possible.

London Uses Candles, Fog Envelopes City

LONDON, Feb. 14.—(AP.)—London went to work by candlelight this morning, a thick fog enveloping the city and a large area of the country. The fog belt extended from Tynemouth to Ross and down to Calshot. Crowds of early workers in London were delayed considerably, and shipping in the affected coastal areas was badly hampered and the Thames estuary completely blocked for hours.

RUM RING CASE GIVEN TO JURY

The fate of the nine defendants in the McKeesport liquor conspiracy trial, before Federal Judge R. M. Gibson, was placed in the hands of the jury this afternoon. The trial started Monday.

Closing addresses by defense counsel started yesterday afternoon, when Attorney Benjamin Lencher spoke. This morning Attorneys H. D. Hirsh and C. B. Prichard will deliver final addresses in behalf of the defendants. They will be followed by First Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh, who has represented the government in the prosecution. The jury will then be charged by the court.

The defendants are James H. Gray, former lieutenant of McKeesport police; Fred Lux, Jack Morton and Dudley Prosser, ex-motorcycle policeman; Fred Kreiling, ex-desk sergeant; Martin Manning, ex-plainclothes policeman; William Englert, former milk inspector and Sam Katz, on whom the jury failed to agree at the McKeesport conspiracy trial in December. The ninth defendant is Charles E. Reinhard, former justice of the peace of Versailles Township, who was convicted in December, but granted a new trial.

SNOOK PETITION TO U. S. FILED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—(AP.)—Counsel for James Howard Snook, the Ohio State University professor under sentence of death on February 28 for the murder of Theora Hix, today placed with the clerk of the Supreme Court the papers he will file with the court when it resumes its sessions February 24.

The Supreme Court of Ohio on January 21 stayed the execution until February 28 to enable Snook to present his petition to the United States Supreme Court which was then in recess.

It is understood that counsel for Snook will ask the Ohio State Courts for a further postponement of the execution as soon as the papers are formally filed here.

Should they be unsuccessful, they are then expected to seek a stay from some justice of the Supreme Court here.

In the brief prepared in support of the petition for review, Snook's counsel asserted a case involving a claim of denial of due process of law because of the conduct of state's officers.

Father Swallows Poison In Vain Risk to Save Baby

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 14.—(AP.)—A father who unhesitatingly risked a slow and painful death to save his baby daughter, and a mother with a look of horror still in her eyes today made plans for the funeral of their first born.

In a little white-walled hospital room, Mabel Jeldy, 5 months old, died at midnight last night, victim of poison given to her through error by her mother.

Finding the child ill early yesterday morning, the mother prepared what she believed was a dose of a common remedy. Later she learned she had given a deadly acid.

When frantic efforts to get a doctor failed, Clarence Jeldy, the baby's father, reasoned that he might find an antidote for the poison by observing the effect of the acid on himself. He swallowed a dose of the poison. Soon he noticed a burning sensation. He drank a glass of soda water. When relief came he hastily prepared another portion of the simple remedy, and with his wife's help gave it to the infant.

Soon the child's suffering seemed to diminish, and when a doctor arrived he said the proper antidote had been administered. The child would have recovered, hospital attendants believed, if a lung congestion had not developed.

John Coolidge Objected, So Florence Won't Fly

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—(AP.)—There's a bride living over in New Haven, Conn., who would have been a licensed airplane pilot by now if the bridegroom hadn't objected.

It took his veto, reinforcing John's, to make her quit, he said.

"Before she met John," her father said, "Florence was an aviation enthusiast. She planned to become a pilot. Then she met John. He asked her not to.

"She couldn't give up the idea, however, so John came to me, and together we persuaded her to quit. She was planning to fly here today, but the weather was too bad."

Gov. Trumbull is a pilot himself—one of the oldest in the country.

LOBBY QUIZ HITS FARM BUREAU

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—(INS)—A close working agreement was maintained between the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation and the Tennessee River Improvement Association to promote the American Cynamid Corporation's efforts to obtain control of Muscle Shoals, it was brought out today before the Senate Lobby Committee.

W. G. Waldo, secretary of the Association, on the stand for the third day, told how the Alabama Federation at its annual convention last summer, adopted a resolution favoring the Cynamid Company's bid. Waldo wrote the resolution, he said.

He also admitted he had written other matter favoring the pending Wright bill, the recapture clause of which he testified yesterday was written by Charles Evans Hughes, the new chief justice of the United States, and sent out by the Washington office of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

"It seems peculiar to this committee that the American Farm Bureau Federation should be promoting the interests of the American Cynamid Company," Senator Walsh (Dem.), Montana, said after Waldo had told of the close connection between his organization and the farm bureau.

WOMAN 'SCOLD' FACES 3 YEARS

BELVIDERE, N. J., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Mrs. Sarah Grainer, of Phillipsburg, was awaiting sentence today as a common scold after conviction in Warren County court.

Mrs. Grainer, mother of five children ranging in age from 10 to 23, may be sentenced to as much as three years' imprisonment for misdemeanor, attorneys said.

Neighbors accused her of being noisy, abusive and insulting over a two-year period specified in the common law, and a jury of five women and seven men found her guilty.

One witness elaborated on the "personal insults, ridicule and jeers" with which she said Mrs. Grainer greeted all her acquaintances.

Howard Pursel, another prosecuting witness, testified that he sought the aid of the woman's husband in stopping her "insults."

"He told me," the witness said, "I can't do anything with her. If you can, go ahead. It has been hell in our family for the last 10 or 12 years."

Chicago's Gang Killings Year Ago Unsolved

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—(INS)—One year ago today—St. Valentine's Day—the greatest gangland killing in the history of organized crime, rocked the world with the ruthless slaying of seven members of George "Bugs" Moran's gang.

The gangsters, trapped in a North Side garage, were herded before machine guns against a wall and mowed down with bullets.

Fred Burke, arch slayer and bank robber, has been sought unsuccessfully for those murders ever since he killed a St. Joseph, Mich., policeman and machine guns found in his home, ballistically, were found to have fired the bullets into the Moran gangsters.

Others have been indicted for the slayings but have never been prosecuted because of lack of evidence.

ROME BAN HITS IMMODESTY

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 14.—(AP)—The sacred congregation of the council today issued instructions to all Roman Catholic bishops of the world regarding the campaign against immodest dress of women.

The note of instruction enjoins bishops and parish priests, fathers and mothers, directors of schools and institutes, and nuns conducting schools to give all necessary instruction and insist on modesty in feminine attire.

The instructions say that insufficiently dressed women should not be admitted to the sacrament of communion, to congregation rules, or to act as godmothers at the sacraments of confirmation and baptism, and if necessary should be sent away from churches.

All clergy and all teaching nuns and monks are directed to give special instruction on this subject on all principal feasts of the church, particularly that of the Immaculate Conception, December 8.

Diocesan vigilance councils are ordered to consider at least once a year the best means for banishing immodest modes.

CLUE HINTS SLAYING

fore on the Sharpsburg bridge. The note, he said, read:

"Peggy. I love you. Goodby. —Harold."

NEVER RECEIVED NOTE

The note, police said, never was received by them, although the Peggy was presumed to be Miss Peggy Hill, 5862 Burchfield avenue, a student at Carnegie Tech and a friend of Graham's.

The most conclusive indication that Graham was murdered, however, was believed by Mr. Graham to be the eradication of identification marks normally found on the clothing, which the older brother identified as Harold's.

Last May a body of a young man was found in the Ohio River at Portsmouth, O.

A Mrs. Elizabeth Hammond buried the body after identifying it as her missing son. After the burial, the Hammond boy returned home.

ASKED POLICE AID

Both Mrs. William Graham, mother, and the brother read of the missing youth's return. Coincidentally, neither mentioned it to the other.

Mrs. Graham wrote to Mrs. Hammond, but the letter was returned unopened.

The brother asked the state police of West Virginia to help solve the mystery and discover if possible if the buried youth was Harold.

Coroner Virgil E. Fowler, of Portsmouth, gave his aid. He wired descriptions of the boy and detailed the type of clothing. Then he sent the suit to the brother.

MAY ASK EXHUMATION

The coroner's record obtained revealed this description:

"Body of young man, aged about 19 or 20. Dressed in brown suit, low brown shoes and brown tie, with two-piece underwear, lower part with green stripes."

If Mr. Graham's check-up convinces him beyond all doubt that the body is that of his brother, he will immediately ask that it be exhumed to assist further in the identification and perhaps solution of the murder mystery.

Meanwhile, a search is being made for Mrs. Hammond, who, it is hoped, may be able to throw some light on the case.

Murdered?

HOOVER AFTER FISHING HONORS

By GEORGE E. DURNO

LONG KEY, Fla., Feb. 14.—(INS)—President Hoover elected on this, his next-to-final day in Florida, to make his longest excursion away from the Long Key fishing base, and early this morning the houseboat Saunterer weighed anchor and headed toward Sombero Light, about 22 miles south of here.

On the two-hour trip down, the executive had an opportunity to study the French naval demand, made public at the London conference and relayed to Long Key last night. Although no comment was forthcoming from the presidential yacht, unofficial observations of his aids indicated that the proposal was regarded as exorbitant.

News of Charles Evans Hughes' confirmation as chief justice reached Hoover last night, but the President made no comment.

Tomorrow night Mr. Hoover will entrain for Washington—two days earlier than he had planned when he started south a week ago. It was denied that developments at London or any pressing business prompted the change in schedule, the reason given being that with no fishing Sunday and only part of a day available Monday, the President will reach the national capital early Monday morning.

The President has 48 hours in which to redeem himself as a fisherman above the average. Mrs. Hoover tied him at sail fishing yesterday when she hooked her first one of the trip, and all of his guests have caught sailfish weighing more than the one he got on his first day out. Mrs. Hoover's sail fish incidentally furnished the party with dinner last night.

TAXIS BURNED IN OAKLAND

EAST END VIOLENCE

Four Green cabs were stoned and one of them was stolen in fresh outbreaks of violence in East Liberty and Squirrel Hill districts.

The attacks occurred despite the fact that 100 extra policemen had been dispatched to East Liberty to prevent a possible repetition of yesterday's rioting that filled streets with surging mobs.

Two cabs, each manned with two helmeted guards and a driver, were pursued from East End and cornered by a truck carrying a dozen strike sympathizers at the blind end of Dennison avenue, near Hastings street.

CAB CREW FLEES

The men on the truck stoned the cabs, breaking windows and windshields. The cab crews leaped from their machines and fled. All disappeared except one driver, who later returned with police and found one of the cabs gone. The driver returned to the garage with the other.

Another cab, manned by driver and guard, was stoned by men from behind a billboard at Penn and Fifth avenues, Point Breeze, when the cab stopped at a red signal light at the crossing.

OTHER CARS STRUCK

Several missiles struck other cars halted for the red light and occupants narrowly escaped injury.

A fourth cab was stacked at Lambert street and Hamilton avenue. The driver failed to heed a warning by police not to approach the East Liberty Station of the Pennsylvania Railroad by way of the Broad street entrance and was confronted by a group of a dozen strike sympathizers who threw bricks, breaking the cab windows.

Mounted police went to the rescue of the cab and escorted it to the cab stand on the other side of the station.

Elaborate precautions had been taken by police to deal with possible further disorder.

Motorcycle patrolmen were armed with large quantities of tear gas bombs and tear gas maces. Uniformed and plain-clothes men carried maces of two lengths, the ordinary mace a foot long, and the new loaded night stick, 20 inches in length.

Inspector Bernard J. Kirley, of the East End district, was in charge of the police on strike duty, said to number more than 125.

Individual squads were headed by Lieuts. Charles Cahill, James Early, J. J. Callahan, William Fullerton and Bert Jacks.

CABS TAKE STANDS

Cabs took their usual stands this morning near Highland and Center avenues and at the East Liberty Station, without molestation. They returned to the Green Cab garage in Ellsworth at noon for lunch, with no disorder other than epithets from strike sympathizers along the streets.

Additional Pennsylvania Railroad police, under command of Lieut. Charles K. Fraser, went on duty at the East Liberty Station today, bringing the total to nine.

THIRD HELD IN CONTEMPT

Hope for an early settlement of the strike was voiced by Judge Richard W. Martin today as he held a third striker in contempt of court for violation of the injunction which forbids interference with operation of the cabs.

"Both sides are suffering economic losses," Judge Martin pointed out. "Furthermore, if our streets are to be turned into battlegrounds, the lives of the public will be endangered."

The striker, Louis Brisky, was accused of stoning a cab. His case will be disposed of next Tuesday, along with those of two other strikers held in contempt.

New York to Get Cut Rate Cab Service

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—(INS)—Let's taxi.—It's cheaper.

That may be the New York slogan of the future, for a fleet of taxicabs charging only 15 cents per mile will go into operation here tomorrow, it was announced today. The new rate is less than half charged by most New York taxicabs.

More than 1,000 of the new cabs will be running here before March 1, it was claimed.

FORD MILLIONS FOR SCHOOLS

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN.

FORT MYERS, Fla., Feb. 14.—(INS)—Henry Ford plans to dedicate the rest of his life to education. He intends to build a number of schools in various parts of the country—how many he does not yet know—but some of them will be very large institutions. He said today he "would not be surprised" if he invested $100,000,000 in the project.

"I want to do all in my power to help young men of America to fit themselves into the world," said Mr. Ford. "Society owes it to the young people to educate them for useful citizenship and, for my part, I am going to devote the rest of my active days in the interest of trade schools and teaching.

WANTS NO SUGGESTIONS

"I intend to invest my money in my own way. I have a definite plan. Consequently I do not wish to be bothered by suggestions from persons who never made or saved a dollar, telling me how to spend a million.

"The schools will be strategically located throughout the country. I am not yet prepared to say where they will be situated.

"But our school, the Edison Institute of Technology, at Dearborn, Mich., will be the principal school, the nucleus of the other educational institutions.

"Every boy should learn a trade. He should have something to fall back on, something to keep his mind active and keep him out of trouble. I believe there should be a technical school in every industrial institution.

"When students come out of school, at 18 or so, people should want them. They should be in demand and not find themselves shifting aimlessly without a definite purpose in life.

"The reason we have so much crime and racketeering is because schools do not teach our young men how to fit into the world.

TO TEACH ALL ARTS

"If taught properly, every boy upon leaving school could go to an employer and say he was specifically fitted to perform a given task. Now they say 'I went through high school' or 'I went through college.' That does not mean anything. But if they said they were a machinist, a chemist or a cabinet maker, that does mean something.

"I do not know how many schools we shall build but some of them will be large institutions. All these schools will be self-supporting. Academic subjects will be taught in the lower grades, but as soon as the students are ready for it they will be given vocational training. All the arts will be taught. When a student is graduated he not only will have a good basic education but a trade that will enable him to immediately put his mind and energy to practical application. The students will be taught to buy and sell, to be traders as well as mechanics."

MISS EMILY CORTON

Paddles Boat With Pan, Raiders Halt Escape

When a squad of prohibition agents raided the Pittsburgh Yacht Club, a houseboat in the Allegheny River near the foot of Madison avenue, William Archey, 32, of 803 Progress street, seized a frying pan and hopped into a skiff in an attempt to escape, agents said. The raid was staged late yesterday, agents reported.

Using the frying pan as a paddle, Archey was about 30 feet from the clubhouse when the agents ordered him to come to shore. Archey ignored their demands, they said, and continued across the stream. He changed his mind, however, when a barrage of bricks and other missiles came his way from the hands of the dry men. Archey was arrested along with Frank Metz, 31, of 206 Madison avenue, another attache of the club, according to the agents.

Behind the bar in the place several bottles of whisky were found, agents said.

Two other clubs, one at 115 Roquet street, and the other on the second floor at 1211 Penn avenue, yielded the agents whisky and beer, they reported. James Ridge, 28, was arrested in the former place, and Robert Kelly, 29, was taken into custody in the Penn avenue club, the raiders said.

Morris Schwartz, 40, of 203 Priscilla street, Duquesne, was turned over to prohibition agents by Duquesne police yesterday following the seizure of his truck in which 23 pints of whisky were found by the borough police, it was said.

RIOTING WIDENS TAXI BREACH

Union leaders at the company offices were hopeful today that a settlement of the taxicab strike, at a time when the general walkout of taxicab drivers is one month old, could be reached.

Headquarters of the Yellow and Green Cab companies, subsidiaries of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, which is headed by E. S. Higgins, vice president of the latter concern, became a battleground shortly after the strikers and company officials had completed their agreement.

The agreement referred to, according to a company statement from which headquarters was "never supposed to be anything but what it has come to be called—"Suggestions for Settlement."

The company statement terms the strike an illegal and unjust one and continues:

VIOLATION CHARGED

"The situation goes beyond the strike stage, resolving itself into a test to determine whether formal agreements upon which all business integrity is founded can be violated with impunity and anarchistic force applied in defiance of all law and authority."

The company statement is signed by Walter S. Hall, president of the Yellow Cab Company, and Paul L. Houston, of the Green Cab Company.

SAY FIRM BROKE FAITH

One of the provisions of the suggestions reads according to the union statement:

"Men to return to work upon the basis of being restored to their former respective positions with full seniority."

"The men did not vote to consider these suggestions as a basis of settling the agreement on the basis of January 20 (date of the document). The men were instigated by their officers to picket again the following night to attempt to return to their places in accordance with Secretary Davis' suggestions. As the men gathered for this meeting they were insulted by seeing on the streets scores of the companies' cabs being operated by strikebreakers imported to take the strikers' places—and this in the face of the tentative arrangement made the night before."

This breaking of faith, according to the union statement, brought an overwhelming obstacle on the part of the strikers to go further with the suggestions for settlement. The statement also calls attention to numerous acts of violence traced, it points out, directly to employes imported to "break" the strike.

CORONER RAPS POLICE LAXITY

At the inquest today into the death of John H. Ryan, 75, of 418 Tripoli street, who died January 20 of a fractured skull, Coroner W. J. McGregor charged the Pittsburgh police bureau with "gross lack of co-operation and indifference to the investigation of crime."

Thomas Molyneaux, 26, of 1324 James street, who is alleged to have struck the blow that caused Ryan's death, was held in $3,000 bail, pending further inquiry.

Ryan was found unconscious in Sandusky street on January 17 and died in the Allegheny General Hospital two days later without recovering consciousness.

A few hours after Ryan was found, Molyneaux, according to the police, appeared at North Side Police Station and reported that he had been held up by two men and that he had slugged one and the other had escaped. The encounter was said to have occurred at the place where Ryan was found.

Molyneaux was arrested. The police took possession of one of his shoes on which a substance suspected of being blood was found. The police were unable at the inquest today to produce the shoe, and it was that which prompted McGregor's denunciation. Mr. McGregor said:

"The homicide squad and the police have failed to produce the evidence. I am not surprised at this. But I wanted a public announcement of this indifference on the part of the police bureau. This office is not being deceived. I know whereof I speak and I expect an accounting from the police."

The inquest was closed until the presentation of further evidence.

Today at the Mayor's office it was said Mayor Kline was afflicted with laryngitis in explanation of his absence from office.

Sheriff Cain pointed out that if a strike proclamation was issued it should come from the Mayor rather than himself.

THURSDAY RIOT BRINGS 3 FINES

Fifteen of six men arrested at the scene of yesterday's rioting were fined at hearings before Magistrate Charles Pajsak in East End police station today. The others were discharged. Police testified five men had refused to move on when ordered and that several became abusive.

Reinhold Schenkler, 21, of 1715 Chislett street, and Edward Blumling, 20, of 239 Forty-fifth street, were fined $10 each, and Harry Goodman, 45, of 385 Milwaukee street, $5. Those discharged were Frank Bullo, 30, of 214 South Highland avenue; James Lorenzo, 29, of Dallas street, and John MacLean, 22, of 716 Princeton place.

Mrs. Dora Ferrando and Mrs. Bessie Bilowich, who were attacked by Mrs. Cecil Ives yesterday for patronizing [illegible] in a demonstration against cab operations, paid $10 fines and were released.

MOBS DEFY POLICE

Outbursts of rioting throughout the East Liberty district yesterday afternoon were so violent that 100 police reserves found themselves almost helpless against disorderly mobs which stoned cabs, beat new drivers and upset and fired a wrecked taxicab in the heart of the East End business district. Tear gas bombs had little effect upon the milling crowds, several thousand of whom defied police reserves from every section of the city for several hours.

The rioting described by eyewitnesses as the worst since the Homestead steel strike made it necessary for officials of the Green Cab Company to order their drivers in off the streets at 4:30 p.m. instead of continuing until 6 o'clock as originally planned. Operations in the East End district were curtailed throughout the night. Yellow cabs were operated in the downtown section without molestation until midnight. It was planned to resume operation of the Green cabs in East Liberty again today.

DOZEN INJURED

A dozen or more persons were injured in yesterday's disorders. Three were taken to the Pittsburgh Hospital while the others were treated by physicians and sent to their homes.

Only about 18 arrests were made.

Merchants in Penn avenue, Highland avenue and along other thoroughfares where rioting was likely to occur, hurriedly emptied their show windows and several prepared to barricade the expensive panes of glass in the event of trouble.

East Liberty Merchants Score Lack of Protection in Riots

Daniel B. Hart, head of Harts Furniture Company, 6268 Frankstown avenue, resenting rioting of the last few days in East Liberty in a statement today said:

"The unwarranted scenes to which I have been an eye witness in the last few days, where men have been stoned, while property, even that of my own store, has been damaged with malice and willfulness in retaliation for a grievous situation which has no place in modern civilization, convinces me that the time has come when the powers that be should show their strength and adjust the wrongs.

DEPLORES VIOLENCE

We boast of our city as being typical of all that is desirable in America. I am sure that the unholy scenes of the last few days in East Liberty are not condusive to the onward rise of American worthwhileness.

Law-abiding citizens treated like lawless mobs, property damaged, men injured, police finding it hard to cope with the situation, all these things should have no place in our modern [illegible]."

ARBITRATION PROPOSED

Appointment of a board of prominent citizens who would work for a satisfactory understanding between the strikers and officials of the cab companies would be the logical move for the mayor at this time, he said.

Harry Fisher, manager of the Hahn Furniture Company, Broad street and Frankstown avenue, declared that the situation should be given official consideration at once.

Action by the East Liberty Chamber of Commerce, of which many business concerns suffering damage from the riots are members, should be taken to bring pressure to bear upon the proper city officials, he said.

TEACHES CRIME TO SONS, JAILED

A father who taught his two sons knowledge that sent both out in a brief but eventful career of crime was sentenced to a term of from three and a half to seven years in the Western Penitentiary by Visiting Judge William A. McConnell of Beaver County today after he had been found guilty in Criminal Court of several larceny charges.

The defendant, Steve Marovich, 42, of Forward Township, West Elizabeth, was found guilty along with his son, Andrew, 17, who was sentenced to the Morganza Training School until he is 21. Another son, 12, was turned over to the custody of the Juvenile Court.

The trio was arrested by State Trooper Charles J. Hanna of the Greensburg barracks with the theft of six automobiles, a water pump and three 10-gallon cans of milk. The thefts extended over a period of several weeks, it was testified.

The father, according to Assistant District Attorney James H. Geltz, sent the sons several times to places where cars were parked and had them assist him in ringing them to the Marovich home.

Charges against Marovich growing out of the alleged finding of a still on his farm when the trio was arrested are still pending against Marovich.

Rewards Up for Avalon Dog Poisoners

Dog poisoners are active in Avalon. Following the latest outrage against family pets, rewards totaling $500 have been offered for the arrest of offenders.

W. T. Shaffer, of 639 California avenue, Avalon, offered a reward of $100 last night after his collie had been found in the roadside the victim of poison. Shaffer valued the dog highly because of the affection shown it by his two growing sons.

Police Chief Louis F. Luckan early today began a rigid investigation into the poisonings, a total of five dogs having been killed in recent months, he said. Most of the animals killed were the property of citizens residing north of California avenue, police said.

Among Avalon citizens who have offered rewards for the apprehension of those responsible for the destruction of dogs is Burgess Grant Ritchie, who has promised $50.

Chief Luckan today requested co-operation of all North Boroughs police and citizens to bring about the arrest of the poisoner.

SCHANTZ FEARS BUREAUCRACY

PHILADELPHIA Feb 14 (AP)—State Senator Burton W Schantz of Berks, in addressing the Lincoln Republican club urged a more aggressive attitude by the legislative branches of the government.

"The executive and executive branches of government have invaded the realm of the legislative," he said. "If the legislative department themselves more they would be protected better . . . as they are now.

"See to it that you have the sort of representatives at Harrisburg and in Congress who have enough backbone to represent you directly.

"There seems to be a new sectionalism in the country, extending to Congress a sectionalism along economic lines, the West against the East. And they send to us the Brookharts and the Couzens to tell us in Pennsylvania whom we shall and shall not send to the United States Senate.

"It is time Pennsylvania asserted itself and showed its teeth."

Senator Schantz, who has been mentioned as a possible compromise candidate for governor when asked about his position on the governorship replied that it was one of "watchful waiting."

WINDS HAMPER WILKINS

(Special Dispatch to San Francisco Examiner and Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph)

SAN FRANCISCO Feb 14 (AP)—Buffeting severe head winds the steamer William Scoresby is approaching Deception Island with Capt Sir Hubert Wilkins, leader of the Wilkins-Hearst Antarctic Expedition and his three aides who have been for more than two weeks in the ice floe in the South Polar regions.

For a brief period the radio station at Wilkins' Deception Island base was in communication with the Examiner's San Francisco radio station KUP.

The message to the Examiner read:

"Wilkins is bound full speed for Deception Island and should arrive here about 10 a m today but due to heavy head winds he may be delayed.

"As soon as he arrives the whole party will board the steamer Henrik Ibsen which is now lying at anchor in the harbor and will leave for Montevideo.

"On account of the heavy winds it is very uncertain as to the exact time of arrival of the Scoresby. She may not get here until late in the afternoon."

"Your honor," he said solemnly, "this man wants to have his case called. He says he is going to catch a freight."

OTTAWA Ont Feb 14—(AP) John Y Johnstone, four of whose landscapes hang in Canada's National Art Gallery, is dead in Havana, Cuba, a pauper according to word received by James Purcell, Hull district revenue collector and an old friend of the artist.

Johnstone, who was 42, went to Cuba six weeks ago. Purcell and others have subscribed to a fund to prevent the artist's body from being interred in the potter's field.

Blame Racketeers In Man's Slaying

CHICAGO Feb 14 (INS)—The plottings of a bootleg syndicate today were blamed for the slaying of a man believed to be James Grant, village clerk of Broadview, whose charred body was found in the smouldering ruins of a destroyed farm house. Bullet wounds found on the body indicate that the victim was lured there yesterday, shot to death by his associates who soaked the house with gasoline then set it afire.

9 MILLIONS IN BRITISH SLUMS

LONDON, Feb 14.—(AP.)—In an attack on slum conditions in Britain, Bishop Cyril Carbett, of Southwark, told the Canterbury convocation of the Church o England that 9,000,000 persons were living under conditions of overcrowding in the country. Two million children live in slums in England and Wales, and conditions were even worse in Scotland. In Bermondsey, London 276 families were living with more than five persons to one room.

"It is a perpetual miracle of faith that such people are able to preserve their Christian faith under such hideous detrimental conditions," he said.

The bishop of Lichfield remarked that in some of the smaller country towns also there were appalling slums.

ART TREASURES OPTIONED

PHILADELPHIA Feb 14—(AP.)—Announcement was made here that the Pennsylvania Museum of Art in this city has an option on the purchase of the Edmond Foulc collection of Gothic and Renaissance art objects long treasured by Fraince and considered one of the most valuable collections of its kind in the world.

With the announcement it was revealed that the great French collection was at present in the Pennsylvania museum.

The exact option price was not given, but was said to be between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000. A group of patrons of the museum advanced $200,000 necessary to obtain the option, which expires next June.

For a single one of the collection's 101 objects—a Madonna and Child, by Luca Bella Robbia—Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, was reported to have offered representatives of the Foulc estate $300,000.

TALK TRAINING OF MINISTERS

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 14.—(AP.)—The executive board of the United Lutheran Church in America at a conference here considered a policy for the church to follow in the training of ministers for foreign language congregations in America.

The problem was referred to a committee of five for investigation and a report will be made to the executive board in May. The treasurer's report was regarded by the board as very favorable and showed a better condition existing in the church than for some years in the past.

The board also discussed the question of establishing a bureau of church architecture, to correlate modern art forms with the needs and requirements of the church, as well as to act in an advisory capacity to congregations on the financing and maintaining of new churches.

CONVICT BOLTS HOSPITAL

BALTIMORE Feb 14 (AP)—Clad in his night clothes Julius Miller, 31, escaped shortly after midnight from the Spring Grove State Hospital, forcing a guard Charles Smith, at the point of a pistol to open the outer door for him. He fled into the darkness.

The guard summoned Dr Robert E. Garrett, superintendent of the hospital and a posse was organized to pursue the patient.

Miller was sentenced last summer from Baltimore to the state penitentiary for 21 years for attacking a woman. A short time after being admitted to the penitentiary he was transferred to the hospital.

DOCTORS HERE INTERESTED IN CANCER DRIVE

Physicians Watch Results Of Research Work Done by Two Scientists on Coast

Pittsburgh physicians are tremendously interested in the new treatment of cancer discovered by Drs. Walter B. Coffey and John D. Humber, of San Francisco. It has been a subject of eager discussion here ever since the Sun-Telegraph with the other Hearst newspapers first gave the news to the world.

Dr. C. B. Maits, director of public health, said today he awaited with keen anticipation further results of the San Francisco doctors' experiments. He was reluctant to comment on their work for publication, fearing he said, he might raise hopes in cancer sufferers that would be doomed to disappointment.

CURE NOT CLAIMED

"Drs. Coffey and Humber do not claim to have discovered a cure," he said, "and we must guard against thinking of their treatment as a cure until it has been successful in numerous and severe tests. As Amos and Andy say, we must 'check and double check.'

"I do not mind saying, though, that if it proves to be what we hope, it will take rank with the discovery of vaccination as a preventative of smallpox and the discovery of antitoxin as a cure for diphtheria as one of the greatest blessings that medical science has conferred upon mankind."

The treatment of the two California doctors consists in injecting into the patient, in a part of the body remote from the cancer, a serum extracted from the cortex of the suprarenal glands of sheep. In several cases it has had the apparent effect of causing the malignant tissue to die and slough off, and it is this that has aroused the hope that the long sought remedy for the dreaded malady has at last been found.

CAUTION IS URGED

"At this stage of the experiment," said Dr. Maits, "we must be cautious in making an estimate of the value of the treatment, because other treatments—the lead treatment, for example—that had been hailed as promising turned out to be failures.

"Anything that gives the faintest promise of curing cancer is of transcendent interest because cancer has become a public health problem of the first importance. As a cause of death in the United States it jumped from sixth place in 1900 to second place in 1927. Its mortality rate has been increasing throughout the country. In Pittsburgh last year we had 578 deaths of residents from cancer; in 1928 the number was 573, and in 1927 it was 543.

"In the early stages of the disease, if the cancer is extirpated as by surgery, the patient may get well. In the later stages—after what we call metastasis sets in—we have no way of coping with it. And so we will rejoice with the greatest enthusiasm if the California researchers' experiments develop as we hope they will. But let us not be too sanguine."

FOG HALTS BIG SHIP IN N. Y.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—(AP.)—The liner Arcadian, outbound for Bermuda with 260 passengers, yesterday ran afoul a buoy in thick fog in the lower harbor.

Reports said the ship was not damaged and no one was injured. Officials of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company, owners of the vessel, said she would remain anchored on the spot, however, until the buoy chain could be cleared and an inspection made.

Fog delayed the sailing of three other outgoing liners. The America, of the United States Lines, left her pier in Hoboken, N. J., during the morning, but was forced to anchor outside of Quarantine until late afternoon. The Empress of France, of the Canadian Pacific Line, and the President Van Buren, of the Dollar Line, were held at their piers until late last night.

JOBLESS RIOTS BREAK IN SPAIN

LONDON, Feb. 14.—(INS.)—Serious rioting by unemployed in various parts of Spain is harassing the new administration of Premier Damaso Berenguer, according to dispatches received here today.

Huge demonstrations occurred in Madrid, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Hendaye, and serious consequences were avoided only by timely action of police.

More than 1,000 unemployed marched about the outskirts of Madrid endeavoring to reach the royal palace to flaunt their banners, according to this dispatch.

Other dispatches received here by the Daily News told of outbreaks of a revolutionary character at Sagunto. There 4,000 strikers and unemployed clashed with police and the government was forced to dispatch reinforcements from Valencia.

Man Near Death In Fall on Stairs

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Feb. 14.—Injured in a fall downstairs at the Hartman Hotel, Ajaulo early today, John Povets, 35, was in a critical condition in the Citizens General Hospital here. He sustained a fractured skull and body injuries in the fall.

CAMERA EATING PROTESTED

FRANKFORT-ON-MAIN, Feb. 14.—(AP.)—A violent protest against the heads of the government always being photographed during the act of eating was filed by a little German fraulein of 12 in a letter to Dr. Julius Curtius, the foreign minister, reproduced in the Frankfurter Zeitung.

Elfriede Sehring, as mouthpiece for her classmates, states in her letter that while she and her companions have the greatest respect for the country's leader, they cannot see why these gentlemen should invariably have their pictures taken while eating and drinking the choicest wines.

"For instance," she writes, "you did not go to The Hague conference to dine well and hold after-dinner speeches, did you? What do you suppose the poor people will think who always see pictures of you eating and drinking, while they often have to go to bed hungry themselves? Of course, we don't expect you to give up all the good things offered you at these luncheons and dinners, but you might at least see to it that your pictures are not always taken when you are enjoying all these goodies. And if the photographers insist on doing it anyhow, you certainly have the authority to stop them.

"Perhaps you consider this letter pretty cheeky, but it is well meant and I beg your pardon. Best regards."

Washington Police Make Lottery Raid

WASHINGTON, Pa., Feb. 14.—Emmett Merritt, 35, Negro who is said to have had a corps of girls and men working as his agents, was taken in custody when officers raided his home here and found three adding machines, tickets and other equipment they say was used in the clearing house lottery racket.

Army Intelligence Average Claim Held Fake

Kiwanians today are cheered at the prospects of the human race. Average intelligence is higher than 11 years, they were told.

That, at least, is what Prof. Max Schoen told them at their weekly luncheon at the Fort Pitt Hotel yesterday.

Deductions made by psychologists from the army intelligence tests that the average mental age of World War soldiers was 11 years, is false, Schoen maintains. As head of the psychology department at Carnegie Institute of Technology, Schoen says he has carefully examined the tests and found the examiners drew the conclusions they wanted, because they were sensational.

"Human intelligence," he said, "measured psychologically, has no average. Training is intelligence. So any man has unlimited opportunity to increase his intelligence, his abilities to make money."

Call Hoover Names, 10 Held Under Bail

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 14.—(INS.)—Ten persons alleged to have taken part in a meeting here in which President Hoover was called Wall Street's messenger boy, were held under bail today for action by the grand jury. The 10, alleged Communists, were arrested on charges of "making speeches inciting sedition against the national and city governments."

Child Burned While Playing Near Stove

When her clothing caught fire while playing near a gas stove last night, Mabel Jury 1, of 2005 West street, Homestead, suffered burns of the body and legs. She was given treatment at the Homestead Hospital and afterward taken home.

GUARD BANK AS RUBBISH BURNS

While more than a dozen city and private police stood guard, firemen early this morning fought a stubborn, smoky fire in the basement of the Real Estate Savings and Trust Company of Allegheny, 516-518 Federal street, North Side. Firemen were forced to use gas masks to enter the basement.

Battalion Chief Michael Shanahan estimated the damage at $500 and said that the fire originated in bales of waste paper. The cause of the fire is not known. A number of police held in the North Side station for emergency duty during the taxicab strike were sent to the fire and kept watch on the bank property. Special watchmen also were on duty.

Bank records and bank stationery, stored in a vault in the basement, escaped undamaged. Firemen were endangered when flames threatened to reach the ammonia fumes of a cooling system. The lines were shut off by the first firemen entering the building. The blaze was discovered by Charles Knorr, engineer.

Veteran Yale Dean To Retire in June

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 14.—(AP.)—Dean Wilbur L. Cross, of Yale Graduate School, will retire as dean and sterling professor of English in June, it was announced by President James Rowland Angell. He will be succeeded by Prof. Edgar S. Furniss, assistant dean, the appointment being effective July 1.

Dean Cross generally considered among America's leading literary critics, has been editor of "The Yale Review" since 1911. He joined the Yale faculty in 1894 as an instructor in English literature.

False Vatican Colors Cover Robberies

ROME, Feb. 14.—(AP.)—Operating with a motorcycle fancily flying the papal colors, Gino Campagnesi did a sizeable business in thievery until the police stopped him.

Campagnesi commanded a gang which specialized in looting apartments.

Operations of the bandits extended as far as Legnorn and Forli, police say, because of the speed of their motorcycles and the immunity the false Vatican City flag assured them.

BANK SHORTAGE NOW $173,000

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—(INS.)—Embezzlements totaling $173,000 had been found today by examiners studying the books of the defunct Peoples State Bank of Maywood. The bank closed last Saturday several days after the disappearance of its girl cashier, Miss Laverne Lindgren.

Warrants charging embezzlement and the acceptance of deposits when they knew the bank to be insolvent have been issued against the young woman and her sponsor, Elmer P. Langguth, the bank president.

Assistant State's Attorney Edward Markham said last night that the shortage probably will amount to several hundred thousand dollars more.

Markham said he learned from questioning employes of the bank that Langguth and Miss Lindgren had been manipulating the ledgers for at least two years, or since shortly after the girl, who had been a telephone operator, was elevated to more responsible positions.

MISSING CO-ED BACK HOME

PEPPERELL, Mass., Feb. 14.—(AP.)—Mary Howe is home again, reluctant to discuss a hitch-hiking adventure which she admitted took her farther West than Montana. Nor would she say what had become of Max, the collie dog she took with her.

The 19-year-old Colby College student disappeared from the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. E. D. Howe, last August. She was clad in a Boy Scout uniform.

Her worried parents had started a widespread search for her when they received a postal card informing them that she had reached Erie, Pa., and that she was en route to Missoula, Mont. The dog, she said, was acting as her protector. Other communications described her progress westward, but after she reached the Mississippi, the information ceased, so far as the public was concerned, at least.

At the time of her disappearance, it was learned, she was much interested in a series of magazine articles supposedly written by a forest ranger stationed at Missoula.

It was learned that the girl did not hitch-hike on her return journey.

Berlin Police Open Drive Against Reds

BERLIN, Feb. 14.—(AP.)—Police opened a campaign against so-called Communist groups, raiding offices, seizing documents and dissolving the organizations.

The organizations are more Communist than anti-Fascist, police say. They declare that seized documents prove clearly the anti-Fascist groups are organizing a campaign of terrorism in Germany and that they protect Communist criminals from arrest.

BUDGET PAYMENT PLAN

An easy, convenient method of enjoying and using your purchase while you pay. Many persons are finding it most helpful in the Furniture Sale. Ask the salesman.

Read This!—a Different Kind of Furniture Advertisement!

Frankly—we have one prime objective—to have you come—see—examine—the Furniture in this February Sale, whether you buy or not! We hesitated a long time before we decided to run this kind of ad. The usual course would be to take pages of advertising—illustrate with pictures—describe fully—this, Our Greatest February Furniture Sale.

Pointedly—this message is not attempting to "sell" you on the innumerable details of Rosenbaum's Furniture Sale—you'll find the details when you investigate—and you'll marvel at them. This is to "sell" you on the truth and modesty of the statement that Rosenbaum's are in the Furniture business—in earnest—and are now having a Sale that you or no one else can possibly afford to miss.

There are other good Furniture Departments in Pittsburgh—lots of them—which makes the comparison all the more interesting. You'll get the best, the most impressive, and the most convincing evidence by comparing Rosenbaum's with the best you know of—and the results of such comparison will accrue to our benefit—and yours. You can compare generalities, but not details, because (note this) 75% of the Rosenbaum furniture will be found nowhere else; it is exclusive with Rosenbaum's—consequently will be exclusive with you—the best in America—Quality Furniture—Fashion right Furniture and priced on a most appealing basis. With the result—shattering all selling records for February.

Of Course—You'll come to Rosenbaum's Saturday if you are in the market for Furniture!
Again—with persistence—we say—Come—if only to compare!—You'll be thrilled!

INVISIBLE LIGHT GUARDS CASH

NEW YORK, Feb. 14 (AP)—A $50 bill was locked in a safe and an invisible ray was turned on it. Any attempt to open the safe can pick up the money, thereby making it a second an age.

The ray was set up at a meeting of the New York Illuminating Engineering Society in the Westinghouse Lighting Institute. E. James T. McCay, research engineer of the Westinghouse Lamp Company, said it was almost certain the money would remain safe, definitely defying the ray awaiting all efforts of attack and finally solves the scientific riddle.

The bill was placed in a safe that locked somewhere across the room. The safe, probably across the room, an ultra-violet ray was placed. The ray is harmless and cannot be felt by human touch. It is invisible either in darkness or light. It "shines," so to speak, upon a photo-electric eye some distance away. Anyone attempting to open up the safe interrupts the ray, thereby casting an unseen "shadow" upon the mechanical eye. Thereupon the eye actually goes. Bing! Ringing a burglar alarm.

U. S. BOATS IN CHINA GUARDED

SHANGHAI, Feb. 14 (AP)—Widespread depredations by bandit armies and renewed tribulations in Honan Province has harassed the Nationalist government of China. American shipping lived upon by bandits was given United States warship convoy.

Apparently the Nationalist government has moved its forces against the bandits only in Kwangtung Province of which Canton is the capital. Extensive depredations in that province caused the government to prepare an expedition of troops and its gunboats.

In Hunan, Kiangsi, Hupeh, Szechwan, Anhwei and Kiangsu Provinces bandit armies, largely composed of former soldiers, are pillaging towns, hampering shipping and making travel in interior China unsafe. Bands of armed women bandits are perpetrating highway robberies South of Peiping, the former capital.

Soviet Calls Back Norway Trade Group

LONDON, Feb. 14 (INS)—The Soviet government has ordered the Soviet trade mission in Norway to return to Moscow immediately, it was reported in a Central News dispatch from Oslo today. Reasons for the action are not known.

It's comforting to know that if you need money you can get it. A glance at the "Loan Ads" in the Classified Section will give you the names of money firms which will be glad to serve you.

VIEWS WANTED ON PHILIPPINES BY PHYSICIANS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP)—Heads of the State and War departments have been invited to give their opinions on the advisability of Philippine independence to the Senate Territories Committee in the executive session.

Acting heads of the State and Navy departments or other high officials may appear before the secretaries return from the London naval conference if they so desire.

"We have invited the views of the departments that have been close to the conditions," said Senator Bingham, Rep., of Connecticut, chairman of the committee, "and we will be glad to have any offered."

The committee has before it a number of bills seeking to grant independence to the islands or otherwise to change their status. Since the question was raised by Senator King (Dem.) of Utah in a suggestion on the Senate floor that independence be provided in an amendment to the tariff bill the issue has been widely agitated.

ELECTION HELD BY PHYSICIANS

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 14 (AP)—Dr. S. Marx White, of Minneapolis, director and head of the department of medicine at the University of Minnesota, was chosen president-elect of the American College of Physicians meeting here.

He has served as vice president and will advance to the presidency at the expiration of the term of Dr. Sydney Miller of Baltimore, who was advanced to the presidency.

Dr. A. F. Warthin of Ann Arbor, Mich., was named first vice president, Dr. E. M. Pottenger of Monrovia, Cal., second vice president and Dr. John A. Lichty of Clifton Springs, N. Y., third vice president.

Members elected to the board of regents include John H. Musser, New Orleans, retiring president and C. H. Perry Pepper of Philadelphia.

Physicians elected to the board of governors include William H. Deaderick, Hot Springs, Ark.; Randolph Lyons, New Orleans; Charles Jennings, Detroit; Edward Exeter, N. H., and W. Blair Stewart, Atlantic City, N. J.; Charles H. Cocke, Asheville, N. C.; Fred J. Farnell, Providence, R. I.; Robert Wilson, Jr., Charleston, S. C.; Clarence H. Beechel, Burlington, Vt.; J. H. Hutcheson, Richmond, Va.; John N. Simpson, Morgantown, W. Va., and D. Slater, Lewiss, Montreal.

Lawmakers Hear Attack Upon Blue Laws

BOSTON, Feb. 14 (INS)—The famed "blue laws" of Boston were attacked here as the joint committee on legal affairs considered changes in the Lord's Day act.

It was proposed to change the act to allow bootblacks to shine shoes on Sunday and suburbanites to work in their gardens on the Sabbath. Photographers also would be allowed to ply their trade on the day of rest.

It was further proposed to legalize playing of bridge and whist for prizes.

Man, 121, Wants Pension for Rest of Life

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Feb. 14 (AP)—Celestino Mejia, who gave his age as 121, came up on foot to the capital from the distant village of Lamani to ask Congress for a pension during the rest of his life. Mejia still has the full use of his faculties and remembers the campaign for the independence of Honduras clearly.

PRICE KIDNAP PAIR IN JAIL

NEW YORK, Feb. 14 (INS)—Samuel Mandel and Hatty Fleisch, both of Detroit, alleged kidnapers of Max Price, wealthy New Haven realtor, were held in $50,000 bail for further hearing Saturday, when their case was called in Tombs court.

As a result of the treatment he received from his captors, Price was unable to appear in court. Charles A. Harrison, who described himself as a New Haven attorney, represented the prosecutor of the Connecticut city.

Unable to furnish bail, Mandel and Fleisch went back to the Tombs prison.

Expert Tells Why Sailors Prefer Blondes

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 14 (AP)—A sailor seeks a blonde when he reaches port because he is saved with the blue and blue-green of the ocean and his nerves demand rest in the form of softer colors.

At least, that's what A. E. Lawrence, San Francisco color consultant, told members of the Oregon Retail Hardware Association here.

Color is being reduced from sentiment to science and proper tints are becoming "the thing" in the business world, he said.

LIQUOR RADIO PLANT SEIZED

NEW YORK, Feb. 14 (AP)—Federal agents last night raided a bungalow in Inwood, L. I., which they said contained a powerful radio station used in communicating with rum runners along the Atlantic coast. The alleged operator of the station was arrested.

The agents said that when they entered the bungalow the operator, whose name was not immediately available, was in the act of communicating in code with a vessel at sea. The apparatus was confiscated.

The agents said they had been seeking the location of the radio station for three months.

Pardon my curiosity, Ed!—

—but here it's only our second day out and you're wearing your third different suit. Yesterday, it was that good-looking tweed. Last night, that smart tuxedo. And now this one which I like best of all. You must spend a fortune for clothes!"

"On the contrary, Gloria—I actually spend very little. I wear Fintex Clothes and since they're only twenty-three fifty, I get an entire wardrobe for what a couple of suits used to cost me!"

Fintex Clothes are teaching the modern man the importance of a wardrobe of fine clothes by placing them within easy reach. Such a distinctive clothing quality is possible at $23.50, however, only because of the planning and power of a great organization with its own factory and stores.

DECRIES HOTEL PADLOCKS

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Hotels should not be padlocked for prohibition violations unless liquor sales have been traced definitely to the management, Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran said today.

No report had been received on the move of Administrator Maurice Campbell of New York City, to get an injunction to close the Manger Hotel property, Doran declared however that the hotel padlocking plan in New York did not mean there was a nation-wide movement afoot to check prohibition violations with that weapon.

Prohibition administrators have been advised by dry officials not to seek padlock injunctions against hotels unless it appeared the management was participating.

The policy has been to give the hotels a chance to clean up their own property and to prefer charges against employes guilty of violations.

CHICAGO RAISES PAYROLL CASH

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—The gloom of 20,000 city employes, who have gone payless for nearly two months, turned to joy today with the announcement that half of their long overdue salaries will be paid Monday in bona fide and cashable checks.

Money with which to meet the city's unpaid payroll will be borrowed partly from the city's corporate fund and partly from the vehicle tax fund, it was announced by Charles S. Peterson, city treasurer, and George K. Schmidt, city comptroller, authors of the relief move.

News of this first cash relief spread through the City Hall. It came when the morale of employes was at a low ebb and rumors of a walkout were heard from many sources. Hundreds of city employes' families are facing eviction from their homes for non-payment of rent.

WOMAN SLAYER WAITS PENALTY

ASHLAND, Miss., Feb. 14 (AP.)—Mrs. Pearl Drew, who confessed she shot and killed her husband after her father had been convicted of the crime, today awaited sentencing after pleading guilty to a manslaughter charge.

She was indicted for murder yesterday, but Judge Tom Pegram permitted her to plead guilty to the lesser charge. He directed her to appear tomorrow for sentencing.

One of Mrs. Drew's four children, Dorothy, 7, had been the principal witness against her grandfather, T. D. Gunther.

Shortly after the birth of her fourth child, Mrs. Drew confessed and the governor suspended a five-year sentence which her father had received. She said she had remained silent because she was an expectant mother.

Couldn't Pay Fine, Film Actress Jailed

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 14.—(AP.)—Marian Morrell, motion picture actress, arrested recently with Art Acord, film actor, on prohibition law violation charges, was in jail today because she could not pay a fine of $150 assessed in Municipal Court. Acord several weeks ago was fined $150 on similar charges. Acord and the actress were arrested at the latter's apartment after a taxicab driver complained he had been thrown downstairs when he attempted to collect a fare.

CHINA PIRATES SEIZE 12 OIL VESSELS

Ransom Demanded From Standard; Climax to Series Of Outrages in Country

CANTON, Feb. 14.—(AP.)—A gang of pirates operating in the West River delta south of here today seized a fleet of 12 vessels, chartered by the Standard Oil Company of New York, and are holding the ships for ransom. The vessels are Chinese junks and were carrying oil worth $50,000 gold. The American consul here sent a protest to the Canton military.

Seizure of the oil fleet climaxed an outbreak of lawlessness which has been worrying the authorities of Kwangtung province for some time. The Nationalist government, aroused by the extensive depredations, sent an expedition of troops and ordered five gunboats to proceed against the lawless element in the province.

Bandit activities in this area comprise only a small part of the lawlessness which has swept various provinces of China recently. The Nationalist government thus far apparently has taken no concerted action against banditry except in Kwangtung.

Bandit armies are roaming through Hunan, Kiangsi, Rupeh, Szechwan, Anhwei and Kiangsu provinces, pillaging towns, hampering shipping and making travel in the interior unsafe for foreigners.

River boats between Hankow and Chunkiang have been fired upon frequently, as have vessels plying between Chungkiang and Hankow. Marauders in Hunan province, posing as provincial soldiers, have stopped ships of the Standard Oil Company and searched them on the pretext that they were suspected of carrying contraband.

General Shih Yu-San, former Nationalist commander who led his division in a mutiny at Pukw, last December, was reported to have 30,000 men at Kweiteh, Honan province, ready for a drive against the Nationalist government.

STUDENT MOB FREES 13

ALBION, Mich., Feb. 14.—(INS.)—A hundred Albion College students early today tore down the front of the city jail with pickaxes to release 13 fellow students held by police after a riot at a theater.

Unable to cope with the mob, police called for state police for aid. They used tear gas bombs without effect. The riot was quelled when John Seaton, president of the Methodists' college, pleaded with the students.

The 13 students who escaped were charged with breaking jail, a felony. Fifty others were to be taken to court on disorderly conduct charges.

The rioting began after the Albion basketball team administered a surprise defeat to the team from Alma College.

The students rushed toward the Bohm Theater in the hopes of gaining free admission. Turned away, 150 managed to force their way in.

The doors of the theater were locked and 13, believed to be leaders, were taken to jail.

Britain to Return Weihaiwei to China

SHANGHAI, Feb. 14.—(AP.)—C. T. Wang, foreign minister of the Chinese central government, today announced draft of an agreement with Great Britain, providing for retrocession to China of the leasehold of Weihaiwei. The agreement has been initialed and upon being approved by the British government will be signed. Wang said that the agreement had been reached in negotiations with the British Minister Lampson and that the retrocession of Weihaiwei would be the first step toward return of all leased territory in China now held by foreigners.

New York Facing Two New Walkouts

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—(INS.)—With a production loss of about $15,000,000 charged to the dressmakers' strike which ended this week, New York today faced two new strikes.

The building wreckers' union and the children's dressmaking union prepared for walkouts today. Higher pay is asked by both unions. The new dressmaking strike, if ordered, would affect 8,000 girls and women.

TOKIO, Feb. 14.—(AP.)—Word that the much-married Chang Tsung-Chang, former war lord of Shantung province, had wedded again at Beppu, Kyushu, where he had been living as a refugee, reached Tokio today.

Cabin Class Liners that make economy smart!

THE after-college set . . . the smart young married couples on holiday . . . habitual trans-Atlantic commuters of the arts who know their Paris and can't wait three thousand miles to reach her . . . these make the crowd one finds on the cabin class ships of the French Line. ••• Cuisine that is French in fact as well as name . . . atmosphere that swings from the brilliant talk at the "Dome" to the electric gayety of Montmartre . . . or the subtle chic of the Ritz . . . sophistication that takes itself for granted . . . service that anticipates every wish. ••• Breton sailors, born to the sea as a bird is born for the air. ••• To sail by the "Lafayette," the "de Grasse" or the "Rochambeau" is to walk into France the moment you cross "the longest gangplank in the world."

Five and a half days to Plymouth, England

For luxury with every last frill and speed that shrinks the Atlantic to a charming interlude, take the "France," the "Paris" or the "Ile de France" of the de luxe Weekly Express Service . . . a waiting express for London, a few hours later the covered pier at Havre, three hour express to Paris.

No Schools for 2,800 When Cash Runs Out

RIDGELAND, S. C., Feb. 14.—(INS.)—Approximately 2,800 children attending the 36 Jasper County schools were on vacation today as the result of the closing of the county system yesterday because of lack of funds.

State Senator Mary G. Ellis notified local authorities that she would contest any loan negotiated with the Peoples' Surety Company of Charleston. School authorities had been trying to borrow to pay salaries and expenses.

Mary Lewis Doesn't Care If Mate Weds

SANTA MONICA, CAL., Feb. 14.—(INS.)—Reports from Berlin to the effect that Michael Bohnen, singer-husband of Mary Lewis, grand opera star, intends to marry La Jana, a German dancer, failed to perturb Miss Lewis today.

"He can't marry her yet," she said, "but if he does, it will simplify my standing in court when I file my divorce suit here in May."

Auto Magnate's Son Flies to Sick Wife

KEY WEST, Fla., Feb. 14.—(AP.)—After an air-rail dash from Chicago to Key West, in which many difficulties were encountered, Bruce Strong, of Chicago, son of E. T. Strong, automotive magnate, arrived here today and went to the bedside of his wife, seriously ill with pneumonia. Strong was accompanied by Dr. C. B. Shipley, his family physician. They brought a tank of oxygen to be used in the treatment of Mrs. Strong.

Find Plant Damaged In Theft Of Junk

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Feb. 14.—Motors and other machinery at the idle plant of the Yough Sand Company, along the Youghiogheny River, have been damaged to the extent of some $4,000 by persons after brass, copper and other junk, it was revealed when police arrested Homer Lennox, 14, whom they claimed to have been in the act of breaking up a motor.

McKees Rocks Driver Hurt in Tunnel Crash

E. J. Sponsler, 31, of 602 Charters avenue, McKees Rocks, was injured painfully this morning when an automobile he was driving struck a coal truck in Forbes street at the north end of the Armstrong Tunnels. He was treated in Mercy Hospital for cuts. Police say Sponsler's machine hit a truck of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, driven by Joseph Reid, 41, of 2934 Wylie avenue.

MILL MEN RAKE CHURCH REPORT

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Feb. 14. Such leaders of the Midwest iron and steel industry as James A. Campbell, chairman of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co.; Frank Purnell, president of the same company; E. T. McCleary, president of the Republic Iron & Steel Co., and others declare misleading a report by the Federal Council of Churches indicating that iron and steel companies are returning to the 10, 12 and 14-hour day and are instituting a seven-day week.

"Absolutely false and misleading," is the way Youngstown steel men characterize the church report, issued as the weekly bulletin of the council.

MINIMUM WAGE

Others such as Harry Balch, superintendent of the McDonald Rolling Mills of the Carnegie Steel Co.; Elias Jenkins, secretary of the Western Association of Sheet & Tin Plate Manufacturers, and Walter Meub, secretary of the Sheet & Tube Company, point out that Youngstown district workers for the most part are on an eight-hour day basis; that there are no regular jobs in the local mills requiring more than 10 hours per day, and that the minimum wage in the Valleys is 44 cents per hour, for common labor.

The basic wage rate for steel plants of this district is 44 cents per hour on the 10-hour shifts and 50 cents per hour on the continuous eight-hour turns, these executives point out. In rolling mills all workers except common laborers are paid on a tonnage-rate basis.

EIGHT-HOUR DAYS

In departments requiring continuous operations, such as blast furnaces and by-product coke oven plants, workers are usually on an 8-hour basis and receive one day off in every ten, getting Sundays off in their turn. In practically all the rolling mills except tube mills in the Bessemer department, open hearth plants, sheet, strip and tinplate mills, the workers are on 8-hour shifts, working five and one-half days per week. Common yard laborers and workers in tube mills and the shops work generally 10 hours per day. There are no 12-hour shifts in the Youngstown district, these having been abolished at the time the 8-hour day was introduced into the industry. The 8-hour men are by far in the majority in this territory.

52-HOUR WEEK

Last year the average wage paid steel mill workers in the Youngstown district was $1,800 and the average work per week 52 hours.

Occasionally in changing shifts over the week-end millwrights work continuously for 12 hours, but this condition is the exception and not the rule.

In steel fabricating plants, majority of the men work eight and nine hours per day.

The [illegible] whether [illegible] issue ses[illegible] ties th[illegible] to solve [illegible] tated by [illegible] The stock [illegible] plan of [illegible] short [illegible]

COURT CROWDED

Judge [illegible] said [illegible] to the stockholders [illegible] whether [illegible] and [illegible] glad to [illegible] sition that [illegible] ship [illegible] such a [illegible] mitted without recommendation from him and the receivership hearing will be resumed 10 days after the stockholders' meeting date of which has not yet been set.

Milton J. Bogue, counsel for Halsey-Stuart Company, [illegible] creditors and former Fox bankers with whom Fox reached an impasse, sought an opportunity to submit a financing plan and the court ordered that [illegible] corporation records be made available to him.

The [illegible] chambers were crowded with lawyers and stockholders when Judge Coleman resumed consideration of plans how to save the $250,000,000 corporation with a world-wide motion picture business from a receivership sought by some stockholders.

APPROVE BANK PLAN

Samuel Untermyer, counsel for Fox, announced that the board of directors [illegible] a vote of [illegible] had approved the bankers' plan of refinancing. It was subject to cancellation by Halsey-Stuart Company of its [illegible] preferential contract for handling any further financing of the corporation, and Bogue immediately announced that such consent would not be given.

Robert T. Swaine, counsel for the bankers' group, including Lehman Brothers, Bancamerica-Blair Corporation, and Dillon, Read & Co., said that protests would be waived.

Bogue said Halsey-Stuart Company objected to the Lehman Brothers plan not only because of its cost, but also because it did not provide for future financing. He added that his concern was prepared to put forward a plan which would not tie up the future credit of the company. George G. Pratt, counsel for the Electric Research, Inc., which with Halsey-Stuart are the largest creditors, said his client objected to the plan for the same reasons. Both Untermyer and Swaine denied the statement that future financing was jeopardized.

OBJECTS TO COST

Martin Conboy, who said he represented 5,500 Class A shares, suggested that a receivership might be the "lesser of two evils." He made the statement after Judge Coleman pointed out to him that in view of Fox's controlling interest and his opposition to Halsey-Stuart he saw no other alternative to the present plan than a receivership.

Conboy objected to the stockholders having to pay $975,000 to the banking syndicate if they reject the plan. Judge Coleman asked if that were not a usual feature of such contracts in underwriting financial issues.

Counsel for a stockholder holding 18,000 Class B shares said the plan was acceptable, while another said that while he objected to some features of it, it was far better than a receivership.

SCHOOL CLASH ARBITRATED

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 14 (AP)—City officials and the county school board agreed to put solution of the questions about use and safeguarding of the school buildings into the hands of a committee selected at the meeting. Discussion of the differences between the two bodies led to selection of the committee, with Mayor Walter F. Quynsteadt and Fire Marshal Jesse A. Fisher as two of its members.

The committee was given the power to decide whether changes in the buildings demanded by the city officials were necessary and to see that such changes were made as it decided upon. It was agreed also that children should not use the buildings until the improvements are made, and the date of their return to school was left to the decision of the committee.

Beside the mayor and fire marshal the committee members are City Building Commissioner William B. Gardiner, Albert R. Johnson, former city building commissioner, Clyde Fitz, Baltimore architect, and Cares I. Meredith.

Mrs. Lloyd R. Blasing,

LEAGUE'S DRUG ADVISORS WAIT FINAL REPORT

Findings Under British Leadership Expected to Stir Both France, Italy

By JAMES T. WILLIAMS, Jr.
Universal Service Special Cable

GENEVA, Feb. 14.—The current session of the League of Nations' advisory committee on traffic in opium and other dangerous drugs was ready to adjourn after receiving the report of President W. G. Van Wettum on the deliberations of its thirteenth meeting.

There was no meeting since the President's report is not yet completed. Although Van Wettum, the Netherlands representative, is theoretically charged with the work of drafting the report, he has been closeted for most of the day with Sir Malcolm Delevingne, the British delegate and secretary of the committee. Thus the report will probably be the result of the joint effort of The Netherlands and British delegates.

Even if the report is presented at today's meeting, it is not expected that the committee will adjourn before M. Bourgois, the French delegate, makes a statement protesting against certain provisions of the report regarding the way in which the committee's enlargement is to be recommended to the League Council.

France and Italy resent the decision of the majority of the committee, under the leadership of Great Britain, to ignore applicant countries like Poland and Spain in order to give representation to Egypt and Canada.

John Kenneth Caldwell, the American observer, is taking no part in the preparation of the report and has held aloof in both the public and private sessions from making any commitment for his government pursuant to explicit instructions from Washington.

3 DIE AS POLICE FIGHT BANDITS

DETROIT, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Two private policemen, employed by a company operating an alarm system, paid with their lives last night for an attempt to capture robbers who were holding up the main office of the Western Union Telegraph Company here.

The policemen, Jesse Catlin, 38, and John Scott, 46, fell mortally wounded before the gangsters fire but not until after they had killed one of the holdup men. Another apparently was wounded but was able to join his companions in their flight in a seized automobile.

Two of the three men who went into the office, which is in the heart of the financial district, were recognized as members of the gang which held up the same place on the night of February 4.

MACHINE PERIL SEEN BY DAVIS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Overgrowth of population and over-emphasis on machine efficiency in production were described last night by Secretary Davis as contributing factors to underconsumption and resultant unemployment.

Reporting in a radio speech that we have some unemployment—more than we want to see—the Labor Secretary added that "nobody knows what business would be like today if it had not been for President Hoover's prompt action."

"As it is, we have not escaped some of the effects," he added.

He pointed to the contributions of immigrants to unemployment and warned that "we must be on the alert. We must watch ourselves with this ever-growing population."

RANK PREVENTS DE RIVERA DUEL

MADRID, Feb. 14.—(AP.)—Because he is a minor and an enlisted man in the Spanish army, Miguel De Rivera, son of the former dictator, cannot avenge his father's honor by fighting a duel with General Queipo De Llano. He boxed the general's ears and fought a free-for-all battle with him in a fashionable Madrid cafe a few nights ago.

Young Miguel now faces the prospect of being disciplined for forgetting differences in military rank. His anger had been aroused by the general's sending his father what he considered to be an insulting letter. Primo De Rivera had dismissed the general from the army.

During the former dictator's vacation in France and Italy, Miguel is opening his father's mail, and the letter from General Queipo De Llano fell into his hands.

Quiepo De Llano has been restored to his high rank and therefore he is expected to prefer charges against Miguel.

Fifteen Years Time Set for Free Bridge

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Feb. 14.—It will take 15 years to free the Greene-Fayette toll bridge at Masontown at the present rate of revenue from the span, officials of the county declared in answer to petitions from residents of Masontown that the bridge be freed immediately.

Since the bridge was opened three years ago annual tolls have averaged $50,000.

GUARD RESCUES RUM RUNNERS

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Feb. 14.—(AP.)—Coast guardsmen, the nemesis of rum runners, yesterday not only saved the lives of two who had been adrift in Lake Ontario off Port Dalhousie for 50 hours, but brought the boat in which the two man had been drifting and its cargo of 130 cases of liquor into St. Catherines intact.

The rescued men are Robert Hampton and Lawrence Smith, of Port Colborne. Both were suffering from cold and hunger.

The men said they left Port Dalhousie with their cargo of contraband Tuesday afternoon. After they had been chugging along toward the American shore for a few hours, the motor of their frail craft sputtered and then stopped. They were unable to start it.

The lake began kicking up, and the small boat was buffeted about for hours. They were without food. Thus they drifted until rescued by the crew of CG-211.

Hampton said he thought as soon as the Coast Guard tied up to the boat in which he and Smith were drifting, that their craft would be towed into American waters and their cargo confiscated.

But the guardsmen asked no questions. They promptly towed the boat to St. Catherines, because they have no jurisdiction in Canadian waters. Canadian officials took no action against the rum runners, as their forced return with an export cargo was due to an accident.

DRYS' BULLET WOUNDS NURSE

DES MOINES, Ia., Feb. 14.—(AP.)—Glenn Brunson, prohibition administrator for Iowa, verified a report from Knoxville, Ia., that two prohibition agents fired the shot that accidentally wounded Miss Nellie Church, a nurse, Saturday night.

Brunson said the two agents—Charles Hindley and Roy Moon—fired the shot after their car had been forced into a ditch by the car in which Miss Church and another nurse were riding. The gun was aimed into the ground, Brunson said, but the bullet was deflected into the rear window of the other car, wounding the nurse.

Miss Church at first told physicians she had been injured in an automobile accident and the real cause of her injury was not learned until yesterday. The nurses kept the story secret, Brunson said, because they feared they might be dismissed from the hospital.

POSSE TRAILS BANK ROBBER

LEWISBURG, W. Va., Feb. 14.—(AP.)—An unmasked robber entered the Bank of Renick, at Renick, near here, late yesterday, forced three employes into a vault, scooped approximately $800 from the counter into a bag and escaped. A posse headed by state police was formed to pursue the man who fled into the mountains across the Greenbrier River from Renick.

The robber entered the bank five minutes before closing time and started to walk behind the counter. Ordered by J. W. Baxter, cashier, to stay out of the enclosure, he drew a pistol and directed Baxter and T. W. Henry, assistant cashier, and Mary Rapp, bookkeeper, to walk inside the vault. As Baxter passed the vault door, which was standing open, he twisted the handle in such a manner that the lock could not snap when the door was pushed shut upon them.

No effort to obtain money in the vault was made by the robber who contented himself with gathering up the money lying upon the counter. He stuffed the cash, in bills and change, into a large white sack and walked leisurely from the bank.

SERUM ERROR KILLS 7; 12 ILL

GRANADA, Spain, Feb. 14.—(AP.)—Seven children were dead last night and 12 lay dangerously ill in an orphan asylum from the administration of the wrong serum or an overdose of the proper medicine by the authorities in an attempt to end an epidemic of scalp ringworm.

An investigation into the treatment used has been ordered. The director of the asylum said he had issued the serum in order to stamp out the epidemic. Two or three days later the children began to show signs of being in a dangerous condition from some kind of poison.

Doctors who performed the autopsies said they believed the wrong serum had been given the children, though there was a slight possibility the deaths might have been caused by too large doses of the proper medicine. They said that some of the sickest will probably die.

DANDRUFF
A Sure Way to End It

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy never fails.

BUSINESS MEN OPPOSE LEAGUE COURT

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

WE HAD our picture taken in a very modern studio the other day. It was the first time we were ever inside one. The photographer kept us waiting 40 minutes past the appointment. But one of the hired help gave us a private room in which to wait and, without explanation, a sophisticated magazine. The photographer was more or less of a tailor. He jerked our coat down, did things to the neck-tie, unloosed the bottom button of the vest and made us hold it tightly. He told us to look this way, and we looked. He complained that we were blinking. He was so serious about it that we had to laugh. He became disgusted. He said we'd have to help him if we wanted a good picture. He traced the blinking to the right eye and he ordered us to exhibit will-power. The right eye continued to blink and the photographer waved his arms in the air. Not only that, we changed expression too quickly. He changed our position. Our clothes became mussed in the changing. This time he jerked the coat down viciously, slipped his hand under the vest and pulled the necktie with amazing strength. Now, he said, please look right here and keep the eyes open as long as possible. We failed. He shrugged his shoulders, pressed the bulb, smiled relievedly and said, "Goodby, Mr. Carr."

Former Magistrate Brandon was enjoying a few remarks with one of the regular customers in Morals Court, a Negro woman who was unalterably opposed to the Eighteenth Amendment.

"You have a hangover this morning, Nellie," Brandon asked.

"Feel like singing a song, Nellie"

"What's the song, Nellie"

"Judge, I sings 'Show Me the Way to Go Home.'"

Nellie went home.

IT IS no secret that preparatory schools like to flash the high hat. Let a young football star whose name breathes of the Old Country turn up, and the head-master and the assistant head-master will go into a huddle. Out of this comes a new name for the star, something like Smith or Jones, which does not appear so extraordinary in the printed lineups. And does not give the impression that the school goes off Park avenue for its customers.

During the last football season in one of the nearby prep schools which draw heavily from the Pittsburgh district, a football player's name was changed for the very reason we have cited. The boy was puzzled. He asked for a correction. His request was forgotten. It so happened that he was the backbone of this team and that a half-dozen colleges were bidding for him.

Probably he had an idea of his worth. Anyhow, he went to the school's press agent and delivered this edict: "Listen, if you don't call me by my right name in the papers I'm socking you on the nose."

And so ended the alias.

Will Rogers Says:

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.

I WANT to show you how a thing in our country can accidentally gain prominence. Last Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock I was sitting in the Senate gallery talking to Senator Copeland. Senator Norris had just finished on Hughes, and they were ready to vote. Senator Blease asked that it be left over till morning. It was just a formality. There was practically no opposition.

If voted on then there would have been nothing to it, but look how the fight grew. It just shows that if you can start arguing over something, and get enough publicity, and keep the argument going, you can divide our nation over night as to whether spinach or broccoli are the most nutritious. We can get hot and bothered quicker over nothing, and cool off faster than any nation in the world.

PRELATE'S BODY LIES IN STATE AT BEATTY

Scores of Church Notables To Attend Funeral of Archabbot Stehle Tuesday

The body of the Rt. Rev. Aurelius Stehle, O. S. B., today lay in state in St. Vincent's Archabbey at Beatty, Pa., while final preparations were being made for the funeral services Tuesday morning. Archabbot Stehle, one of the most distinguished Catholic prelates in the world, died Wednesday night in St. Francis Hospital.

Scores of high dignitaries of the Catholic Church will take part in the services Tuesday morning. The Rt. Rev. Hugh C. Boyle, bishop of Pittsburgh diocese, will celebrate the solemn pontifical requiem mass at St. Vincent's, beginning at 10 o'clock. Several hundred priests from all parts of the country are expected to be present at the service.

The funeral of Archabbot Stehle will be the occasion of one of the greatest gathering of Catholic dignitaries in many years. Following the celebration of the mass, five prelates will pronounce the absolution. Interment will be in the cemetery at St. Vincent's.

The body of the archabbot will lie in state in the monastery parlor until Monday when friends will bear it to the archabbey church to await the funeral services. Solemn chanting of the office of the dead will mark the beginning of the last rites.

The Rev. Felix Fellner, O. S. B., who is arranging for the funeral, yesterday sent cablegrams to Rome, notifying Pope Pius of the death of the archabbot.

FEUD BLAMED IN GIRL KILLING

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—(INS.)—Accepting the theory of a gang feud as the cause of the brutal killing of May Smith, 24-year-old dance hall hostess, formerly of Wilkes-Barre, and her gambler-sweetheart, Carmine Barelli, 27, police today were endeavoring to solve the mystery surrounding the murders.

The couple were shot down on Inwood avenue, the Bronx, by four men, who followed them in an automobile.

Police last night combed dance halls in Manhattan and the Bronx searching for a woman known as "Dutchy," said to have visited the slain couple shortly before the shooting. Finding no one at home, she had left a note.

"CHICKIE"

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Chickie Bryce is attending business college when the story opens. Arthur Sontag, a classmate, takes her to a dance and she confides to her friend, Mary Blake, that the avenues of romance are opening to her. Mary and Chickie blandly discuss love and marriage. Chickie thinks it will be all kisses and "walking on the mountain tops with her lover by her side." She forgets Arthur in the excitement of getting a position in an office. One of her co-workers there is Janina Knowles. Through Janina she meets Jake Munson, a rich and attractive bachelor. Mary suddenly marries a poor young chemist, much to Chickie's regret. Jimmy Blake, Mary's brother, begs Chickie to marry him, but without success.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER IX.

JIMMY was the first man who ever asked her to marry him. She let him go away; let the door close softly.

Yet, even as the still hush dropped on her heart she heard in its depths a low singing like the ripple of a woodland stream. Some one loved her—ah—loved her so well it made his face all white. Loved her—Chickie—like that.

The elfin joy kept murmuring, awakened in her a serene, blithe self-assurance. Jimmy loved her and Jimmy was a big, fine fellow, better than nearly any man she knew.

Unconsciously she was thinking this: unconsciously she was comparing others—all the men who came into the office—with Jimmy. Oh—they weren't as tall, nor as quick, nor anything like Jimmy was.

It used to be that when these men stopped at her desk her face would flood with color; her hands fidget. Janina would mock afterward.

Now she glanced at them quietly. Now, when they asked her to go out, she was not dumb with awe as she had been with Harry Lewis. She thought to herself with a gay flippance, "Oh, who are you! Little cricket! Look at Jimmy!"

It gave a happy dash to all her winsome caprice. Janina noticed. "Glad to see you picking up, baby. Not above taking the tips after all, eh?"

It was like a spattering of dirty water on a sheer, white dress. Chickie answered airily: "Ho! You'd like to know my hidden charm? Come around some night after dark, Janina. I'll give you two and a half ounces of my own secret potion—guaranteed deadly. No man may quaff and survive!"

Jonathan a Problem Would Have Chickie Stay Home Every Night

"Thanks, baby. Don't get the fat head. You'll need the whole dose yourself. Besides, I've lots more in the chest where that came from. What does dear papa have to say now that you're stepping out nights?"

Chickie winced. She could feel Janina's hand as though it ripped in and tore a bit of flesh from her heart. She answered, "Nothing that you could understand, Janina!"

Yet Jonathan was a sore problem. He had such a way of following her with his eyes from the moment she stepped into the house. When she was going out he grew silent. As she kissed him goodbye he held her hand—often for a minute or two—and kept his head lowered. She couldn't bear that. She wanted, sometimes, to throw off her hat, to say, bitterly, "Oh, all right, then—I'll stay home forever!"

Because of Jonathan she sometimes made no dates for a whole week at a time. He went about chuckling—full of young spirit. He read his paper, then put out his hands, showing the long, tough nails, insisting that she manicure them—shine them up pink like her own. He lay back in his big leather chair, exulting. . . .

Mary's Son Pours Her Whole Soul On Little Fellow

"Isn't this great, Chickie, girl! Now, aren't you happy? I wish—"

"Yes—you selfish old Jonathan—you wish your little sweetness had no feet and no eyes and no senses at all, but was just a big lob of jelly to sit here content night after night. Now, honestly, cutie-love, do you think that's a bit fair in you?"

He gave a snap whether it was fair or not! There she was—there he wanted her. He laughed: "But what about your

WINNER OF TWO ART EXHIBIT PRIZES

(Other Pictures on Page 31.) EXCLUSIVE PHOTO by Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

ANNA J. WOODSIDE, FIRST EVER AWARDED TWO ASSOCIATED PRIZES

Witness in Berkey Case Gets Parole

Harry Watkins, of Hooversville, Pa., a government witness in the conspiracy liquor case in which Judge Berkey and 14 others were acquitted, pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of violating the liquor laws and was paroled. His co-defendents, Frank Kendra and George Hartzell, also of Hooversville, Cambria County, also pleaded guilty and were paroled.

Watkins was accused of selling and possessing liquor and maintaining a nuisance in his restaurant.

Associated Artists Make Best Showing to Date

PENELOPE REDD

For the twentieth time, the Associated Artists show the town what they have done during the past year, in their exhibition at the Carnegie Institute. Last night's press view was a friendly occasion, when the neighbors came to see their own children or the children of artist friends in portraits or perhaps some familiar landscape raised to exhibition dignity.

To state the exhibition is the best to date is no log-rolling gesture. It is good because the jury accepted about two-fifths of the canvasses submitted. Consequently only 379 entries out of almost 1,000 are shown.

The 10 prizes were awarded in a manner that an unprejudiced observer finds satisfactory.

"STRANGE COMPANIONS"

Two painting so different, that the jury was unaware they were done by one person, captured two prizes for Anna J. Woodside, a situation unique in the annals of the Associated Artists.

Penelope Redd

Anna Woodside's summer of discipline at painting alone in New York City was rewarded with the third honor and with Camilla Robb Russell Memorial prize for the best water color.

Miss Woodside's "Strange Companions" shows an immigrant sun flower from a country garden combined by chance with a refined blue hydrangea. The vase containing them is set on the ledge of an open window which frames a drab bit of Sixty-seventh street.

Her "Worshippers of Beauty," the water color prize, is rhythmical observation, in violet, blue and gray of a Hudson River twilight. Free beauty, it is, for bench loungers to enjoy, while Miss Woodside suspected, "the wife washed the dishes."

The new prize, in commemoration of Euphemia Bakewell, was awarded to Sam Rosenberg for his sincerely achieved portrait-decoration, "The Gold Gown." The jury's choice seems to us one which Miss Bakewell herself would select, because of its unhampered originality which is stabilized by sound, traditional knowledge.

CARNEGIE PRIZE

The important Carnegie Institute prize of $250 is awarded to Raymond Simboli for his group of paintings—one of himself, two of children and a still life. Simboli's self portrait lacks definite articulation, but the sophisticated pattern with its pertinent edges and

MAN FILES SUIT TO GET SON

3 Robbers Given Penitentiary Terms

Richard Wilbert, of 948 Brookline boulevard, was sentenced to serve 5½ to 11 years in the Western penitentiary; Clarence Lander, of 225 South St. Clair street, four to eight years, and J. L. Morrow, of Bakerstown, 4½ to 9 years by Judges J. A. McLaughry, of Mercer county, and Harry H. Rowand, after they had been convicted of one robbery before Judge McLaughry and pleaded guilty to three others before Judge Rowand in Criminal Court. The robbery on which they were convicted occured November 10, when W. L. Andrews, 4712 Bayard street was held up.

Widen West Run Road, County Aim

The improvement of West Run road, a link in the county airport system, was proposed to Council yesterday by the County Department of Public Works. The county's proposal urges the widening of the road to 27 feet and some changes in the line of the highway. The road originally was improved by Mifflin Township. The question of whether the city should co-operate was sent to Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang for a report.

The Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's Question: How would you solve the problem of corporations and industries discharging faithful employes around 40 and 50 years of age in favor of younger ones after many years of good service?

J. L. DAVIDSON, JR., student, Wilkinsburg: "I doubt if there is a solution to that problem. But I know what I'd advise in case of this kind. It would be good for the average employe of any corporation of this type to set aside a certain amount of his money in a savings account for that rainy day when sudden discharge might come. If this could be accomplished, then the person would have enough money to tide himself and his family over until he found another job."

BETTY NYLANDER, Overbrook: "The solution to the problem, I think, is a little more consideration for the feelings of the employe. He should be judged on his merits. If he stacks up all right he should be kept on the payroll regardless of his age. I have seen men of 70 and 75 who were more efficient in their work than men of less mature years. The corporations of this type have a lot to learn in this respect."

Betty Nylander

MISS ALICE HOLMES, instructor, Brookline: "Years of faithful service and devotion to duty should be rewarded with promotions rather than dicharging the employe. It shows lack of human understanding and an unsympathetic reaction of the employer to the employe. It has always been said that most big corporations have no heart. Such actions prove that they haven't. The only solution would be to reward old employes."

Miss Holmes

MRS. MAYME BARTH, Barth School of the Dance, Downtown: "Orginizations which figure in activities of this kind should take into consideration the merits of the individual and his amount of efficiency before contemplating anything drastic. I believe that the older employe knows more about what is going on than a younger person just breaking in on the job. Employers don't take this into consideration when hiring men at probably lower salaries. I think that's what motivates a lot of them."

Mrs. Barth

JOSEPH JORDAN, Postal clerk, Glenshaw: "Any person who has any foresight at all knows that an employe's efficiency increases with his years of service given to the employer. This is particularly true in the postal service. Instead of discharging employes, the postal service promotes them, seniority rights count a lot in this branch of government business. If the large corporations would take the postal service as an example, and follow it, it would be a pleasure to work rather than what it is now. The employe would know that discharge didn't hide around the corner. He could look forward to a bright future."

JACK BARRY, dancing instructor, Downtown: "I think that the employers discharge too many old and faithful employes without thinking of the economic loss, both to the plant and to the individual, being caused by such action. If employers stopped to think they'd find that the old veteran employe is of more value to them than the green one who is probably hired at less salary. I believe that bugaboo of smaller salaries motivates most of the changes of employes by their hirers."

RALLY URGED TO PROTEST U. S. ENTRY

Banker, Head of Printing Concern, Adds Voice to Outcry Against Alliance

Opposition to the entrance of the United States into the Permanent Court of International Justice of the League of Nations became more outspoken in Pittsburgh today.

A bank president and the head of a printing concern added their voices to the public outcry against the plan.

There was talk of holding a mass meeting of protest to show Senators David A. Reed and Joseph R. Grundy how Pennsylvania feels about the proposal.

BANKER VOICES PROTEST

"If the United States joins the League Court," said F. E. McGillick, president of the McGillick Savings and Trust Company, "membership in the League itself will naturally follow. The inevitable result will be that we shall be called upon to help England hold her dependencies. I stand with Washington against entangling foreign alliances."

According to Mr. McGillick, the British empire has become ramshackle and unwieldy and is threatened with disintegration. He pointed to the fact that Canada and the Irish Free State now have their own envoys at Washington, instead of being represented, as formerly, by the British ambassador as evidence of the loosening of the ties.

"The time is swiftly approaching," said Mr. McGillick, "when the British dominions will seek complete independence. England will fight to hold them. In anticipation of the fight she is trying to maneuver us into a position where we will be bound by treaty obligations to help her. Americans who advocate our entrance into the League Court are playing Britain's game.

TROUBLE COURTED

"England is courting trouble by her treatment of her colonies. Look at the situation in India. Let England free the people whom she is holding in subjection against their will, and then will be time enough to consider whether we shall go into the League Court.

"For my part I do not think we had any business going into the World War."

John P. Killeen, printer, Brady Building, said:

"Holding aloof from European affairs, the United States has become great, powerful and prosperous. Why should we change our policy and enter the League Court? I can't see it."

Eddie Cantor Rises to Say:

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.

CONGRESS was staggering from liquor exposure when Walter W. Liggett finished telling how congressmen, judges, mayors and governors are indulging in rum parties. I don't think that these exposures will abolish prohibition, but they will give the public a good idea of "who's who in the speakeasies."

Physicians in Attleboro, Mass., are said to be helping Violet Michael, who has been crying continuously, for four days. That's not a record. I know people who have been crying since October 29, the day of the first big crash—and no physicians can help them. In fact, its hard to find a doctor who is not crying himself, and from the same cause.

Britain positively refuses to scrap either the Rodney or the Nelson, her two greatest battleships. However, she would readily consent to the other nations giving up their submarines. So far, Britain's contribution has been two banquets, three luncheons, and six "teas." Good old England, she'll trade you a biscuit for a barrel of flour anytime.

BOY, 4, CRUSHED TO DEATH BENEATH TRUCK IN 'STRIP'

2 MEN KILLED BY AUTOS IN E. OHIO ST.

Both Drivers Held Over Accidents Few Hours Apart In Walker's Bridge Vicinity

Two men and a boy were killed when struck by automobiles last night. Two of the accidents occurred in East Ohio street, near Walker's Bridge.

The dead boy was John Kwiecinski, 4, of 3819 Mintwood street. He was struck by a truck at Thirty-fourth and Butler streets.

Stephen Scott, 68, of 1968 East Ohio street, died in Allegheny General Hospital several hours after he had been run down in East Ohio street near Walkers Bridge. Harry C. Hunter, of 604 Center avenue, said by police to have been driver of the car which struck Scott, was arrested and turned over to the coroner.

In the same vicinity a few hours later, Frederick A. Kretzer, 50, of Green Hill road, Shaler Township, was struck by an automobile operated by Mark H. Armstrong, of Highland avenue, Chestwick, police reported. Kretzer was taken to the Allegheny General Hospital and pronounced dead. He suffered a fractured skull. Armstrong was ordered to post bond at the coroner's office.

DRY SPLIT SEEN IN STATE RACE

Division in the ranks of dry leaders in the Fortieth state senatorial district looms as Park H. Martin, Bellevue engineer, begins his canvass for senator.

Martin has been indorsed by state and county dry leaders and many church groups in the district but the voting strength may be split with the entry of Thomas W. Neely as a candidate.

Neely was a candidate in 1926 and appeared to be a sure winner until Martin entered the race. The two divided the dry vote and made possible the election of the late Senator Edward E. Pfischner.

Senator Herman P. Brandt, of Perrysville, was named for the vacancy caused by Pfischner's death and was re-elected in 1928 with little opposition.

Brandt has made no announcement of his intentions in the coming campaign and it is believed he is awaiting a decision of leaders of the Republican organization regarding legislative candidates.

TRAFFIC LIGHTS INSTALLED

The Bureau of Traffic Planning of the Department of Public Safety yesterday began operation of traffic control lights at Baum boulevard and Millvale avenue, Center avenue and Craig street, and Perrysville avenue, East and Greentree streets.

Placing of the lights at Baum boulevard and Millvale avenue, and at Craig street and Center avenue mark another step toward the completion of the Shadyside traffic signal system. This system will be similar to that in use downtown and in East Liberty sections.

The Shadyside system, which will include 14 intersections, will not be placed in progressive operation for several weeks.

DORMONT BOY BUILDS GLIDER

For two years David Meeker, 17 of 3220 Beacon Hill avenue, Dormont, has wanted to fly a glider of his own make.

Tuesday he had his first chance.

The contraption he has been laboring on as a work of love rose from the ground only a foot, but would have risen higher had his "shock cord" constructed of old automobile inner tubes, been stronger.

Within the next week or so Meeker hopes to really be up in the air. Enthused by the more or less successful nature of the contraption's demonstration, he is confident that the glider will prove of real merit and value.

Assisted by two school mates from Dormont High School, Murray Shubin, 13, of 998 Biltmore avenue, and Ray Freolick, 15, of 3226 Beacon Hill avenue, Meeker has labored on the glider since September. It is of the German type, similar to the one now being used by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in his tests in the hills of California, and is known as a Northrop glider.

The wing has a spread of 36 feet and overall length from fore to aft is 17 feet.

Association with the glider has not been Meeker's first experience with heavier-than-air machines. Seven times he has flown in regular commercial planes. Once at Bettis Field, he said, he manipulated the controls of a ship for five minutes while sailing over that area.

Two years ago he accompanied his family to San Diego, California, where he remained six months. When he told aviators at airports there he was interested in building a glider that would fly, they gave him parts of old "Jenny" planes as equipment. The parts were shipped back to Dormont when the youth returned here.

SCAN BALLOTS FOR FRAUD

First Assistant District Attorney Andrew T. Park today plunged into the depths of 18 ballot boxes to ascertain whether sufficient evidence of fraud could be found upon which to base charges against the election boards.

These were the "most likely looking" of nearly 100 cases brought to District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner's attention by M. Ward Bonsal, head of the recent special recount board, following the November election. In them Bonsal said erasures and other violations would be found. In the others Bonsal said phantom ballots had been cast, but Gardner was not sure of how ghost testimony would stand up in the grand jury room, and said he would take up the 18 cases first. Later he may look into the other boxes. For the 18 he recently secured an order from Common Pleas Court requiring that the boxes be given into his custody. He named Park and County Detective David Baxter to do the actual work of probing the contents of the boxes.

FALLS IN HOMES FATAL TO 3

Two aged men and a woman were dead today from injuries suffered in falls in their homes according to the coroner's office.

Mrs. Oliver Yoder, 64, a widow, of 835 Phineas street, died last night in St. John's Hospital from injuries suffered December 28 when she slipped to the floor in her home.

A fractured skull suffered when he fell down stairs caused the death last night of Louis Heimbrucher, 57, of 644 Evergreen avenue, Millvale. The accident occurred Wednesday.

Seized with an epileptic fit while ascending the stairs in his home Wednesday, Adam Hoffman, 69, of 116 Junius street, West End, fell to the floor and received injuries which caused his death last night.

KILLED IN FALL ON SIGHT TOUR

William P. Shivlin, 35, of 3620 Wood street, Wheeling, W. Va., was killed late yesterday when he fell 75 feet from an embankment onto the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad tracks near the south end of the Point Bridge.

Shivlin, his father, William Shivlin, Sr.; his brother, Leo Shivlin, and his wife, on a visit to the city, were being shown points of interest from the embankment by William, according to a morgue report. Shivlin, a telegraph operator for the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad, at Newell, Pa., turned his ankle and stumbled and fell to the railroad tracks. As he was falling, the victim's father, who has only one arm, grabbed for his son's coat but his hold slipped.

Shivlin was taken to the South Side Hospital, where death was attributed to a fractured skull.

RICHARD STEWART, 47, BEHIND BARS

Stewart, prosperous rug merchant serving a sentence at Warren, O., refusing to pay a $200 fine. He has fasted a month and he'll fast three more, if necessary, he said. Arrested for molesting a woman, he said it was nothing but a miscarriage of justice.

PRISON FASTER HELD INSANE

WARREN, O., Feb. 14.—(AP.)—Richard Stewart, who has been on a hunger strike here for 30 days, was adjudged insane yesterday and his strike probably will be terminated in Massillon state hospital.

Probate Judge S. W. Jones decided on Stewart's sanity and ordered two doctors to examine him.

Stewart's hunger strike began when he was sent to county jail for refusal to pay a $200 fine that had been assessed against him on his conviction on a charge of molesting a woman. The strike was his protest of what he called the "unfairness" of the penalty. He alleges the woman was partly responsible for his actions.

Doctors who examined Stewart found him in a serious condition. He had been removed to City Hospital two days ago. He has lost 25 pounds by his long fast and appeared greatly emaciated. Part of the time in jail he spent quoting from the Bible and from the writings of John Burroughs.

angles is probably the best in the entire exhibition. Simboli's "Mabel" painted with full regard for her childish charm, escapes adroitly the opprobrium of sweetness.

Esther Topp won the Art Society prize of $100 with "Beatrice Rober," also a child's portrait. Miss Topp discerns a child's character as few painters in America are capable of doing. Her children are people, not delightful puppets.

The award of $50 for a floral subject contributed by A. W. Smith, Jr., was given to Cece E. Jobe's "Spring Flowers," which probably beguiled the jury through its prismatic color.

M. J. Vick in an imaginative canvas "The Alley at Night," adds a soupcon of mystery by posing a tree whose snowy branches swirl about like dancers' draperies.

Anne Dunbar is awarded the graphic arts prize of $50 for the head of a Tunisian boy, evidently found while traveling.

TADPOLE INTO FROG

The Associated Artists' own first prize of $150 was conferred upon Vincent Nesbert's portrait of "A Student," an easy, vigorous study.

The association's second prize was given to Sam Filner for the "Pool Room" at the Irene Kaufmann Settlement. Filner, whom we have watched from the years since he was one of Sam Rosenberg's tadpoles in the Irene Kaufmann Art School, has achieved maturity and is a considerable frog in our local puddle. He has always shown a happy facility for selecting stimulating and racy subjects.

The quality of the prizes corresponds to the quality discovered throughout the exhibition. Credit is due to Christ Waller for the honest spirit in which he, as president, has administered the affairs of the Associated Artists.

Toohey, whose health is failing, will be succeeded by Charles Guynn, general organizer, who will conduct the affairs of the office until Toohey's return.

JUDGE SLASHES JURY EXPENSE

Expecting to save approximately $10,000 a year for taxpayers, Judge Harry H. Rowand, presiding in Criminal Court, inaugurated a new system at the close of yesterday's session when he discharged all jurors not picked to sit on cases being tried today. This is the last day of their two-week service. About 125 were discharged from duty, at a saving of $4 a day each. As two panels are picked each month, and criminal court runs for 10 months, the saving is expected to reach five figures.

Another innovation of Judge Rowand was to go into the witness room and hold court to hear pleas of guilty while juries were being selected in the assignment room. In this way a large number of witnesses and police officers were released from attendance in court much earlier than formerly. The judge may use a small court room for pleas in the future.

Man Hurt in Crash Held for Theft

Harry Thomas, 26, of 310 South Highland avenue, was slightly injured this morning when his machine collided with another automobile on Browns road, and then struck a street car. Police say that the automobile in which he was riding had been stolen on the North Side last night. After receiving treatment at the Homestead Hospital, Thomas was arrested by Hazelwood police on a suspicious person charge. Steve Conez, 18, of 509 West Grant avenue, Duquesne, driver of the other machine, was arrested on a reckless driving charge.

Zone Changes Made In Three Districts

Three ordinances were affirmed by Council yesterday, all changing "A" residence districts to commercial districts. One was in the Fourteenth ward, the section being bounded by Penn avenue, East End avenue, a line 120 feet south of Penn avenue, and by South Braddock avenue. Another was the southeast corner of McCullough and Lewin streets, and the third bounded by Sandwich and Gray streets, and two unnamed alleys.

Deputy coroners today were endeavoring to learn the motive for the suicide of Frank Vidmar, 68, of Lewis run, Jefferson Township, whose body, with a bullet wound in the head, was found in a barn in the rear of his home last night, according to a morgue report. The body was found by a son, Joseph Vidmar, upon his return from work.

BOOST IN RAIL RATES FOUGHT

Formal protest to the Trunk Line Association against proposed railroad rates on manufactured iron and steel articles in less than carload shipments in a 100-mile radius here, will be made next Wednesday. Ten delegates representing Pittsburgh iron and steel interests will appear before the Association in New York, according to an announcement yesterday, following a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce.

A. K. Kennedy, traffic manager of the Pittsburgh Steel Company, presided at the meeting.

Shipment rates from Pittsburgh to Butler, an example cited by Donald O. Moore, secretary of the meeting, under the proposed ruling would be jumped from the present rate of 11 to 22 cents per 100 pounds. If the delegation fails in its effort to have the present rates retained, shippers still have recourse with the Interstate Commerce Commission, Moore said.

BLAST BRINGS BOMB SCARE

Was it a bomb or a giant firecracker that was tossed into Strawberry way above Grant street last night?

Police seemed to lean to the theory that a practical joker had tossed a firecracker, but several metal slugs which might have been blasted portions of a bomb were found in the street.

Regardless, no damage was done, unless the nerves of nearby pedestrians were shaken by the explosion, which was heard throughout a part of the downtown.

New Engineering Teachers at Pitt

CHARLEROI PAIR CONVICTED

Steve Buchanan and his wife, of Charleroi, were convicted before Federal Judge Nelson McVicar, for destroying liquor to prevent its seizure by prohibition agents, and attacking and resisting the government officers.

The husband was also convicted on a charge of selling liquor. On the latter charge he was sentenced to three months in jail, and at its expiration, to serve a one-month term for the assault and destruction. Mrs. Buchanan was fined $100 and placed on probation for one year.

Frank Korolewski was sentenced four months to jail and fined $100 for selling and possessing liquor and maintaining a common nuisance at 2616 East Carson street.

Trial Board Delays Fight Investigation

The police trial board has postponed its investigation into the disturbance at an alleged speakeasy at 1341 Fifth avenue, a week ago, during which Patrolman John Nowack was slugged and beaten. The hearing on the case was delayed pending the outcome of Nowack's injuries.

It also was announced that the hearings of three men arrested in connection with the fight in the establishment will be postponed until after the trial board has conducted its hearing. Constable John Schneider, of the First ward; his deputy, Ike Pollas, and James Kelly, who surrendered to police in connection with the battle, are to be given hearings.

'Troubadors' Presented At Club

ONE of the loveliest entertainments the Twentieth Century Club has ever had was "The Troubadours," a sequence of most artistically presented scenes and tableaux which Mrs. H. Allen Machesney and her drama committee gave yesterday. In every detail of scenery, song and costume, authenticity was carefully observed and a most effective program resulted.

The audience first saw the troubador in tableau surrounded by his heralds, minstrel and jongleur with his horse in its silver trappings. Mrs. William Booth was the principal figure in this episode. Eda McCoy posing as the minstrel, Nancy James as the jongleur, and Miss Helen West and Mrs. S. Brainard West as the heralds. These last two announced in unison each picture just before the curtains were drawn, thus adding an unusual bit of atmosphere. The arrival at the castle was the next scene with Mrs. Arthur Little and Mrs. Herbert Herr, Jr., as the pages who are offering the knight the silver bowl of water.

Mrs. Thomas K. Cree was the third troubador who sang to the king (Mrs. T. C. Clifford) and the queen (Mrs. Alexander Murdock). In this the maid of honor was Miss Martha Edmundson. There followed other equally artistic scenes, showing the troubador in Merrie England, Japan, France, Spain and in a garden among the participants being Mrs. C. B. Monro, Miss Edith Cole, Miss Betty Guiler, Mrs. Ernest Calhoun, Mrs. Edward O. Tabor, Miss Eda McCoy, Miss Louise Evans and Miss Katherine McKibbin Schley.

A CHANGE has been made in the meeting place for the February 27 session of the Brighton Woman's Club and Mrs. R. R. Sanborn, of Teece avenue, Bellevue, will be hostess. MISS MARGARET WILLIAMSON, national executive of the business and professional department of the Y. W. C. A., who arrived in Pittsburgh today, knows personally many of the 125,000 girls in the Y. W. C. A. and being a keen observer of business life and changes affecting the status and the working lives of young women, takes rank as one who is their champion.

Lipsticks, jazz and other phases of their so-called interests as so often portrayed, have little relation with the real concerns and preoccupations as Miss Williamson sees them. How to choose their work and train for it, competing with men for the future foothold higher up the ladder, are every day matters of concern to thousands of young women who are taking their business future seriously.

That this is so is demonstrated in the topics chosen by the young women for discussion at their biennial national assembly. Social wastage of unemployment, maladjustment to a poorly chosen type of work, and the interdependence of procedure, distributor and consumer, are among matters they have chosen to discuss. Blind alley jobs, the woman boss, the married woman and the question of her right to a job, are others. The girls have asked also to know more about the effect of time-saving and labor-saving devices upon their future status as workers.

Miss Williamson, who began her own business career with a New York publisher, later as a staff member of the employment department of the Central Branch Y. W. C. A. in New York, studied the field of opportunities for business girls in offices.

While in Pittsburgh, Miss Williamson will visit all club and council meetings of business girls in Central and East Liberty branches of the Y. W. C. A. She will also be the speaker at the nation-wide banquet on Tuesday evening.

Over the week-end she will attend the business girls' mid-winter conference at Titusville, to which many Pittsburgh delegates are being sent, and for which Miss Ethel Moser, of East Liberty branch, is chairman of arrangements.

SPEAKERS from among the junior organizations have been chosen for the meeting of the Pittsburgh Conference of Jewish Women's Organizations to be held Monday evening in the Y. M. and W. H. A. Mis Sarah Davis, accompanied by Miss Leah Rothman, will sing.

MISS KATHERINE LAWLESS of the International Institute will address the South Hills College Club at the February meeting to be held tonight at the Beach home, Washington road. A group of foreign-born will present folk songs and dances. Hostesses for the evening are Miss Jean Maclay, Mrs. H. A. Bowman, Mrs. G. R. Fisher, Miss Dorothy Green, Mrs. H. C. Link, Miss Florence McKinney, Mrs. O. C. Nichol, Miss Edna Seaberg, Miss Edyth Wood, Mrs. F. D. Blum and Miss Grace Miller.

On the 22d, the club will have its annual bridge luncheon at the Keystone Athletic Club with the club officers and the social committee headed by Mrs. L. G. Schryver in charge.

DR. JOHN H. ALEXANDER, staff physician at the Allegheny General Hospital, will address the Perry Woman's Club at its meeting in Perry High School Wednesday afternoon.

NATIONAL DRAMA WEEK is to be carried over by the Pittsburgh Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, which will have its celebration Friday in the Roosevelt Hotel. George M. P. Baird, secretary of the Pittsburgh Art Commission, will speak on "The Trend of the Modern Drama."

KARL E. WILLIAMS will direct a radio broadcast of George Kelly's "The Flattering Word," from Station KDKA, at 6:15 this evening in celebration of National Drama Week. The play will be given by Miss Bertha Fuhrer, Mrs. Pearl Hamilton Hipps, Miss Anna Barbara Grimes, Nathan N. Keener, and Mr. Williams.

THE KNITTING NEEDLE POINTS TO SPORTSWEAR

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

PARIS, Feb. 14.—The knitting needle points the way to smartness. At every resort just now, whether it be by the sapphire seas of the Mediterranean, or amidst the snowy delights of Switzerland, the hand-knit sweater, cap, scarf and even handbag predominates. Nothing as trig and neat has been seen in many seasons, as the picture presented by a smart, svelte woman in an artistically designed sweater with matching accessories. The colors are delightful, there is an army for navy blue, judging by its predominance in most collections and its presence wherever fashionables congregate. It is much used with other colors, particularly lighter shades of blue, rose and jade green. The sweaters are business-like little affairs devoid of all frills, some of them boasting delightful designs of nautical inspiration, as well as the more conventional borders of varicolored stripes. The little berets are ever so gay and jaunty, and the scarfs blithely flaunt their colors to the breeze.

TO GIVE you some idea of the smartness of these wooly creations we show two very delightful examples worn by two charming young things at Cannes, which this year, is enjoying a remarkable good season. The one to the left is a hand-knit pull-over sweater in pale rose and navy blue wool with a very nautical design showing a flying pennant and a star motif. With the sweater is worn a navy blue leather belt and a blue and rose knitted wool beret. The other sketch shows a group of matching accessories from Chanel for wear at Cannes. The knitted beret is of light weight wool in gray, jade and black bands of varying width. The scarf and purse, the latter with a brass top of modern pattern are of the same fabric and design as the beret.

THE Lanvin coat shown here was also sketched at Cannes. It is of chevreau, or baby goat, and is shaded from the palest of pale grays at the top to a deep, brindled gray at the lower edge. The narrow scarf collar and the appliqued band on the melon-shaped sleeve are of pale gray. When worn open the coat has a flaring raglan line but it is equally smart in silhouette when rapped around the figure as shown in the sketch. With the coat is worn an Agnes cap of gray hand-knit jersey, gray antelope gloves, gray kid pumps.

Additional Club News

OF exceptional interest was the program presented yesterday at the Epoch club when it met with Mrs. Philip N. Harrison of Mead street. In its miscellaneous year the club had selected "The American Indian" as its topic for yesterday a program which Mrs. C. C. Burgess began with a paper on "The Indian as a Factor in American History." Then Mrs. Truman P. Garland followed with a reading, since count of the battle of Arickaree Fort Irvin "The Story of the Soldier," the work of her uncle Gen. George A. Forsyth who was wounded three times in this same battle. Another unusual contribution was Mrs. Frank L. Sleeman's story of the capture of Frances Slocum, her husband's great aunt, by the Delaware Indians in 1777, and of her having been found 60 years later a happily married and wealthy squaw among the Miamis. A monument to her now stands in Peru, Ind. Mrs. Harold W. Cope completed the program by reading Mrs. George Oliver's paper on the Cherokees.

A Brand New
STOCKING TRICK

Looks Sheerer! Wears Longer!

Six months ago, the word went from one smart young thing to another that stockings worn inside-out looked sheerer—had subtler color value—didn't show rings—some even said, wore longer . . . Presto! Thousands of pairs reversed themselves in the twinkling of an eye.

But those who were fastidious didn't like the reversed seams . . . An expert stepped in . . . And today, all smart women, young and otherwise, are offered the new Rograin, the modern stocking with seams, smooth as little silken veins.

Rograin hose look at least a dollar sheerer than they are and they'll wear a dollar longer than they look. In short, Rograin gives women exactly what they want.

N. B. If you've never tried inside-outing, reverse one of your own stockings before you close this paper . . . You'll get added sheerness—but you won't have smooth seams . . . Then you'll buy Rograin hosiery and have both.....$1.95

We Now Present

DOGGONE

Al MacFeeters, chief engineer at WCAE, reminds us that the installation of a dog's bark was first effected in '29, over the local station, thus taking away the honor conferred on the Eskimos a few nights ago. A realistic dog bark maintained by pulling a resined string through a hole was the signature for Charles Marsh and his William Penn Orchestra.

Those were the days when Al was quite a sound effects man. He staged a lot of queer noises heard over the air. Among them was the sound of an airplane motor, created by pressing a roll of newspaper against the blades of a revolving fan.

E. V. W., East Pittsburgh—Earle Perris, formerly of Edgewood and WTAM, [illegible] now with National Radio Advertising, Inc., in New York City.

Taking a tip from Phenomena, we have advised Cleveland police to search the community for KDKA's missing piano which was playfully removed from the studio by five "laborers" about six weeks ago. "Phenom" has an idea that it was sold for one thousand bucks.

C. Honse, Homestead Park—Vaugh de Leath has been crooning on the radio since 1920. Mildred Hunt is comparatively a newcomer, starting in 1927. The funny woman in "Chicago" is Adelina Thomason, an actress.

A day that might have meant so much—and she has to be excused. What a pity there's a woman left who does not know of Midol! One or two tablets in time, and not a twinge of pain throughout the periodic process. Or an end to such suffering at any time, five to seven minutes after Midol is taken. Yet this merciful medicine is non-narcotic. Its wonderful results are due to the fact it acts directly on the organs affected, so it's utterly harmless, and it is only common sense to use it. Midol comes in a clever little case of metal you can slip in the smallest purse. And the cost of this comfort is fifty cents.*

* Midol's comfort is not confined to any certain days or age. It relieves at any time of life. Its ease is felt immediately in cases of nervous headache, backache, cramping, hot flashes and all febrile pain peculiar to women.

Sour Stomach

Just a tasteless dose of Phillips Milk of Magnesia in water. That is an alkali, effective, yet harmless. It has been the standard antacid for 50 years among physicians everywhere. One spoonful will neutralize at once many times its volume in acid. It is the right way, the quick, pleasant and efficient way to kill the excess acid. The stomach becomes sweet, the pain departs and you are happy again in five minutes.

Don't depend on crude methods. Employ the best way yet evolved in all the years of searching. That is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Try and use a bottle—any drug store.

Milk of Magnesia has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor, Charles H. Phillips, since 1875.

THE BEST WAY TO WHITEN TEETH

A single application of Phillips Milk of Magnesia Toothpaste will bring gleaming white teeth and a sweet breath.

Prove it at our expense. Write The Phillips Chemical Co., 115 Hudson St., New York, N. Y., for free tendays' supply.

Things I Never Knew Till Now

That most left-handers are a little crazy.

That Sidney Lenz, the bridge expert, will not play for money.

That the expression, "by the skin of my teeth," is found in Book of Job, 19th Chapter, 20th Verse, viz: "My bone cleaveth to my skin and to my flesh, and I am escaped with the skin of my teeth."

That the middle smokestack on the Leviathan is a dummy.

That on Wall Street, National Cash Register is called "Scotch Piano." Ontario & Western is "Old Woman." Missouri, Kansas & Texas is called "Katy," and Louisiana Oil is "Lousy Lou."

FOUR LEGS, TWO KNEES

THAT a horse's knees are on his front legs, and that he has none on his hind ones.

That George Gershwin is that way about a 20-year-old lass named Rosalind Walling, who is that way over a lad tagged Meyer Cohen.

That when Earl Carroll went up to Boston to "doctor" the Ruth Selwyn revue he didn't wear his well known smock. Which aroused a chorus girl to observe "His heart isn't in it."

HOUSEHOLD HINT

THAT some people believe that if you hold a needle between your teeth when you peel an onion your tear-ducts won't open.

That there is a saloon running full blast on Chambers street, swinging doors and everything, but the speakeasy above it was raided so many times that it finally "gave in" and closed.

HAVE KIDNEYS EXAMINED BY YOUR DOCTOR

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Natural Health Power in New Vitaminized FLAXOLYN Amazes Pittsburgh Doctors

Dr. Eldridge of Philadelphia Declares That No Other Medicine in All His Years as Physician Ever Gave the People as Much Benefit as the Brilliant Discovery of Dr. Luntz

Thomas C. Martindale (Ph. N. D.)

"Flaxolyn works naturally upon the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels," says Dr. Thomas C. Martindale, Ph. N. D., celebrated Pennsylvania dietitian. "As the director of the Martindale Health House I have heard such glowing praise and have seen such vast improvements since my health-followers have taken the pleasant new vitaminized Flaxolyn, that I could hardly believe my eyes and ears, in many cases. Really, there is nothing much more I can say about Herbal Flaxolyn. It is the best health preparation I could possibly recommend."

"Gas, Biliousness, Headaches, Back and Rheumatism Pains Gone!" Says Penna. Lady, in Sincere Letter

What more eloquent proof of the merits of Flaxolyn can there possibly be than this simple honest letter of Mrs. A. Logue of Ardsley, Pa.?

"I had been in poor health for several years, suffering with bilious spells and finally rheumatism set in," writes Mrs. Logue. "At first the bilious attacks were one and two a month, but they kept getting closer until I had hardly gained strength from one attack until I was having another.

"I tried everything I was told would do me any good. Many a dollar I paid to physicians, but those medicines only helped me to the beginning. Then I would feel myself losing back, and after taking the medicine for a time it had no effect on me. I got tired and discouraged trying anything more.

"Saw Big Improvements in Short Time

"It said Flaxolyn is not a 'drug' but made from herbs, and I thought well, everything I tried failed, but as I heard Dr. Martindale talk over the radio, I was anxious to give Flaxolyn a trial. That is over a year ago. IN A SHORT TIME I BEGAN TO SEE BIG IMPROVEMENTS. No more bilious spells, gas or headaches, and rheumatism pains almost gone.

"Flaxolyn has done a GREAT DEAL for me.

"If your case is anything at all like Mrs. Logue's, if you have tried medicines and they have proven worthless—give Flaxolyn a trial. It may quickly be the means of changing your entire existence.

Over Radio, Philadelphia Diet Authority Praises Flaxolyn for Tired, Run-down Condition

The picture above is that of Dr. Thomas C. Martindale, head of the Martindale Health House of Philadelphia. Not only has Dr. Martindale recommended Flaxolyn highly in his radio talks over WCAU and WPEN, but he has in addition spoken personally about it to people who visit his well-known establishment in the Quaker City.

Hundreds upon hundreds of these people come back to Dietitian Martindale and report to him on the splendid results they have obtained from Flaxolyn. "And not one of them," he states, "has even expressed anything but the warmest praise for the discovery of our brother Pennsylvanian, Dr. Luntz."

York, Penna., Health Director Calls Flaxolyn "World's Best Health Formula"

Dr. George C. Crandall, whose remarkable health school in York, Pa., is talked about all over the state, is so well pleased with the results of Flaxolyn that he recommends it throughout his entire health institution.

If you can use added strength and energy, more restful sleep, sharper appetite and more vigorous all-around health, you certainly would do well to follow the example of this Pennsylvania institution which teaches people the greatest thing in life—How to Live.

"Flaxolyn Feeds New Strength to Stomach and Nerves!" Says Eminent Phila. Specialist

Forty years' experience in the treatment of organic, blood and nervous diseases has convinced Dr. Eldridge that patients suffering from nervousness, loss of appetite, vertigo, autointoxication or chronic constipation should quit using drastic drugs.

"I advise the use of new vitaminized Flaxolyn," says Dr. Eldridge, "because it is one of Nature's most valuable and efficient herb remedies. I find that it tones the vital organs while acting as a healthful sedative to the entire nervous system; and what is best of all, it leaves no bad or distressing after-effects."

Director of Pittsburgh Health Club Tells How Flaxolyn Brings Fighting Vigor!

Well-Known Physician Consultant Advises Weak, Run-Down Men and Women to Follow Example of Athletes.

Many of the foremost athletes in the State of Pennsylvania today owe their splendid physical condition to the regular use of Dr. Luntz's Vitaminized Herbal Flaxolyn.

Dr. Wm. A. Good, director of the Pittsburgh Lyceum Health Club, says: "The very first thing we think of when we want to build up natural power and strength of the body is Flaxolyn and exercise. I have seen cases where Flaxolyn has helped make a weak stomach as strong as iron.

"It helps correct constipation, stimulates the liver, assists the kidneys. Without exception, Flaxolyn has proven itself to be so remarkable for the inner system that better health and greater vigor were sure to follow. Flaxolyn helps bring organic strength, which is more important to the average man or woman than big muscles."

Thousands of stores in Pennsylvania carry Flaxolyn, as "Nature's Own Health Formula" . . . created by a Philadelphia physician and endorsed by doctors from Pittsburgh, Pa., to Pasadena, Cal.

From London, England, we now learn that men and women all over the British Empire are using Flaxolyn with the same fine results obtained by our folks here.

Dr. Edgar J. Mason, head of the London Health Centre, says: "Flaxolyn has become a tremendous success in England. People like it because it is natural in its action. It brings a ruddy glow of health to the body that has been worn out by toxic poisons."

Dr. C. A. Doak of Pittsburgh

"Sleep Without Drugs" Says Pittsburgh Physician

"Flaxolyn Whips Vital Organs to Normal Action; Relieves Constipated Condition Naturally," Says Dr. Claude Anderson Doak.

Thousands of men and women here who formerly suffered nights of sleeplessness and days of agonizing stomach distress, now feel fit and get a keen pleasure out of life, since receiving the benefits of Dr. Luntz's herbal Flaxolyn.

"You note a condition of physical content as the formula whips the vital organs to more normal action. Flaxolyn acts upon the liver and intestines in such a way that the body is immediately benefited. The new vitaminized Flaxolyn is certainly a wonderful tonic."

Aline Fails Lovejoy When Tom Sees Letters

CHAPTER XXXIII

LOVEJOY jumped up [illegible] his sleeve.

"Please don't [illegible] Tom," she cried, panic-stricken. "She's been trying to get him back! And now she's trying to make trouble for me because she can't have him back!—She's going to tell [illegible] about me! She's a blackmailer, that's what she is."

Tom looked at her in amazement.

Then he stared at Hilda, [illegible] bark of laughter.

"Well, I certainly [illegible] sea," he said. "What's the hand was [illegible] about, anyway. Back [illegible] Who's a [illegible]

He was [illegible] this were some [illegible] joke. But [illegible] A deep [illegible] his eyes.

"No, I don't [illegible] Hilda was [illegible] a good girl, all she doesn't say I'm bad. But she's [illegible] She gets letters from a man. Look!" [illegible]

She [illegible] square white envelopes [illegible] and [illegible] them up and [illegible] where she stood. Lovejoy [illegible] the familiar South Port postmarks on them.

"Every day Moses gets letters like these. Black writing, her heavy [illegible] She gets telegrams too. I copied one of them down—She pays the messenger to get it away from me. But I copy it down on paper. See."

She took a scrap of paper torn from a bag out of her handbag. She held it [illegible] Tom, along with the [illegible] ters.

"Don't touch them," [illegible] Don't believe her. Lovejoy was half-hysterical by this time.

"Aline will tell you that they aren't my letters. Aline always all about them. Don't you, Aline?"

She turned to look at Aline, and Tom turned too. Both of them seemed to be holding their breath, waiting for what she was going to say.

Aline Denies Facts

For a full half minute Aline did not open her lips. Her face had gone dead white under its gay coating of rouge and powder.

She shook her head.

"I'm sorry, Lovejoy," she said, getting to her feet. "I can't help you out. I don't know anything about those letters, and you know I don't. Please, please don't drag me into this."

Without taking her eyes from Lovejoy's face she spoke to her husband.

"Al, I think we'd better go," she said to him.

And before Lovejoy realized what she was doing she was out of the room.

She turned to Tom.

"Well," she said with a short, hard sigh. "That was it. You might have known Aline would do!—Those letters are hers, Tom, and so is that telegram. She's been getting her mail here for a long time."

"Addressed to you?" asked Tom contemptuously. He did not believe her. That was plain.

"These envelopes have your name on them," he went on, turning them over and looking carefully at them.

"They're her letters, too," Hilda broke in triumphantly. "And she used to be always calling up a man she called Steve. She used to go out nights to meet him, when you was away. Mister! She used to make me stay at home with the kids so my basketball nights at the Scandinavian Club."

"That's enough, Hilda," Tom said. He turned and went over to the door of the room. "Come along—you can get out now."

Tells the Truth

When she was gone he came back to Lovejoy. There was a look of savage misery in his eyes as they met hers above the bridge table with its half-emptied glasses and its half-filled ash trays.

"Now, then, what's the low down on all this?" he asked, sitting down and laying the envelopes and the scrap of paper before him.

"I've told you the truth," Lovejoy answered. "Aline has been getting letters from some man in South Port. She's been getting them here and they've all been addressed to me. That's the whole story. Hilda got hold of some of them and tried to sell them to me, and I fired her—two or three weeks ago."

"She said you paid her money to give back that telegram," said Tom, his eyes on the scrap of paper.

"Well—I did. But Aline gave me the money to pay to her. And then she gave her a check, besides."

Tom's lip curled.

"I see," he said. "And what about the nights you telephoned Steve Oglebay and went out with him?"

Lovejoy's white face burned with a deep rose flush at that.

"Well, I did do that," she admitted, "I did. But it was because I was peeved at you for going out to play poker. And I

Recalls Cigar Butt

Lovejoy was shivering all over as if their were snow outside the window instead of summer moonlight.

"Tom," she said in a voice that shook, "Tom, I know that [illegible] that telegram was sent to me by Steve Oglebay."

"Why certainly I do," Tom broke in. "I admit that I'm a little [illegible] but I have sense enough to know that those are [illegible] for a few drinks. Lovejoy—"

She shook her head. "Tom, I know you won't believe me, but that telegram was for Aline. A man named Sam Oliver sent it to her. He met her at our house the day before Hilda left. Do you remember that cigar band that you found? The one I told you had been left there by a man from the furniture store? Well Sam Oliver left it there."

He just looked at her for a few seconds. Then he said quietly:

"I knew you were lying the night you told me that tale about the cigar band. I knew that it's only men like Oglebay who can afford 50-cent cigars."

Lovejoy began to cry.

"Tom, that cigar wasn't Steve's," she sobbed. "That Oliver man left it in the house [illegible] honestly he did." Tom, please look at those letters. You'll see that they were not written to me! Please take them out and read them."

There was an awful gentleness in Tom's movements as he took the two letters out of their envelopes. He spread them out on the card table and looked them over.

Says He's Through

"Darling," the first one started out. "I haven't had a line from you for three days. Nothing to cheer me up but the last one and I've worn that one out reading it. If you knew what a letter from you means to me you'd keep your promise to write to me every day."

There were three more paragraphs all in the same vein.

But there was not a word to show who had written them, or to whom they had been written.

They were not even signed with the initials of the writer.

Then as Aline's letters [illegible] though Lovejoy sat stubbornly looking through the second letter, which was just like the first one. The man who wrote them is named Jack, and he lives in South Port and drives down here to see her sometimes.

Tom, if Steve Oglebay wrote to me he wouldn't mail his letters from South Port, would he?"

Tom shrugged his big shoulders. "Yes, he probably would," he said dully. "When two people are carrying on a clandestine love affair they usually do things like that. Mailing letters from out-of-the-way towns and writing them with a typewriter so that they can't be identified by the hand-writing."

Well," he said with energy, "I guess this is just about the end of things for you and me, isn't it?"

"Why?" Lovejoy could hardly speak. "Don't you believe me, Tom? She'd got out what she had to say in little sobbing jerks.

Tom sneered. "I'm not crazy," he said brutally. "Would believe a cock-and-bull like the one you've just told me? You don't think I'm such an idiot as to believe there's anybody named Sam Oliver, do you?"

Lovejoy opened her trembling lips to speak, but he stopped her.

"Anyhow, you've admitted that you used to go out to meet Steve Oglebay at night!" he said. "And if you think I'm going to live with a woman who does things like that, you don't know me! I'm through with you, understand? I'm all—through—with—you!"

CHICKIE

By ELENORE MEHERIN

old dad and little Jennie alone so much?"

It always made her want to cry when he talked like this. It took the joy out of things.

And she was lonely enough, with Jimmy gone and Mary married. Twice after Jimmy's return he asked her to go out. Each time, as it happened, she had the evening promised. For a long while he didn't drop in or ask again.

Then Mary's son was born. Her whole thought and all her soul were just poured out on that helpless little bundle on that wrinkled funny little thing so out of shape in Chickie's eyes, so soft and perfect in Mary's. Chickie couldn't spend all her evenings watching over little James Edward McPike.

Why shouldn't Jonathan want her to see the good shows—dance once or twice a week? Just sweet, harmless things like that. She wanted no vivid adventures, as Janina told with such a crimson tongue.

She could often have gone out with a crowd—stayed until the drab gray morning broke. Other girls in the office did that. Chickie had not even a wish for it.

Until one day a startling thing happened.

The Red-Head
Excited When She Sees Him Watching Her

Chickie worked in a towering office building. Across the little alley was a companion building. Chickie's desk was near the window. In her idle moments she used to watch the girls in these other offices.

There was one with bushy hair like a Fiji Islander. She spent every available moment feverishly rubbing a buffer over her nails. Another, with thin, pointed shoulders and a hungry, avaricious way of pounding her typewriter, was riveted to her desk. Chickie turned her eyes.

There was the superb, luxurious creature with all the empty extravagance of a movie queen who fascinated Chickie. She never seemed to do any work, but sat with her feet on the radiator, a magazine in her lap. Two or three times she caught Chickie's stare and returned for it a most enchanting smile.

One day, as Chickie watched the movie girl there stood at an adjoining window a man—a young man—tall—with a beautifully sculptured head. He had a penknife in his hand and was slowly paring his finger nails. He stared over and grinned. Chickie was suddenly aware that he had been looking at her and she looking at him for many seconds. She flushed crimson, turning abruptly to her desk.

Her hands trembled on the typewriter keys. She felt drawn mightily, as by some electric current, to that opposite window. She could see the young face, alight with careless mirth—red hair—thick—brushed back—

For an hour she fought against the impulse to look again. Then she took a little sidelong glance. From out the shadow of the room a tall form defined itself. The young man stood at the window.

Tremors of excitement went tingling over her—little swift waves of fire. He stood there and waited as though she had called and he was merely answering. Then he laughed, and there was something boyish and full of lark in the light that seemed to glance about him. She wanted to laugh, too, to call out gayly: "Hello, Red-head!"

She had read a story once of a girl in a boarding house watching a young man in a studio across the street. The young man was an artist—a lonely fellow. When he became aware of the girl's interest it made him glad, like sun streaming into a solitary house. That was a beautiful story—all full of love. So sparkling the way they got acquainted and had such joyous times together.

Chickie imagined herself the girl in the story. She wondered about the young man, weaved dreams about him.

But for two days after this first encounter she kept her eyes from wandering across the alley. Deep in her work one afternoon there came a sharp bang that made her look up quickly. Across the street the window of romance had been rattled down and now was rattled up. There, in the window, laughing at her, was the red-haired young man. Before she was aware, her lips opened with a rush of bubbling happiness.

Yet several times they passed each other on the street. Chickie looked straight ahead. She felt the blood racing to her cheeks, her heart leaping.

One soft afternoon in late September a sudden breeze whisking through the open window lifted her papers scattering them in a whirlwind all about the floor. As she stooped to pick them up the phone at her desk rang. A deep rollicking voice offered, "Oh, I'll come over and gather them up if you like."

She knew at once that it was he. Then he was at the window, the phone in his hand. She put up the receiver quickly, but not before Janina had seen.

When Chickie followed Janina's eyes sparkled. "A wild case on the delightful red head, haven't we?"

"Oh, you have men on the brain, Janina!"

"Good place to keep them, baby! Guaranteed harmless until we let them move out of our heads and into our hearts. Too bad when you have more room downstairs than up! Like to meet our good young friend?"

"What do you mean?"

"That you've been throwing your eyes and heaven knows what else across the alley for the last six weeks. Well I should be surprised if he's just the man for you! I'll arrange it."

SCIENCE HELD SCHOOLS' NEED

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 14 (AP)—A curriculum based on natural science is needed in the schools, Dr. William John Cooper, national commissioner of education, asserted in an address before the White-Williams Foundation.

Dr. Cooper said the outstanding characteristics of the present age were change, speed, mechanization, standardization and a standard of values based on dollars and cents.

"From a mechanization of life," he declared, "is a short step to standartization. There is great danger of standardizing the human being. This would be an exceedingly unfortunate thing for civilization.

"I can see that federalization of education is inevitable. I know that I am at odds with Secretary of the Interior Wilbur on this point, but it is the only correct indication I can draw from the circumstances.

"Along with the machine and standardization has grown the dollars-and-cents standard of conduct and existence. This standard is essentially wrong, but is backed by forces that cannot be moved by the church. Such a standard is necessary in this kind of civilization.

"Man was not made for such a mode of life. His nervous system and anatomy are not fitted for it. We shall certainly be destroyed unless we install a new curriculum in our schools, a curriculum that will supplant the present system's inadequate teaching of history, geography and social science.

"A curriculum is needed that is based on the natural sciences that will seek out new truths and foster educational experiments. The ready-made philosophy conceived under the influence of theology, with all truth a seemingly discovered fact, has failed to cope with the situation confronting our children. It is no good today."

The Butlers were en route to their home in Eastland when the four-year-old girl ran in front of their car. In a vain attempt to keep from striking the child, the car was swerved to one side, striking the Bertino car.

Rumanian Prince Beats Man in Way of Auto

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Feb. 14 (AP)—Prince Nicholas of Rumania, member of the regency council, drew the fire of a deputy in Parliament for having thrashed a peasant whose cart obstructed the passage of his automobile.

The prince, traveling at a high speed in his automobile, had to slow up on account of a lumbering peasant cart. Impatient at delay, he jumped from the machine and beat the peasant.

Deputy Jowipale called the attention of the Lower House to his conduct, but the matter was dropped on the intervention of the speaker.

Surplus and Contingency Reserve (An Increase of $5,800,000)	72,807,000
Total Liabilities (Including paid up Capital)	495,390,000
Assets, at December 31st, 1929 (An Increase of $79,239,000)	568,197,000

Rate of Interest earned on mean invested assets 7.02%

The high rate of dividends allotted to participating policyholders is continued and the special dividend on maturing policies extended and increased.

EXTRACTS FROM DIRECTORS' REPORT

New policies paid for numbered 161,391 for a net amount of $654,451,143.27, an advance of $213,206,752.36, or more than forty-eight per cent., over the previous year. This marked increase and the fact that the average policy, for the first time, exceeded $4,000, affords impressive evidence of the ever-growing popularity of the Company.

After deducting amounts reassured, the total assurances in force amount to $2,401,237,036.94, an increase of $504,321,102.37. This advance is notable not merely for its magnitude, but because when allowance is made for terminations by death and maturity, it represents a remarkably high rate of continuance and evidences great satisfaction on the part of our policyholders.

The amount paid to policyholders since organization, together with the amount at present held for their security or benefit, exceeds the total amount received from them in premiums by $139,290,474.03.

The rate of interest earned on the mean invested assets has risen to 7.02 per cent. This figure includes a certain amount from bonuses and stock privileges accruing on many of the Company's holdings; but if these were entirely eliminated the rate would still be 6.60 per cent.

A net profit of $13,077,284.62 was realized from the redemption or sale of securities.

The surplus earned during the year, based on the values entered in the accounts, amounted to $42,863,578.59, but from this sum substantial appropriations have as usual been made to further strengthen the position of the Company.

An additional $10,000,000.00 has been deducted from the market values of our securities as a provision against possible market fluctuations, raising the amount thus set aside for this purpose in the accounts to $30,000,000.00.

A further $1,000,000.00 has been written off the Company's buildings.

$931,000.00 has been appropriated to raise the annuity reserves to the Rutherford table of valuation, with interest at 3½ per cent. This exacting standard requires reserves $2,656,000.00 in excess of those of the Dominion Government standard.

$1,200,000.00 has been set aside as additional provision for claims arising from total disability, death claims as yet unreported, and possible claims under cancelled policies on which a surrender value or reinstatement might be applied for.

$22,606,265.67 has been paid or allotted as profits for the year to policyholders.

The special amount entered as a liability to provide for unforeseen contingencies has been maintained at $12,500,000.00.

After making all these deductions and allocations, $5,868,899.96 has been added to the undivided surplus, bringing the total over liabilities, contingency accounts, and capital stock to $60,307,762.44.

In accordance with our usual conservative practice the securities owned by the Company have again been valued at figures much below the market quotations current at the close of the year. This undervaluation represents an important element of strength to the Company additional to the specific provisions in the statements.

Your Directors are pleased to announce that the high scale of profits at present allotted to participating policyholders will be continued during the ensuing year, while the Special Dividend on maturing policies, introduced last year, has been extended to include policies maturing after having been in force five years or longer, and the scale of benefit has been increased.

The business of the Company has always been conducted under the exacting provisions of the Canadian Insurance law and the rigid supervision of the Insurance Department of the Government of Canada. Ever since we entered the United States in 1895, the Company has been under similar supervision there and is now subject to the regulations of thirty-eight States of the Union which require periodical examination of the affairs of all companies licensed in their territory. In the discharge of their regular duties a committee of twenty-two examiners, representing the States of Michigan, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Ohio, Tennessee, Washington, Virginia, West Virginia, Florida and the District of Columbia recently completed an exhaustive examination into every department of the Company's affairs. The report of this committee makes gratifying reference to the liberal treatment accorded to our policyholders, and provides authoritative testimony to the Company's strength. Even adopting the low valuations placed by us on our securities, the committee still reported a surplus at the close of last year $1,333,921.71 in excess of the figure claimed by the Company.

Relish and Oil of Olives Stimulates the Appetite

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Former Health Commissioner of New York City
United States Senator From New York

OLIVES are of very ancient origin. Ancient writings tell us that the wild olive flourished in Asia in prehistoric times. We read of it in the Bible narratives. The Mount of Olives has made the name historic.

Later the olive was cultivated extensively in Asia Minor, Palestine, then planted in Africa, in Spain and in time Greece and the Southern part of Italy. Still later it was introduced into France. At the present time Italy produces more than one-third of the olives and oil of the world. Then come Spain, Greece, France and Spain. Although the cultivation of the olive is a rich industry in Europe, Mexico, Central and South America and in our own country in Arizona and California.

POPULAR AS RELISH

Olives are becoming more and more popular as a relish. Either the green or the ripe olive is pickled in a brine and is very appetizing. Everybody needs a certain amount of fat and the fat content of the olive is particularly high in quality.

Ripe olives are becoming more popular all the time.

Olive oil is mostly manufactured in Europe. It is a wholesome and attractive oil for food uses such as salad oil and for cooking. In making the oil the fruit and sometimes the kernels are pressed from the fully matured ripe olives. They are first ground between stones, causing a paste formation. The paste is then placed in woven hair mats and subjected to great pressure. The oil expressed is DEVILED SARDINE CANAPES impart just the right piquant touch to the beginning of our Sunday dinner, and stimulate the appetite for the roast crown of lamb that follows. Not that the appetite will need much coaxing when this roast appears on the table.

But first the canapes. Skin and bone a can of sardines, or better still, use the boned variety. Place them in a well-buttered tin, add ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, ½ teaspoon mustard, and a pinch of cayenne. Cover with 1 tablespoon bread crumbs. Bake for 10 minutes and serve hot on toast rounds.

FOR the crown of lamb, have butcher prepare the rib in the shape of a crown and grind the lean meat with about a pound of round steak to fill the centre of the crown.

Soak 2 slices bread for a few minutes, then squeeze it dry. Add it to the ground meat and season with salt and pepper. Fry 1 teaspoon chopped onion for a few minutes in 1 tablespoon hot fat. Now add the meat and fold in 1 beaten egg. Pack this filling inside the crown.

Sprinkle the chops from the rib with salt and pepper and wrap a piece of salt pork around each one. Add 1 tablespoon fat and about ¼ cup water. Bake the crown slowly in a moderate oven for 1 hour or more until the chops are tender.

The center may be filled with peas or potatoes, but for variety I'd suggest riced chestnuts. After blanching the chestnuts and removing the shells, boil them in salted water until soft. Drain and put them through a ricer. Then pile them lightly in the center of the crown and serve.

YOU never have to be urged to eat salads during the summer time.

In the winter time it is as important, if not more important, to eat salads as it is to eat soup in the summer.

Raw vegetables are full of vitamines. They have their mineral salts, too.

Here is one of my very favorite salads, to my mind a very queen among salads. If you want to leave out or add anything to it, I beg of you to proceed cautiously, for the dish as it stands is delicious.

Special Salad—Mix together in a bowl ½ pound of endive, cut into ½-inch strips an equal amount of shredded lettuce, a small onion chopped, 6 stuffed olives cut into slices, half a green pepper chopped and a pimento chopped. Place in the refrigerator to chill thoroughly. This is important, for the crisp coldness of the mixture is half its charm. Just before serving mix in 3 tablespoons of chopped boiled beets, ½ of a package of sharp cheese, which has been crumbled, and enough French dressing to moisten slightly. Toss with silver forks and heap into the salad plates.

LAMB CHOPS have always been a delicacy. It isn't a bit necessary to dress up lamb chops, for their own natural flavor is all they need to recommend them. But for those who are always on the hunt for something different, I suggest these recipes:

LAMB CHOPS WITH MUSHROOMS—Broil Frenched lamb chops. In the meantime chop fine a can of mushrooms drained, mix to a paste with a little very thick cream sauce.

Spread the chops with this mixture, dip into beaten egg, then in crumbs and fry to a golden brown. Decorate the rib bone with an elegant paper frill and serve at once.

LAMB CHOPS DELICIOUS—Season the chops with salt and pepper. Cook on one side in a little melted butter. Cover the cooked side with a paste of chopped chicken, put through a coarse sieve.

Sprinkle liberally with minced parsley, put into the oven and finish cooking. Serve with a sauce.

LAMB CHOPS ITALIAN—Brown lamb chops in butter, add a little stock with two carrots, an onion, a sprig of parsley and a bit of thyme to season. Cover and simmer until the chops are done. Remove the chops and keep hot. Reduce the liquid by rapid boiling.

Strain and add to it a half cup of bread crumbs, the mashed yolk of a hard-boiled egg, six finely chopped mushrooms, salt and pepper. Spread the chops with this mixture, sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese and brown in the oven. Serve with tartar sauce.

STUFFED FIG COOKIES—Drain the syrup from 1 cup fresh canned figs. Now cream ½ cup shortening with 2-3 cup sugar and add 1 well-beaten egg. Sift together 3 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder and ½ teaspoon salt. Add ½ cup of the drained fig syrup, then the dry ingredients to the first mixture.

Roll the cookie dough on a well-floured board, and cut in rounds. Chop the drained figs and mix with 1 teaspoon grated orange rind. Place a teaspoon of the orange and figs in the center of each cookie round. Moisten the edges and cover with another round, pressing the edges together.

Bake on a greased cookie sheet 10 to 12 minutes in a moderately hot oven.

POTATO PANCAKES—Grate 3 or 4 large pared potatoes. Add ½ teaspoon salt, 2 eggs well beaten and 1 teaspoon flur sifted with ½ teaspoon baking powder. Heat ½ cup fat in a spider and drop the potato mixture from the tip of a spoon into the fat. The pancakes should fry slowly in plenty of fat until they are brown and crisp on both sides.

CREAM OF MUSHROOM SOUP—Cook ½ pound mushrooms in 3 tablespoons butter until well browned, add 4 cups white stock (chicken or veal broth) and cook 20 minutes. Remove the mushrooms and chop them. To the stock add 1 slice onion, salt and pepper to taste. But the mushrooms through a sieve, return to the stock and bind with ¼ cup butter and ¼ cup flour cooked together. Add ½ cup cream, a little paprika, remove the onion, season with more salt and pepper if necessary. Serve with a spoonful of whipped cream and a sprig of parsley.

CODFISH CAKES—Soak 2 cups salt codfish for 1 hour, then drain. Flake into small pieces and let stand in boiling water for 15 minutes. Drain again. Mix the fish with 2 cups mashed potatoes, 1 tablespoon butter, ¼ cup of milk and 2 eggs. Season with a few grains pepper. Shape into flat cakes and fry in hot fat until brown. Place a poached egg on each serving.

PINWHEEL COOKIES—Cream 1½ cups shortening, add 1 cup brown sugar and cream together. Then add 3 eggs, one at a time, beating after each addition. Sift together 4 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon salt and 2 teaspoons cinnamon. Divide the dough into 2 parts, adding 2 squares melted chocolate to 1 portion. Then roll the chocolate dough to ¼ inch in thickness, roll the plain dough to the same thickness and place it on the chocolate dough. Then roll the 2 doughs like a jelly roll, wrap in wax paper and chill overnight in the refrigerator. Slice very thin when ready to bake. This will give a pinwheel effect.

NUT COOKIES—Sift flour and measure out 1 cup and to it add 1 teaspoon baking powder and ¼ teaspoon salt. Cream 1-3 cup butter and add ¾ cup sugar and cream thoroughly. Add 2 well beaten eggs, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, sifted flour mixture and ¾ cup fine chopped nuts. Drop in small mounds on an ungreased cookie sheet, spread with a spatula to wafer thinness and bake in a hot oven 10 minutes.

SCALLOPED APPLES—Cut 1 small stale loaf of bread in halves, remove the soft part and crumb by rubbing through a colander, melt ¼ cup butter and stir in lightly with a fork, cover the bottom of a buttered baking dish with crumbs and spread over ½ quart sliced apples, sprinkle with ½ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon grated nutmeg, grated rind and juice of ¼ of a lemon. Repeat the mixture, cover with the remaining crumbs and bake 40 minutes in a moderate oven. Cover at first to prevent the crumbs from browning too rapidly. Serve with sugar and cream.

CELERY AND CHEESE CASSEROLE—Make a white sauce of 1 tablespoon butter, 2 tablespoons flour and ½ cup evaporated milk diluted with ½ cup water and add ½ teaspoon salt. To the sauce add 2 cups chopped celery, 1 cup cheese and 1 cup cooked spaghetti. Place in an oiled baking dish and cover with ½ cup buttered crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven until brown.

Prunes stuffed with almonds and rolled in shredded cocoanut make a splendid nerve-feeding dessert or an extra tid-bit to be passed later in the evening.

VIENNA CAKES—Three-fourths cup butter, ½ cup sugar, yolks of 5 eggs, 4 squares of unsweetened chocolate, 1½ cups

HOOVER'S HILL SCHOOL READY

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 14. (AP.) — Miss Christine Vest, mountaineer school teacher, this week-end will move into her new home and work—the President's Community School near Criglersville, high in the mountains of Madison County.

The new schoolhouse, erected in practically virgin territory, was conceived by President Hoover last August, when Ray Buracher, 12-year-old barefoot mountain lad, slid through the President's summer camp guards and presented Mr. Hoover with a 'possum on his fifty-sixth birthday.

Since the school was planned, however, word has leaked out that Mrs. Hoover several times has added thoughts to its building and furnishings. In consequence the completed structure contains many features not originally proposed. There are electric lights, running water, wall sockets for domestically heated irons of various sorts, enormous fireplaces and storm doors. The class room floor for 30 pupils is linoleum covered. All other rooms are laid with woolen rugs. The kitchen sports an electric refrigerator.

Raymond V. Long, supervisor of the school buildings of the Virginia State Department of Education, designed the school and executed many changes after consultations with the President and Mrs. Hoover. Long reported the building in shape for occupancy at once.

Its cost, originally estimated at around $1,200, will actually exceed $8,000. This and the upkeep of the project will be borne by the Chief Executive, according to the best available information here.

EMPLOYMENT GAIN NOTED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (INS.)—Admitting there was a great volume of unemployment apparent during the first half of January, the United States employment service, Department of Labor, today predicted the country would be on a normal employment basis within 60 to 90 days.

All reports indicate that an upward swing in employment is in motion, the department's report said.

The outlook for iron and steel is unusually encouraging, large orders having been placed for these classes of such products and many furloughed workers have been called back. The same is true of the automobile and allied industries.

While the coal industry is still suffering from considerable unemployment a noticeable improvement was recorded during the latter part of January. Much unemployment has been caused by severe weather conditions which curtailed building operations and municipal improvements.

Road construction on a scale larger than in any recent year will absorb much of the unemployment, the survey stated.

GIRL'S SOBBING ALMOST ENDED

ATTLEBORO, Mass., Feb. 14 (INS.)—Eighteen-year-old Violet Michael, believed to have broken all medical records for prolonged sobbing and crying, was on the road to recovery today.

The sobbing, which began Saturday at 6:30 p. m. when her mother started to return to her home in New Bedford, has all but stopped, Dr. Earl R. White said today. Intervals of sobbing have become less frequent and soon will cease altogether, Dr. White added.

Refreshed from 10 hours' sleep—from 8 p. m. yesterday to 6 a. m. today, with only two brief sobbing periods during that time—Miss Michael told her physician she felt strong enough to leave the bed.

Permission was given her to sit up for a time today. The straps which bind the aching and swollen muscles of her side were removed. Her eyes, which had been swollen by continual crying and sobbing, were improved.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Feb. 14—The Board of Education has appointed W. W. Duff, A. C. Hyde and Albert W. Bauman as a committee to meet with D. S. Pyle, representing manufacturers, to reach an agreement relative to daylight saving. It is expected that an agreement will be reached for daylight saving to be in force from June to September 1. This will require the schools to be on daylight saving time for less than two weeks in June.

ARGUE RECEIPTS TO UNSIGNED PHILS

ONE argument advanced by the owners of the Phillies in support of their side of the salary controversies with Frank O'Doul, Chuck Klein, Arthur Whitney and others is that they are not so conveniently able as other clubs in the majors to pay stipends of the size demanded by the holdouts. Not only are they denied the privilege of playing Sunday baseball at home, they point out, but the capacity of their park is smaller than that of any other in the big leagues.

Frank O'Doul

President William F. Baker and other officials of the Phils call attention to the fact that even on their biggest days the team cannot play to more than 17,000 paid admissions at home, whereas rival clubs are able to pack many additional thousands of fans into their parks.

The difference in income, it is contended, renders it impossible for the Phils to pay salaries as large as those paid by other clubs. The stand of the Quaker owners is that they cannot be expected to carry a payroll as large as that of a club that has greater receipts.

ALL of which suggests that if some magnates had their way the value of a player would depend upon the name of the club to which he had been carried by the changing tide of baseball fortune. He would have a certain earning power with one team, but less with another to which he would be expected to give the same ability and the same efforts.

It's just another of baseball's queer angles, and there are arguments both ways. Take O'Doul for example. While he was a Giant, he was with a club prosperous enough to pay top-notch salaries, but he didn't prove valuable enough to win a contract of that kind. With the Phillies he proved good enough to lead the league in batting, but now the Phil owners claim they can't pay the salary which a man of such rare hitting attainments would appear to be worth.

IN the case of Fred Leach, for whom Manager John McGraw of the Giants traded O'Doul last winter, things worked just the other way. Leach played great ball for the Phils, but he didn't receive a record-breaking salary.

The O'Doul trade put Leach with a club able to pay as much as any in the business, but after he donned a uniform for McGraw he failed to shine with the brilliance to be expected of a high-salaried performer, and it is reported that the 1930 contract which he signed the other day calls for a cut in wages. Seemingly he wasn't able to grasp the opportunity offered.

John McGraw

AND there's another item entering into playing values that doesn't appear on the surface. Baseball has known a number of players who were outstanding stars on tail-end clubs, but complete flops on pennant-aspiring teams. The athlete of this type looks good on a weak outfit because he is surrounded by inferior mates and shines in comparison. He is helped also by the fact that his club never has much at stake, leaving him carefree and under no strain. When he's on a flag contender, conditions are different. Sometimes he doesn't look so good after being thrown among players of real ability, and when every game counts heavily in a pennant effort he isn't always able to stand up under the strain.

IT doesn't necessarily follow that O'Doul and Leach are players of that type—good on a poor club and weak on a good one—but their cases serve at least to show that ability isn't the only thing that figures in the size of a diamond athlete's salary. The identity of the club he is with is part of the fortunes of war.

If he happens to be connected with a rich concern that is a steady money-maker, naturally his chances of being liberally treated in the matter of salary are greatly improved. On the other hand, judging from the stand of the Phils' owners, if an equally capable player is thrown by fate onto a second-division outfit he is simply out of luck.

BAKER will find few sympathizers in his wail that the Phils cannot make large profits in their small home park. It is only his own stubbornness that keeps them there, for it is known that he could rent the Athletics' park for his home games for only $5,000 more per year than he pays for his present handbox.

The increase in the attendance of women would alone pay the difference and he could accommodate almost 30,000 patrons instead of only 17,000. But Baker, for reasons of his own, refuses to move, and this refusal hurts every other club in the league in a business way. Profitable crowds could not be packed into Baker bowl even if the Phils had a pennant winner.

Chick Davies

DESPITE the fact that Carnegie Tech is having another off year in basketball, as attested unmistakably by the loss of 11 games in a row, Father Pitt continues to be an outstanding figure in collegiate floor circles by reason of the great showing of Pitt and Duquesne University. While Dr. Clif Carlson's Panther stars are bowling over opponents in their customary style, Coach Chick Davies' Bluffites are sticking right at their heels with a showing that stamps them as a team of extraordinary class. The latest victories over Loyola and West Virginia added two more chapters to a remarkable record. No college town on the map boasts a greater pair of teams than Pittsburgh owns in the Panthers and the Dukes.

ANOTHER out-of-town boost for Charley Hyatt, Pitt basketball star, appears in the Cleveland "News" in the form of a letter written to that paper by Harry Beeson, of Cleveland. "Hyatt began his floor career at Uniontown (Pa.) High School during the season of 1922-23 on the inter-class teams of the school and was a member of the varsity the succeeding three seasons," Beeson writes.

"The season of 1924-25 was the greatest for the team, as in that campaign we won the Pennsylvania state championship and the honor of playing at Chicago in the national tournament. We played up to the semi-finals under the leadership of Capt. Cecil Connelly, with Hyatt as the leading scorer for our team, and with the able support of Lester Cohen, also a regular member of the present Pitt varsity, and the two other regular members of the five, Markus Rankin and Joe Hackney.

"I DO not have the record of Hyatt's total points for that season, but at the national tournament he won the distinction of all-America forward. In the last season that Hyatt played at Uniontown High he made the record of scoring 114 field goals and 42 out of 46 fouls for a total of 270 points out of 630 made by the entire team for the season.

"The above are just a few of the reasons why Hyatt is rated as

Luque Returns Robins Contract

HAVANA, Feb. 14.—(AP.)—Adolfo Luque, veteran Cuban pitcher recently traded by the Cincinnati Reds to the Brooklyn Robins, has returned his 1930 contract to the Brooklyn Club unsigned. Luque said yesterday that the Robins had made a cut in his salary and that he did not intend to accept it, as he believed he was worth more. He is in great shape, he says, and ready to work his head off for Brooklyn, providing he gets enough money.

SOUTH BATTLES SCHENLEY IN BIG GAME

The championship of Section I, of the City League, may be decided this afternoon as Schenley and South come together on the Market House floor in the crucial game of the second half race. The contest easily tops the day's card for a triumph for the Washabaugh-coached quintet will practically clinch the 1930 title.

Heading the card in Section II and ranking close to the Schenley-South contest in importance is the Perry-South Hills battle on the Tunnelites' floor. A win for Perry will put the North Side passers all but out of reach of the Hillsmen, who are pressing close on the heels of the leaders, half a game in arrears.

SOUTH SEEKS REVENGE

The game between Schenley and South recalls the first half struggle between the teams, won by Schenley, 30-20, with Fred Crum elongated center playing the star role. Crum led his team to the triumph, sticking in with seven field goals. He will have his hands full again today, as South, not permitting that one defeat to dishearten it, has been moving along at a lively clip, and when Westinghouse unexpectedly upset Schenley, Tuesday, moved into first place.

While South and Schenley are fighting it out for the lead, Westinghouse will attempt to bump off another of the leaders by taking over Fifth Avenue on the Uptowners' floor. Peabody plays Allderdice in the third game in the division.

In the second section, besides the South Hills-Perry fracas, Carrick meets Allegheny Vocational and Allegheny takes on Oliver in a North Side district feature.

Six W. P. I. A. L. teams, in as far as the title races in their respective sections are concerned, will continue their campaigns with games over which they need to worry but little, while other fives, still battling for supremacy, take on hard foes.

BELLEVUE VS. BEN AVON

In Section II, Bellevue, repeating his triumph of a year ago, meets Ben Avon at Ben Avon with the title again in its grasp. In Division IV, Beaver High will attempt to ruin the perfect record of the champion Aliquippa five, but can hope for but little success. Monessen rulers in Section V, meets California at California.

In Section VII, Homestead, defending league champion, plays Munhall at home, and must down the visitors today to retain its grasp on the sectional lead. Coraopolis, unbeaten in Section IX, meets Crafton at Coraopolis, and figures to keep its slate clear. Uniontown, out in front in tough Section X, and also unbeaten is at home to the ambitious proteges of Earl Loucks at Greensburg.

STATE TOURNEY PLANS SET

HARRISBURG, Feb. 14.—(AP.)—The annual basketball championship of the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association will be decided in a game to be played on March 29 at either Philadelphia or Pittsburgh.

The winners in districts 1 and 2, 3 and 4, and 5 and 6 will be paired in inter-district games to be played on March 18 at places to be decided by the regional boards involved. The game between the winners of districts numbers 7 and 8 will be staged on a date to be selected later.

The survivors of the districts 1-2 and 3-4 games will meet at either Philadelphia or Wilkes-Barre on March 22 for the game which will determine the champion of the eastern half of the state. On the same date the winners of districts 5-6 and 7-8 games will play at Pittsburgh for the western title. The two finalists will then compete one week later for the state P. I. A. A. crown now held by Hazleton High School.

SMITH BEATS MASSEY

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 14.—(AP.)—Steve Smith, 126, of Bridgeport, slugged his way to a decision over Tony Massey, 129, of Philadelphia, in a smashing give and take 10-round battle here last night.

YESTERDAY'S EXPLANATIONS: THE MAN WITH A LID ON HIS STOMACH—This case has been very interesting to physicians all over the world. At one time, St. Martin traveled about exhibiting the wound to physicians and medical students. He had many opportunities to go before London and Paris medical societies, but did not go abroad. A full account may be found in the November 15, 1902, edition of the Journal of the American Medical Association. THE OLD WOMAN WHO LIVES IN A SHIPPING BOX—This queer home may be seen on the approach of the St. Charles Bridge in St. Louis County, Mo. The home is just an ordinary dry goods box and has no door and its furnishings consist only of a few rags. Its occupant eats only what is given her and never asks alms of any kind.

GRIMES, BUCS RESUME SALARY CONFAB TODAY

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

"There's many a slip—" as the poet said; in the case of Burleigh Grimes, however, it seemed almost assured today that he soon would be safely within the Pirate fold. That Burleigh will be fixed up in time to take the "choo-choo" Tuesday night appeared plausible after a fruitful conference between the athlete and his employers yesterday.

Moreover, Grimes, by one thoughtful gesture, gave eloquent testimony as to how he feels toward the Pirates and the new manager, Jewel Ens.

It is the custom among club-owners when dealing with players to lock themselves behind closed doors with the athlete involved and nobody else. The Pittsburgh team has followed this custom for some time, but Grimes yesterday showed manliness and a general spirit of broad-mindedness by inviting Ens into the big pow-wow.

STAR-MANAGER IN ACCORD

Fans are aware that in the heat of a game last fall, Burleigh and his manager had a little run-in during a battle at St. Louis. Unfortunately, there were many people who would sulk if they were involved in similar circumstances, but neither Grimes nor Ens come under this classification.

Burleigh and Vice President Sam Dreyfuss had a session by themselves yesterday afternoon. After talking for a spell they threw open the doors leading to the inner sanctum of Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the team, where the important sessions was held.

THE RETORT COURTEOUS

Manager Ens was in the outer office when the two emerged. Sam Dreyfuss had some other business to transact and when he disposed of these matters he was ready to take on the ace again in the star chamber session. Now it was hardly the place of the club official to ask Ens into the meeting, view of the existing conditions. Grimes, however, asked Jewel to sit in and his tone had the real

GREGORIO MAY LOSE RODGERS BOUT HERE

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

The Motor Square Garden Boxing Club, which has drawn two swell gates in its last two shows with the Sergt. Sammy Baker-Joe Trippe and Benny Schwartz-Jackie Rodgers return bouts, is said to have dropped the idea of bringing in a worthy out-of-town opponent for Rodgers when it resumes operations on March 24 and, instead, is trying to sound out sentiment on a third battle between Jackie Rodgers and Howard Mayberry, the Donora veteran.

Mayberry, who proved his gaginess in beating Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, in the main bout at the Moose Temple Wednesday night, like Dunn, holds two victories over Rodgers in as many starts and believes he still can take the measure of the Negro knockout sensation, who has stopped his last seven opponents. For that matter, Dunn, too, is certain he can repeat over Jackie.

FLYNN CLAIMS MATCH

Promoter Francis Flynn, of the Moose Temple Club, announced in offering the fans the Mayberry-Dunn elimination that he would make Rodgers go through with one of three contracts his manager has signed against the winner. Wednesday's bout was a bad fight, mainly because both Mayberry and Dunn are good boxers and they spent more time trying to outgeneral one another than they did in fighting. It was close, with Mayberry finishing up in better style to cop the verdict.

The Garden promised the fans they would see Vidal Gregorio against Rodgers last Monday night and then shifted and instead used Schwartz as Jackie's foe and he lasted only a little more than two minutes of the opening round. Meanwhile it was announced that His opponent is the largest man Carnera has fought. Sigman weighs 235 pounds, but is 40 pounds lighter than the Italian. The fight is expected to draw 12,000 fans.

The distinguished looking gent, Dutch Hermann, who's phiz adorns the head of this column, is here in Pittsburgh on his annual two-day visit, and with him is his Penn State basketball squad. Dutch's boys meet Pitt in the Stadium Pavilion tonight and tomorrow, cross Panther Hollow for the annual appearance against Carnegie Tech.

Dutch Hermann

The appearance of Burke M. and his Nittany Lions here about this time each year is a signal for sort of a revival of college basketball interest. No matter how the local clubs may be faring, when State comes to town, things begin to look up and the money changers at the Stadium and Tartan gym box offices get numb digits from counting the dough that rolls into the coffers.

PITT HAS EDGE

As has been the case for the past couple years, the Lions are taking on Pitt first, and then Tech. Until Doc Carlson started to turn out unbeaten ball clubs back in 1928, and tougher than ordinary ones in '27, Dutch didn't care particularly which he played first. But now he likes to shoot the works against Pitt and then take a chance on Carnegie. He hasn't beaten Pitt since 1927.

Dr. Carlson's Panthers, with a string of some 14 triumphs against one defeat, are odds on favorites tonight. The Panthers vanquished Notre Dame their last time out, for the second time this season. Coach Carlson plans to start his regular lineup, with Hyatt and Zehfuss kicking about at the forwards, Les Cohen at center and Willie Artiare and Eddie Baker at the guards.

STAHLEY AT GUARD

Coach Dutch has shifted his lineup somewhat from the way it started last, and the result of his experimentation finds Capt. Neil Stahley, a swell kid, at guard, along with Ed Lee. Saltzman, moved up from guard to forward, will team with Macomb. Fred Brand is due to begin the action at center.

State has won three out of seven games so far. West Virginia, Carnegie Tech and Western Maryland have been turned back.

Sport Vignettes

When a man gets all the money he'll ever need he craves either popularity or recognition of achievement..... Sometimes both..... Gene Tunney turned his back on boxing at the height of his career because the fans couldn't learn to like him..... They resented the fact that he had crushed an idol and the memory of a Dempsey that once was great..... He paid the penalty..... Seldom has there been a more misunderstood man than Tunney in the public eye..... Part of it was his own fault..... He was a great boxer and a good champion..... Make no mistake about that..... Even now, after his long retirement from the ring, he probably could come back and reclaim the title and defend it successfully..... His art was built up on a firm foundation..... He learned his rudiments well when he was learning them..... He would have given much to be popular, but it wasn't to be..... The day after he defeated Dempsey a second time in their bout in Chicago a mob was waiting outside his hotel for a glimpse at him..... Benny Leonard visited him and told him to go out and give them a big smile, but Gene couldn't do it..... He wasn't a mixer..... He stole out the back way and drove away..... Imagine Jack Dempsey overlooking such an opportunity to prove that he was a regular fellow, one of the mob..... But Dempsey also knew his dark days when the favor of the fans was denied him..... The sunshine broke through the clouds for him when Tunney beat him in Philadelphia and his worries passed with the crown to Tunney and made of Gene any embittered young man..... Some day Gene may tell his story in his own way..... Jack Sharkey is another outstanding heavyweight boxer who has known more raspberries than cheers from the crowds..... He may yet come into his own, now that he has dropped his pose of a braggart..... By the way, it is safe to say that few of the 50,000 fans who saw little Dave Shade knock out Jimmy Slattery in three rounds in one of the preliminaries to the Harry Greb-Mickey Walker fight at the Polo Grounds in New York five years ago entertained the idea that Slattery would come to be the recognized light-heavyweight champion at this late date, as he is by virtue of his 15-round triumph over Lou Scozza in Buffalo the other night..... He looked all washed up when Dave, little more than a welterweight, put the quietus on him for one of the biggest upsets of the time.—HARRY RECK.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—(AP.)—The New York Rangers once more took an undisputed hold on second place in the American Division of the National Hockey League last night, defeating the hapless Pittsburgh Pirates for the fifth time this season. The score of the slow game was 4 to 1. Chicago, second-place rival of the Rangers, was idle.

The Pirates meeting their second tough opponent in two nights, were not able to make much of a showing. Only a few bursts of speed and few hard bumps handed out by Drury enlivened their play. The Rangers were not much better, except in the first period when they gained a 3-0 lead.

Frank Boucher scored twice for New York and Bill Cook got a goal and an assist. A pass from Murdock to Kelling started the Rangers off. Bud Jarvis sank the only Pirate tally late in the second period on a long shot. The lineup:

Rangers.		Pittsburgh.
Roach	G	Maier
Nelse	R. D.	MacKinnon
Bourgeault	L. D.	Miller
Boucher	C.	Fraser
W. Cook	R. W.	Darragh

Third period scoring—5 Rangers, Boucher, 11:55.

FIGHT IN DETROIT

DETROIT, Feb. 14.—(AP.)—Montreal's bulky Maroons put an end to the Detroit Cougars' hope for a berth in the National Hockey League play-offs by tallying three goals in the overtime period of a wild and rough game to win 6-to-3 here last night.

A minor riot midway in the second period brought major penalties to one Detroit player and two Maroons, and an injury to Harvey Rockburn, Cougar defense man. Rockburn was carried off the ice unconscious when he was checked by Babe Siebert, and a general fist fight followed.

The entire squads of both teams rushed onto the ice and fists flew but officials and a pair of policemen halted the fray before it grew serious. Ebbie Goodfellow, Cougar center; Nels Stewart, Maroon center, and Siebert drew major penalties.

PLAY TO 4-4 TIE

MONTREAL, Feb. 14.—(AP.)—Les Canadiens, of Montreal, and the Ottawa Senators, second and third place teams in the Canadian division of the National Hockey League, battled overtime to a 4-4 tie in a stirring game here last night.

Why not make good that promise to both Rodgers and the fans before dragging in any more local victims for Rodgers' Promoter Flynn's Moose Temple arena is plenty large enough to house the crowd that would turn out for another Rodgers-Mayberry show, while the Garden should put on the "big shot" for Rodgers that has been promised since long before last Christmas.

The Yankees' lineup in their first American League game was composed mostly of stars who were brought to New York for the purpose of building up the American League there. Such stars as Jack Chesbro, the spitball pitcher, who failed to pitch the Yankees to a pennant in 1904 by a wild pitch; Herman Long, one of the best shortstops of all time; Willie Keeler, the most scientific batter of all time and probably the greatest bunter; Jimmy Williams, the hard-hitting second baseman, and John Ganzel, the scrappy first baseman, were included.

In the Washington lineup that faced the Yankees on opening day were such luminaries as Ed Delehanty, one of the greatest sluggers of all time; Al Selbach and Jimmy Ryan, two of the best outfielders, and Al Orth, a pitcher of no mean ability, who later became one of the best umpires in the National League.

TOMORROW—CINCINNATI NATIONALS.

Between Rounds

James (Red) Mason, veteran local boxing manager, was stricken ill again after last Monday night's fight at the Garden. It was his second spell in a short time and he is beginning to suspect some sort of a poisoning plot. He believes his first illness was due to eating a potion meant for Tony Herrera, whom he seconded against Jimmie Crawley. Mason collapsed after that bout.

Two big bouts are listed tonight, the Ace Hudkins-Maxie Rosenbloom light-heavyweight elimination battle in Madison Square Garden and the Mickey Walker-Lou Lenhart non-title affair in Detroit. The winner of the New York bout will get a crack at Jimmy Slattery, who was declared champion of the division when he defeated Lou Scozza in Buffalo last Monday night.

Fred Lenhart tosses Ross Douglas in the semi-final to the Rosenbloom-Hudkins bout, and Vincent Bones and Buffy McInnes are in another 10-rounder on the card. Cotton Jones hooked Wesley Ketchel at San Francisco. Fidel La Barba, former flyweight champion, takes on Charley Sullivan at Hollywood. Cal Bruce Burns and TNT Gibbons clash at Canton. O. Willie LaMotte, claimant of the flyweight title in New Jersey, tosses Johnny McCue at Holyoke, Mass. George Partrick, Johnstown heavyweight, meets Tiger Thomas at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and Sammy Buchanan and Bobby O'Hara mix at Lake Worth, Fla.

GIZZY RULING PUZZLES

Few of the fans can savvy the ruling of the boxing commission that Battling Glizzy is not a worthy opponent for Bobby Young in a bout at the Moose Temple, especially in view of the fact that they now were given an official o. k. for a bout in at Motor Square Garden, which fell through when Glizzy became ill. And, anyway, Glizzy, on his record, looks like a good bet to stop Young, his new mouth and all, around and ring the same as he does most of his opponents.

His four-round bouts make up a card at Smethport, Pa., next Monday night, as follows: Gene Martell vs. Bill Hodge; Billy Rounds vs. Swede Peterson, Sammy Terrano vs. Al McGrath, Sailor Bob vs. Vic Pierson, Ike Rose vs. Johnny Bowers and Freddie Mitchell vs. Jack Fountain.

Herman Foltes, of Ambridge, who defeated Willie Farish at Baltimore last Monday night, has been matched to box Ray Miller, of Chicago, at Newark, N. J., next Monday night.

Ted Sandwina's reward for knocking out Knute Hansen in one round a few nights ago is a 10-round bout with Riccardo Bertazolin in Madison Square Garden, February 28. Marty Gallagher and Salvatore Ruggerillo will box the semi-final.

SHARKEY 13-5 FAVORITE

The betting is 13 to 5 in New York on Jack Sharkey to beat Phil Scott when they clash.

Answer to query: Johnny Ray was Tony Zill's opponent in their bout at Exposition Hall, and Johnny Ray was not Danny Frush. His real name was Harry Pitler and he never fought under any other name than Johnny Ray. Danny Frush was an English boxer who fought out of Baltimore and later Cleveland.

Jackie Pilkington and Stanislaus Loayza have been matched for the New Haven (Conn.) Arena, February 27.

Reserved seats for the Sharkey-Scott fight at Miami sell for $25, those behind them $12.50 and the others $5.50. Ten thousand of the 50,000 seats are ringside seats selling at top prices.

Champions of two leagues come together tonight at the Irene Kaufmann Settlement House when Coach Ziggy Kahn's Central League titleholders oppose the famous Duquesne Lafayettes, reigning champions of the Allegheny County League.

The Duquesne Lafayettes have won the championship of the Allegheny County League for three successive years and are favorites to repeat this season, having won the first-half title this year.

The Lafayettes will find the Central Leaguers a tough opponent tonight, as Ziggy Kahn has developed a quintet that compares favorably with the best operating in this section of the state. The Settlement House passers swept through the first round of play in the Central League to win the first-half title, and if their showing in the second round can be taken as a criterion of their strength they should win both halves without trouble.

The contest brings together two teams that thrive on swift, passing attacks to register points. Followers of the two clubs are looking for a close battle tonight and preparations have been made to handle a capacity crowd at the new I. K. S. gym.

This game with the Lafayettes marks the second big attraction sponsored by the Settlement this season. The Hill District boys met the Cleveland Rosenblums earlier in the season.

Elizabeth's passers bowed before the Goldensons, 34 to 28, in their County League tilt last night while the Y. M. H. A. took over the Community House Club, 38 to 36, in the West Penn.

Manchester Community lost to the Forresters, 30 to 25, in the Central League; Carnegie Steel beat Real Estate, 39 to 24, in the C. & I., and Mt. Washington Triangles toppled St. Paul's, 33 to 23, in the Metropolitan. In the Philadelphia Company circuit, Duquesne Light beat Pittsburgh Railways, 28 to 17, and Sales and Service won from Byllesby, 32 to 28.

Dribbles

The Homestead Ackermans will be out to gain on the Goldensons for second place in the County League fight when they meet the Allentown Club on the Allentown Turner floor tonight.

The South Side Falcons appear in Sharpsburg tonight to meet the Penn Five in a West Penn League game.

Three games are scheduled in the South Side Catholic Lyceum League tonight. St. Joseph's plays at St. Wendelin's, St. John's at St. Henry's and Catholic Men's Club at St. Casimir's.

The Mt. Washington Triangles will meet the Blue Jays, of Weirton, W. Va., in the preliminary to the Allentown Ackerman game tonight. For games write to D. S. Mamula, 630 Wabash Building, or call Lafayette 1655 J.

The R. T. Lewis Club will be the attraction of the Downtown Y. M. C. A. spooners tonight.

DISTRICT LOOP LEAD AT STAKE

By TOM BIRKS

With the leadership of the District league at stake, the Pierpoint Motors and the Pittsburgh Celtics tangle tomorrow afternoon at Homewood playgrounds in what might be termed the feature game of the loop this season. This game, and the Thoms Run-Heidelberg Eagles battle scheduled for Sunday afternoon, head the soccer engagements for the week-end.

FACE HARD SCHEDULE

The Pierpoints have been playing quite a part in the National cup games, especially the challenge cup, but after showing to advantage, they are now on the outside looking in, and the only trophy competition left for them is the District League cup. This, however, is going to be an elusive proposition. The Pierpoints, Clan Douglas, Celtics and Union Switch have an equal chance for the title, and the Motors aggregation is going to have a big fight on its hands during the next few weeks.

On Sunday, Thoms Run battle Heidelberg Eagles, and the winner gets a crack at the West Penn champions from Gallatin. The winner of this game will represent Western Pennsylvania in intersectional battles to come.

GALLATIN LOOKS GOOD

At this time, it appears that the West Penn champions will take the place of Heidelberg against the best Ohio and Michigan can produce in the amateur ranks. And filling the shoes of Heidelberg in this particular tourney will be a tough job.

Harry Sickles has a good club, and if he overcomes the winner of Sunday's tilt, he should take his team far in the National tourney. Glendale meets Celtics at Garfield Park Sunday afternoon. Two games will be played in the American League. Harwick travels to Gallatin, and Mt. Corinthians, meeting German Sport at Turner Park.

Wojcihovski plays halfback and last season scored 143 points for an undefeated team. He also is captain of the basketball team.

NET MOGULS HOLD CONFAB TOMORROW

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 14.—(AP.)—The forty-ninth annual meeting of the United States Lawn Tennis Association will be held here tomorrow. A meeting of the National executive committee this afternoon will lay the foundation for the general session.

There are intimations tomorrow's meeting will consume all the afternoon and perhaps part of the evening, contrasting radically with the short, harmonious session last year in Boston. Rankings, election of officers, players' expenses and the question of "open" competition between amateurs and professionals are expected to occupy major importance in the deliberations.

A slate of officers headed by Louis B. Dailey, of New York City, for president has been named by the nominating committee. Nomination in the past has usually been tantamount to election. Dailey is now vice-president.

Preceding the meeting of the National executive committee the Missouri Valley Tennis Association will convene.

Radio broadcast of a National meeting will be inaugurated at the annual banquet tomorrow night. Speeches will be made over station KMOX between 8:30 and 9 p. m., Central Standard Time by Francis T. Hunter, Samuel H. Collom, retiring president and the new president.

Blackburn, Monon Valley Star, Dies

WAYNESBURG Pa Feb 14—(AP)—One of the best known figures in sandlot baseball circles in Greene and Fayette counties was removed from the sports scene by death yesterday when Jesse Blackburn, 25, of Nemacolin, died at a hospital there as a result of injuries suffered in a mining accident several weeks ago. Blackburn was one of the best sandlot pitchers in the lower Monongahela Valley.

Slattery Signs For Rosenbloom

BUFFALO Feb 14—(AP)—Jimmy Slattery yesterday signed articles to defend his newly won light-heavyweight championship against Maxie Rosenbloom of New York, before the Queensbridge Club of Buffalo on March 17 or April 7, as Rosenbloom and the commission may elect, according to Manager Charles Montague of the Q. A. C., who left last night for New York to place the articles and the dates before the commission.

Shires Reported Offered $10,000

CHICAGO Feb 14—(INS)—While the Chicago White Sox were preparing today for their departure to the spring training camp, rumors persisted that Arthur (The Great) Shires, first baseman, has been offered a $10,000 contract if he will grace the first post again this season.

Officials of the club refused comment on the reports.

Accompanying the contract, it was said, was a set of regulations outlining the ideal conduct of a model first baseman.

Shires, before he began his colorful but short boxing career was suspended for slugging the White Sox manager, Lena Blackburne.

CITY MAY GET TOURNEY

HARRISBURG Pa Feb 14—(AP)—The 1930 baseball championship of the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association will be awarded March 15 to either Philadelphia or Pittsburgh, as the result of the state board of control's latest revision of its annual tournament plans. The selection of the city in which the title contest will be played has been left to Edwin B. Wicht, secretary of the organization and is dependent upon the teams reaching the finals and upon the availability of suitable playing fields.

Under the plan adopted at the last meeting and previously published, the board of control has drafted the district arrangements which will permit the number of teams forced to travel to participate in the title rounds. In fact the manager of the roster of those teams which will battle through the state-wide eliminations games in order to determine the winners to the P. I. A. A. championship quintet of Hazleton High School of 1928 and 1929 will this year be cut to the lowest point since the cage tourney was inaugurated.

Between now and the middle of March the winners of the various leagues and groups associated with the P. I. A. A. will complete the scheduled seasons which will decide the group champions. In each of the eight districts of the state the league champions and other outstanding high school teams will compete in elimination series from which eight district titleholders will emerge.

On March 18 the winners of districts Nos. 1 and 2, 3 and 4 and 5 and 6 will clash at places to be selected by the chairmen of the respective district. The game between the winners in districts Nos. 7 and 8 will be played on a date to be chosen by the district chairmen.

At the end of the long session the two announced that no contract had been signed, but the sessions will be continued today.

Apparently the contract offered Grimes, or the document he demands, hold conditional clauses which are not in accord with the views of the disputants. These contingencies, however, are not believed to be significant enough to keep the player off the team for a long period of time.

The Pirate management yesterday announced the acquisition of still another recruit. The youngster, an Arkansan, is a first baseman named Burl Pharr. Pharr is a righthander all the way with a height of 5 feet 11 inches and a weight of 160 pounds. The lad was recommended to the local team by Catcher Claude Linton, who recently was sent to Baltimore by the Bucco in the Al Bool deal.

Pharr, a boy of 22, also is an outfielder. He will be instructed to report to the Pirates' camp with the second squad.

JONES STOPS FLORIAN IN THIRD ROUND

Billy Jones ... Negro light ... made his Western Pennsylvania ... debut last night ... Pleasant ... McKeesport ... in a ... scheduled ... Hamilton ... Frankie Florian ... Cleveland ... after two minutes and 20 seconds of the third stanza of the scheduled 10-round main bout.

Jones buffeted Florian to the canvas with a volley of short lefts and jabs to the stomach and the Clevelander was counted out while helpless on his side of the ring.

FLORIAN OUTCLASSED

After the first round there was little ... for Jones. The ... News ... employing a ... which weltered ... Florian ... and was just after the second round opened but Florian, ... finally crowding and ... managed to last out the round, although he staggered and was glassy-eyed from the effects of Jones' crushing blows. After the third session started it was no secret that the bout was nearing its end. Jones kept battering Florian about the ring with his hard rights and lefts and occasionally brought up a hard right uppercut that did not do the Ohio fighter any good. Billy continued with rights and lefts to the body until Florian, unable to take them any longer, crumpled to the canvas to take the full count.

Jones looked mighty good during the short time he was in the ring although Florian was not the opponent to test the Negro's real ability. Billy weighed 174 against 175½ for Florian.

BOUT STOPPED

Johnny Judd of Cleveland lasted less than two full rounds against Domenick Profio, Cecil Shuppert in the semi-final bout, a rather tight overhand right to Judd's jaw flooring the visiting fighter for the full count. Judd looked as if he was afraid of Profio and during the entire first round tried his best to tie up the local boy.

The punch that brought the bout to an end didn't look like a knockout wallop. Judd fell to the canvas and started to rise as Referee Red Robinson reached the count of seven. He fell back again but Robinson did not complete the count, halting the uneven bout instead. Profio weighed 146 against 141 for Judd.

Jack Benton of Braddock, a pretty good fighter of a few years ago, received a present in the second bout in the form of the decision over Jimmy Thomas, Pittsburgh Negro bantamweight. Thomas, a clever boxer, kept stabbing a mean left into Benton's face during five of the six rounds and had the Braddock boy in bad shape more than once. Thomas weighed in at 117½, while Benton scaled 115.

Andy Stahura, Braddock veteran had too much experience for Johnny Schade, of Pittsburgh, and grabbed an easy victory in the six-round opener. Stahura weighed 123 against 134½ for Schade.

WILLIE DAVIES VICTOR

NEW BRIGHTON Pa Feb 14—(AP)—Willie Davies, 115½ pounds of Charleroi, took a 10-round decision in the main bout at Junction Park arena last night over Vito Mazzeo of Cleveland in an interesting battle. Willie Johnson of Beaver Falls, 230, won a six-round decision over Jack Townsend of Cleveland, 196, in the semi-final. Charley Tarzan Rochester, 160, won from Jimmy Miller, Akron, 159, in six rounds while Young Ketchel, Steubenville, 111, and Jackie Ward, Youngstown, 120, fought a six-round draw. In the opener, Elmo the Mighty, of New Castle, 155, won from Nick Gruber, Aliquippa, 180, in four rounds.

STADIUM PLANS REVOLT

CHICAGO Feb 14—(AP)—The Chicago Stadium Corporation today called a meeting of its directorate to consider a revolt against the Illinois State Athletic Commission for refusing to sanction the February 24 date for the Sammy Mandell-Jimmy McLarnin match.

Stadium officials indicated that they were determined to hold the match on that date and that they might attempt to hold it then by means of a court injunction. The meeting was called for late today.

The commission refused sanction following complaint of Leon and Sacha, representative of Promoter Jack Dempsey, who said it would be harmful to Dempsey's show at the Coliseum February 21.

Matchmaker Nate Lewis of the Stadium said it was necessary the Stadium show be held on February 24 as it was desired to match the winner with Jackie Fields for the welterweight championship soon and that delay would interfere with dates now booked by all three fighters.

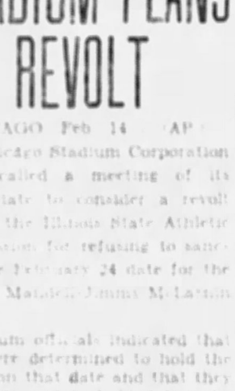
the outstanding college basketball player of the day. He is not a fellow who is good merely every other game or so, but is in there playing all the time to win. I think the Cleveland Rosenblums should give him a chance in the big show, for there is no question that he can produce the stuff and will be as good as Nat Holman of Davey Banks, if not better.



Maxie Rosenbloom

MUCH has been said and written in criticism of Maxie Rosenbloom's style of fighting, and it has been charged frequently that he violates the rules in every one of his bouts by slapping with open gloves. But Maxie cannot be accused of picking spots for himself or of being unwilling to take chances and gamble for big stakes in dangerous matches. He will again demonstrate that he is an exceptional fighter in these respects when he meets Ace Hudkins in New York tonight. For though the New York commission, in recognizing the Jimmy Slattery-Lou Scozza bout in Buffalo the other night, ruled that the winner would have to give Rosenbloom a chance for the title within 60 days, it isn't hard to figure that Maxie's championship opportunity would vanish if he were defeated in the meantime. Yet Rosenbloom did not hesitate to take the chance in contracting for tonight's match, though in Hudkins he will encounter a most formidable foeman. Rosenbloom figures to win by a narrow margin on general form, but he will deserve a lot of credit for his willingness to gamble, even if he is defeated.

The Tipoff

A few "I" wonders:

If Chuck Kenny will have the job of putting out the Stadium football programs again next year? He made good with a big bang last fall.

If Benny Schwartz, who is still aching from that poke Jackie Rodgers hung on it Monday night?

If Brown Ransom remembers the time he kicked a field goal for Geneva to beat Wash. Jeff., 3-0, at Beaver Falls?

Steel Workers Become Actors; a Suggestion

By B. C. FORBES

A WHISPER ran through a big steel plant that a dramatic organization might be formed and seventy-five of the workers immediately and eagerly wanted to know where they could enroll.

Now huskies who swing crates or pour metal or roll steel all day tread the stage in the evening and do it so effectively that the shows attract large and intelligent audiences.

The "movement" has proved a mental tonic and a fruitful success.

"STEEL workers as actors!" Some may feel disposed to indulge in that sneer. But human nature is the same in a steel plant as on Broadway or in Tuxedo, except that in the steel plant it is likely to be better. American workmen possess emotions, ambitions, instincts similar to those possessed by every other class. They crave outlets for their talents, they enjoy appreciation of their achievements exactly the same as do all of us. Working, eating, sleeping doesn't constitute a full, rich, satisfying life for them happily.

The corporation that understands this and caters most successfully to the aspirations and the happiness of its workers wins out every time against the corporation that looks upon its "labor as dumb-driven cattle."

THIS latest illustration of how to inject interest into the daily life of a large force of workers—sturdy he-men—is worth presenting here because of the suggestion it may carry to other managements anxious to advance the well-being of their work folks. Hugh W. Wright of the American Rolling Mill Company, Middletown, Ohio, an enterprise built up successfully along unusually humane lines, by George M. Verity, writes:

You may be interested to know that the American Rolling Mill Company has introduced the Little Theater movement into its Middletown plant.

I rather imagine that such cultural opportunities in a steel plant would seem about as reasonable to the average person as the proverbial Holstein in the China Shop. Thanks to several interesting writers, the ballads of steel have been sung. Their theme is always men, big, hairy, rough and tough birds, who bear the strong scent of wholesome sweat from Saturday night to Saturday night. Anyway, these Jack-and-the-Beanstalk impressions have earned some credence in the minds of those not on close speaking terms with a steel plant, and this Little Theater of ours may be one of the gestures necessary to puncture that erroneous bubble.

"A FEW months ago a dramatic instructor was secured, and productions are now being staged at regular intervals. Several evenings of each week you will find men who have spent eight working hours manipulating some giant crane or valet to some massive stand of rolls, or following any of the occupations essential to the manufacture of iron and steel, all seeking an outlet for their creative instincts.

Some brawny roller may portray Romeo, or you may find a millwright comedian or a melter villain. The measure is not how well done is the portrayal, but rather how high rises the mercury of expression, for their expressionistic attack upon the drama will lend energy to their daily thrusts at the problems of making steel we believe.

This outlet for expression was not thrust down the necks of our folks. It was barely whispered that the experiment was under consideration when 75 of them hurried to enroll.

This goes a long way to prove that all of us want something besides the daily grind—something even different from golf or flirting. So far as I know, this is the first time the Little Theater has been introduced in the steel industry."

WHO can deny that the spirit of the brotherhood of men is not making at least some headway in American industry?

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

Wall Street Looking for National Lead Stock Split Up

ALONG Wall Street it is generally supposed that National Lead is in the split-up class. This idea is based on the fact that National Lead surplus is equal to more than 50 per cent of the outstanding common stock. A stock dividend of 50 per cent was paid in June, 1927. Since then the company has steadily improved its position. The company for 1929 may show earnings as high as $25 a share on 309,859 shares of common outstanding, according to report. The current cash dividend rate is $5 a share annually.

The highest priced issue in the motor group listed on the New York Stock Exchange—Auburn Auto—has been helped marketwise of late by reports that January sales of this company were ahead of the same month of last year. The increase was partially attributable to the addition of the new Cord line. Production schedules of the company are said to call for a large outturn in 1930 and it is expected that this will in a measure at least offset price cuts which have been made. Particular attention is being devoted by automobile manufacturers to the progress made in sales of the Cord car, since it is the first front-wheel drive machine to be placed in quantity production.

COLUMBIA GAS was active yesterday in the public utility group. It is generally recognized that the company has speculative possibilities in addition to its strong investment standing. At this time considerable attention is being paid to developments in the natural gas field and Columbia has been active in developing these resources. Much talk is heard in public utility circles about the ultimate supplying of large cities with this gas, particularly New York City.

National Cash Register has done little marketwise recently, despite the fact that earnings in 1929 were higher than in the preceding year and the official statement that the outlook for 1930 is good. Company has enjoyed a substantial growth in its foreign and domestic sales and purchase of the stock is now being recommended by interests which in the past have been unusually correct on its market movements. They feel that on an earnings basis alone it is entitled to a higher market rating.

ALTHOUGH Coca-Cola has not been as active as some of the other market favorites, it still holds around the year's high. There has been a steady expansion in the company's business and the management has demonstrated its ability to increase earnings year after year. It is understood that large blocks of the stock are not available for trading purposes and long pull holders are reluctant to part with their shares at these levels. Last year the company earned in excess of $10 a share.

Several large commission houses in the financial district are advising the purchase of United Corporation, pointing to the strong banking sponsorship enjoyed by the stock. In addition to this, the Street hears that United will shortly increase its interest in United Gas Improvement through the exchange of two shares of Commonwealth and Southern for one share of United Gas Improvement. The latter occupies a strong position in the utility field and has been receiving additional income from its investments in other organizations which have been increasing their payments to stockholders.

CORPORATE EARNINGS

National Fireproofing Profits Gain

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

A SHARP gain in net profits was shown by the National Fireproofing Company, maker of tile products, in its annual report for 1929. Net profit after all charges was $1,368,829. After deducting dividends on $1,461,300 of $50 par 7 per cent preferred stock this was equivalent to $9.14 a share on the 89,226 shares of common stock. In 1928 the company earned $513,084 or $3.25 a share on the preferred stock; while in 1927 net profit was $179,414 or $1.13 a share on the preferred.

As a result in the steady improvement in earnings the company was able to pay the first dividend on the common stock since 1903 with a declaration of $2 a share payable on January 6.

The declaration of a dividend of $7.50 a share on the $50 par 7 per cent preferred stock in November paved the way for the resumption of common dividends. The declaration on the preferred was the first out of 1929 earnings. Previous payments in 1929 totaling $2.75 a share on the preferred were out of 1928 earnings, no payment having been made that year.

New Company Formed

ON January 1 the new National Fireproofing Corporation took over the business of the old company following the exchange of common and preferred stocks of the old company for those of the new corporation on a share for share basis. The reorganization was brought about to settle doubtful points as to the status of the old preferred stock. This stock was noncumulative, but its exact rights to participate in earnings of past years was in dispute.

While the old preferred stock was entitled to 7 per cent dividends and was not cumulative or convertible, the preferred stock of the new corporation is a 6 per cent cumulative issue, is convertible into common on a share for share basis and is callable at $55 a share. The plan gave the preferred stockholders cumulative and conversion rights in exchange for the lower dividend rate and the disputed claim on past dividends.

Patents Written Off

IN making the transfer from the old company to the new corporation intangible assets were written off and the value of physical properties was increased by a new appraisal. As a result of this the balance sheet of the old company as of December 31, 1929, showed total assets of $21,452,965, while the balance sheet of the new corporation as of January 1, 1930, showed total assets of $19,345,384.

Good will of $4,461,300 and patents valued at $14,664 were written down to $1. Unamortized discount on debentures of $251,729 was also eliminated. The old company had physical properties carried at $12,695,504 against which a reserve for depletion and depreciation of $2,886,320 had been established. The reappraisal gave the new corporation physical properties valued at $15,336,101 after depreciation and obsolescence.

At the close of 1928 cash and call loans amounted to $916,931. During 1929 dividends were paid amounting to $1,062,617 and there was added to the property account through extensions and improvements more than $900,000. In spite of these unusual disbursements cash at the end of the year amounted to $775,384. Total assets amounted to $3,479,880 against current liabilities of only $884,970.

Sales Show Gain

THE company has not experienced any depression in its business during recent months. Orders on hand are greater than a year ago and S. F. Heckert, president, states that the prospects for additional business are better for 1930 than they were at this time in 1929. Properties are in better condition than in any other time in the company's history. The rehabilitation of plants and the installation of up-to-date machinery are being continued.

The market for glazed tile products during the past year shows a marked growth. New shapes of tile have been developed and intensive research is being carried on in an effort to improve specialty products. All this tends to more firmly establish the position of the company as leader in its field.

PROTEST LOCAL STEEL RATES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Protests against rates proposed by railroads upon steel moving from the Pittsburgh district were presented by subsidiaries of the United States Steel Corporation in a complaint filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Asserting that the new rates would be destructive of commerce and discriminatory in favor of other steel districts, including Cleveland, Youngstown, Chicago and St. Louis, the complaint said the Pittsburgh district constructed and developed the continuous established practices similar to the rates on other steel products which are not subject to the increases, some of which would effect increases as great as 250 per cent."

STOCK MARKET MOVEMENTS ERRATIC

Steels and Utilities Rise, Merchandising and Rails Fall as Trading Grows

NEW YORK, Feb. 14 — (AP.) The stock market went through another series of erratic price movements today in which the steels and public utilities were featured on the upside, while the merchandising issues and rails showed the losses. Trading was fairly heavy in volume, with the ticker 10 minutes late at one period during the morning.

Call money ruled at 4 per cent but advanced to 4½ as banks called loans to strengthen their position at the Federal Reserve. Apparently little attention was paid to the increase of $48,000,000 in brokers' loans, although some observers were inclined to regard it as an indication that stocks were passing into weak hands.

EXPORTS SHOW DECLINE

Foreign trade figures for January made an unfavorable comparison with the same month last year, merchandise exports dropping $10,956,000, while imports declined $56,636,000. Otherwise there was little in the day's business news to influence the price movement.

U. S. Steel common was pushed up 3 points to a new 1930 high at 187¾, or slightly more than a point below the high reached in the December recovery. It closed 1¾ points above the price at which the stock recently was offered to employes under the partial payment plan. Republic Steel was marked up more than 6 points to 79½. Vanadium 3¾ to 70, Colorado Fuel 3¾ to 51, Central Alloy 2¾ to 34¾, and Gulf States 2½ to 61½, also 1930 high records.

UTILITIES CLIMB

At least a dozen public utilities led by Brooklyn Union Gas with a gain of nearly 6 points moved into new high ground for the year. Vulcan Detinning soared 11 points on odd lot transactions. Westvaco Chlorine 6, U. S. Industrial Alcohol 6¼, Air Reduction 5, Commonwealth Power 4, Southern Dairies A 4 and Westinghouse Electric 3¾, but some of these gains were reduced by the wave of realizing which followed the higher call money rate.

Pittsburgh Coal broke 8½ points to a new low at 60, but quickly rebounded to 65. Simmons sold down more than 3 points to 65½, but snapped back to 68. Norfolk and Western dropped 7 points, Auburn Auto 5½, Jersey Central 5 and McCrory Stores B. Union Pacific, Peoples Gas and Atlantic Gulf and West Indies sold down 3 to 4 points. Several of the oils and motors yielded a point or two with selling influenced by unfavorable trade reports.

United Engineering Doubles Earnings

United Engineering and Foundry Company reports for the year ended December 31, 1929, net earnings after depreciation and taxes of $1,671,887, equal after dividends on 15,749 shares of 7 per cent preferred stock, to $3.75 per share on 416,118 shares of no par common, compared with $826,592, or $1.72 per common share after preferred dividends in 1928.

There was a charge against surplus of $70,785 for miscellaneous adjustments at the end of the year, in addition to dividends paid, so that the surplus account showed an increase from $2,908,638 at the end of 1928 to $3,296,865. The company has also followed the policy of many years in establishing reserves of $353,926 for sales allowances and contingencies.

I. C. C. APPROVES P. W. V. LINK

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 — Over the protest of the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Interstate Commerce Commission today authorized the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad, controlled by the Taplin brothers of Cleveland, to construct a six-mile branch extension near its crossing at Pigeon Creek to a connection with the Donora Southern at Baird, Pa.

The commission said its action in this case should not be construed as a finding in favor of the construction and operation of a line to serve the industries at Monessen or elsewhere, nor should it raise any presumption as to our view regarding the propriety of any existing or proposed arrangement for the performance of terminal service by the Donora Southern or for its compensation.

The Pennsylvania claimed that it had on its own tracks ample ground for additional industries at Donora and that its Monongahela line is at present operated much below its capacity.

DAILY TRUE STORY

Adorable Stepmother

"ARCHITECTURE!" said J. Morton Kingsley.

He said it in a way that implied more than a mere aversion. From the tone of his voice one would think that architecture was something most despicable.

"Leather!" said J. Morton Kingsley, Jr.

And the young man's tone implied that he held leather to be something loathsome.

"Impasse!" cooed Mrs. J. Morton Kingsley. She was J. Morton Junior's adorable stepmother.

She gave the proper accent to the word.

"You are right; this seems to be a deadlock," said the young man.

"Now use some sense. I have built up a big business in leather—it's the business for you to take up."

"Circles — our arguments, Dad," said the young man. "I've a hunch that I can do big things in architecture and come a cropper in leather or any other business."

"I know what is going to happen," said Kingsley's young wife.

"Morton is going to be vice president of my company," his father announced.

"Morton is so like his father that he will have his way," so just shake hands, you two, and—

"Do you think I'll give in?"

"I do not fight it out, my beloved ones, and make it as brief and bloodless as possible."

With that the young man's stepmother left them.

"Take a run-around for a vacation and come to work," said the father.

"Let's shake hands, Dad. I'll see you later."

Proud of His Son

"Not much later, you'll be back. Your allowance stops until you wake up and come into the company with me."

"Shake hands."

The old man was proud of his son as they shook hands. He hated to see the youngster come crawling back licked, but he could not change his ways or give in—it would all be for the best.

The young man had been expecting exactly this. He had sold his expensive car. He had not used half of his generous allowance during the past year. He believed that he could get along all right, although if he could have a year's study abroad it would speed things up. He was going in for residences, not skyscrapers.

His father's stubborn pride stood in the way of his cherished ambitions to have his own office and to design marvelous homes and estates—and it might take him years without the financial backing.

J. Morton Kingsley and wife went first to their place out on Long Island.

He promised to put in the entire Summer with his wife on vacation, since he had not taken one for several years.

Within a week after they were out at the Long Island home a hot dog stand went up on Farmer Benson's land just across the highway from the Kingsley mansion. It was painted red. It had a wide, long sign which read:

YE HOTTE DOOGE STANDE.
J. MORTON KINGSLEY, JR., PROP.

Morton's father saw it when he drove out in the morning. He had his man stop the car. He went over and looked in.

J. Morton Kingsley, Jr., was polishing up the hot plate, getting ready for business.

"If this shack isn't down by noon I'll personally tear it down!" his father announced.

"If you do I'll have you slapped in the hoosegow for trespass and wilful destruction of property, Dad—and that's no idle threat. I lease this land of the local constable."

The next day he came and said, "This annoys your stepmother, terribly, son."

"If she'll come and complain to me, I'll take it away, Dad."

"You know she's too softhearted to do that—she's fond of you, for no reason that I can see."

The young man smiled and as a car stopped he shouted: "Come and get them—all hot!"

They weren't half as hot as J. Morton, Senior.

The Popcorn Man

He left shortly after that to go to his place in the Adirondacks. He had a lodge in a most exclusive colony.

He had been there two weeks when a strange contraption appeared. It was a car with an arrangement for popping corn. It bore a big sign across the top: J. MORTON KINGSLEY, JR. THE POPCORN MAN!

It had a noisy bell that constantly jangled. The Popcorn Man went the rounds every day. J. Morton Kingsley was furious.

"This is criminal on your part," he thundered.

"No better popcorn on the market—legal and all that, Dad," said the young man, smiling.

"I'll have that contraption wrecked!"

"Whoever wrecks it is going to get pretty badly wrecked himself while he's doing it," the young man assured his father.

Mrs. Kingsley herself patronized the young man's popcorn business. She announced that it was splendid popcorn.

"We'll fool that Smart Aleck son of mine," Kingsley told his wife; "we'll go out to Major Ryder's ranch for a month."

They went out within a week.

When the horses were brought up next morning one of them was led by J. Morton Kingsley, Jr. He wore the approved 10-gallon hat and chaps. He also wore a sidearm which was quite visible. The inscription on it was:

J. MORTON KINGSLEY, JR.,
RIDING INSTRUCTOR.

For a moment Mrs. Kingsley feared her husband would have apoplexy.

Out by the corral that noon Young Kingsley heard his father say to Maj. Ryder: "Look here, Ryder, I'll pay you a thousand dollars to sack my son and fire him or get him away."

Efficient Man

"Sorry, sir, but patrons of my dude wrangling outfit have to take what I offer or go elsewhere. The young man is one of the most efficient I've had here, and he has already given me a bright plan for a new ranch house that is a wonder. I'm paying him for a detailed plan."

That night as young Kingsley came galloping in from Gulchtown with the mail Mr. Kingsley, Senior, said to his wife: "I'd like to know how the devil he got here ahead of me, how he knew I was coming out here—how he landed the job."

"Someone must have leaked the information," she said.

"It's probably that new secretary—all the fool girls lost their heads over him."

"At any rate this is better than hot dogs or popcorn," she reminded him.

"Tricky, but no sense. Can you imagine any young man refusing to come into a ten-million-dollar business?"

"Yes, I can imagine it—and see it in reality. Would you have gone into a ten-million-dollar company of architects when you were starting in the leather business?"

"That's different. Anna."

"Morton, that's the first unsportsman-like thing I ever knew you to say."

He thought it over.

Then Maj. Ryder's niece arrived.

J. Morton Kingsley, Jr., was sent with a ranch car to get her.

"Nice girl—poor as the devil. I always pay her way on and back every year for a vacation. Her mother's dead," the Major explained to Kingsley.

J. Morton Kingsley met Lora Bainbridge at Gulchtown.

He caught his breath when he saw her. They hadn't gone more than half of the way back before she said: "You aren't like most of the men my uncle hires."

A week later she came out with the plans he had drawn for her uncle.

"I didn't know you were an architect, Morton," she cried.

"I'm not—I intend to be. It may take years, but I'll get there."

"But these plans—they are wonderful!"

Father's Proposition

One moonlight night Lora asked him, point blank, how it happened that he was working there for forty a month and keep when his father was a multi-millionaire and paying around forty dollars a day for himself and wife.

Morton told her.

"I think you are wonderful, Morton. I hope you win out," she cried.

"I won't. Father is too stubborn. But Lora, I can earn enough to make us comfortable. You'd be an inspiration to me. I want to marry you!"

"Are you sure?" she whispered.

He made it quite clear to her that he was sure.

He told his father and his adorable stepmother all about it.

"Come into business with me and support her the way she deserves," said his father.

"She wouldn't marry me if I did. She approves of what I am doing."

Lora Bainbridge's father came on for the wedding. He didn't look like a very poor man.

He liked Morton. He studied the plans Morton had made for the Major's new ranch house.

"You've got the stuff. I'll take you into the firm," he said.

"What firm?"

"Hush, Dad!" cried Lora.

But it was too late. The cat was out of the bag. Lora's father was head of the great Bainbridge & Bainbridge firm of architects. Lora was the junior partner.

When J. Morton Kingsley, Senior, learned of it, he said to his son: "You win!" Then he slipped him a check with seven figures at the left of the period.

Morton, adoring his stepmother, never let on to a soul that the hot dogs and popcorn and ranch jobs were all done on her advice.

What Every Young Girl Should Know

"Paint and powder are not indicative of deception, but are merely devices to dress up the face."—Dr. Herbert O. Bamas.

Layers of powder and paint,
Put on in imitation
Of what she would be, but ain't,
Have one sad limitation.

Dressing up the face, alas,
Results in no deception,
Underneath appears the lass
For adequate perception.

So cosmetics indicate
Nothing but pretensions—
Not gals in a deceptive state,
But just their good intentions.

Reaping the Whirlwind In Taxi Drivers' Strike

Police Fail to Keep the Peace—Mayor's Attitude to Blame

Mayor Kline and his "public safety" department sowed the wind of police failure to keep the peace when the taxicab strike started. Now they reap the whirlwind of rioting and disorder.

Yesterday afternoon a score of police could not handle the outbreak at Penn and Collins avenues. For the breaking down of police authority in Pittsburgh, the Mayor is responsible. In the milk drivers' strike he reinstated police officers who had refused to obey orders to protect property threatened by rioters. In the taxicab strike he first stood by while violence was utterly unmolested by the police. Then, in response to public protest, the police did make a show of attempting to prevent disorder. Now that has proved ineffective.

The Sun-Telegraph holds no brief for the taxicab companies, that tried to sneak over an unjust rate raise recently. This newspaper does insist, however, upon the duty of Mayor Kline and his police department to STOP RIOTING, TO PROTECT PUBLIC SAFETY, to keep the streets of Pittsburgh safe for all.

In thus discharging their plain duty the police should be absolutely impartial in any industrial disputs, displaying fairness to each side. There never should be the slightest toleration of disorder.

Presence of trench helmets on taxi drivers' heads is evidence of the state to which the Pittsburgh police department has fallen.

"I am neither a strike maker nor a strike breaker." Thus Mayor Kline is quoted as replying to a question as to his attitude on following the example of Mayor Hylan, of New York, in establishing an emergency municipal bus service during a strike.

We wonder just how favorably the Mayor's "neutral" policy strikes the taxicab passenger, en route from one railroad station to another, who may lose an eye as a result of an attack on a cab operating at night. We wonder what kind of an impression he will have of a city where it is not safe to travel for a short distance through the heart of the town.

If the Mayor is to continue to keep his hands off and be "neither a strike maker nor a strike breaker" it would be advisable for him to ask Council to set up a fund to compensate strangers within our gates who may seek redress in courts as a result of the kind of hospitality that prevails.

He should have some feeling for a FELLOW NEUTRAL, THE PUBLIC.

Archabbot Stehle, Dead, Leaves Creative Record

A native Pittsburgher who won distinction as a result of achievements in education, the Rt. Rev. Aurelius Stehle, has passed to his reward. He was archabbot of the Order of St. Benedict at Beatty, Pa., and his lifetime religious and civic service embraced a span extending from student in St. Vincent's Benedictine College to head of the institution, alma mater of many priests and laymen from the Pittsburgh district.

Archabbot Stehle, a priest at 22 through papal dispensation because he was under canonical age, had received many honors, including degrees of doctor of divinity, Rome; doctor of law, University of Notre Dame, and doctor of liturgy, Duquesne University. Because of his scholarly attributes and capacity as a builder, he was entrusted by Pope Pius XI with the founding of the Catholic University, Peiping, China, of which he was the chancellor.

Indication that he was interested in affairs outside of religious and educational activity is noted in the fact that he was a member of the National Aeronautical Association and of the Latrobe Chamber of Commerce.

A good man whose influence extends far has departed.

A Million Boy Scouts

There Should Be Ten Million.

This is Boy Scout Week, celebrating the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the organization in this country.

In those 20 years more than 4,000,000 American boys have received the benefits of scout training. There are now 220,000 scout leaders and 600,000 boys enrolled. By the end of the year the scouts hope to have a million members.

They ought to have TEN million. Every boy of scout age should belong. Scout training makes for the best type of citizenship, is the best answer to juvenile delinquency, is the most effective way to combat the growth of the gang at its source.

How many scouts or ex-scouts are found in the ranks of bandits and gunmen and other types of criminals? You tell.

What this country needs is the boy scout, and MORE of him. That statement holds notwithstanding the oft-quoted remark of the late Vice President Marshall about the five-cent cigar.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

The Second Bite

NEW JERSEY letter carriers have asked the State Legislature to declare a dog guilty on the first snap. Under the present statutes of interurban courtesy every dog is entitled to his second bite.

"Bugs" Baer

In other less vegetarian words you can do nothing if your neighbor's hound chins himself on your leg. You cannot claim the parlor wolf is vicious until he corroborates the testimony by helping himself to another tasty dish.

Then you must have witnesses who may be absolutely worthless if the dog doesn't happen to be in the mood.

About 50 Jersey letter carriers are bitten during the Christmas holidays by Airedales who don't believe in Santa Claus. In spite of the fact that it is only news when the man bites the dog you cannot expect a letter carrier to acquire the necessary finesse vitality on his present government salary.

There is a dog in our neighborhood who must know the law. He bites everybody once. Having vaccinated you with the proper respect for his social standing he ignores you for the rest of your tenure in office.

The next time he passes you he snubs you. His carriage indicates that he would like to bite you but he doesn't like the taste.

Grocers, icemen, instalment collectors and letter carriers are all victims of the law which gives pets the choice of the second bite.

And while man is getting weaker and vainer the fashionable residential leopard is increasing in size. Every house in our block now feeds a German police dog that looks like an overstuffed sofa and has a necklace of walrus teeth wrapped around his face.

If they want to bit you there is nothing to do but hand them a menu. Kicking them doesn't change the subject.

There should be a law against anybody having a police dog in the temperate zone. Any jury can look at a police dog and know that it is going to bite you the second time. No animal is a household pet whose growling is fierce enough to frighten your loupee out of a year's growth.

Putting muzzles on 'em doesn't help. They bite right through wire. It's just like running soup through a strainer.

Those little coot-faced spaniels aren't so dangerous. But even one of them will sneak in a bite as high as he can reach. They carry on a submarine warfare on land and the only glory to be achieved is a wound stripe on your sox.

It would be a good thing to eliminate all dogs within city limits. We know that Albert Payson Terhune writes beautiful stories about the faithfulness and love of collies but that's the whole berry crop in one crate. A collie hamstrings you behind the knees, bulldogs try to untie your cravat and bloodhounds chase you across the ice.

He Showed 'Em the Nickel Trick

By Herbert Kaufman

WHEN F. W. Woolworth took his collection of nickels and dimes to the very lip of Wall street, and piled them higher than Standard Oil cans and Singer sewing machines, he builded better than he knew.

That lordly structure, towering so FAR above the previously outstanding peaks of Manhattan's skyline, was strangely destined to revolutionize a nation's investment outlook.

It's unescapable presence cast a daily shadow upon the market's imagination, COMPELLED constant attention—could not but suggest to the money captains, hitherto myopically specializing in the fundamental industries—steel, railroading, mining and navigation—that they had been overlooking some very good bets, by excluding from their intrusive ambitions those more OBSCURE areas of trade and commerce, where the NIMBLE SIXPENCE outrivals the GUINEA PIG in fecundity.

THENADAYS, finance WASN'T consorting with penny profits. It hadn't YET sensed the limitless distributive power of advertising.

The aggregate earnings of widely-consumed minor wares and popular brands, weren't perceptible to tradition-stilted counting-houses.

Finance carried no small change in its Nineteenth Century calculations.

Consequently, promotion failed to note how coffee substitutes and trick cereals, yeast cakes and baking powders, chewing gums and chain tills, were turning mickles to muckles at breakneck speed, and developing multi-million enterprises, WITHOUT the consent or advice of the professional underwriter.

Then Mr. Woolworth brought "word from Aix." The erection of the Woolworth Building was both a MONUMENTAL and an EPOCHAL gesture.

ONE may even consider it an evangelical movement.

It came to preach limitless sales capacity in properly exploited five and ten cent products—to demonstrate the amazing nutritive value that the balance sheet may derive from CHICKEN FEED—to reveal a NEW gospel to banking conservatism—to wean fiscal snobbishness of its CONTEMPT for retail operation, and place FRESH gods in the Stock Exchange Pantheon.

Thirty years ago, ticker tape was as APT to welcome soap and coffee as the Duchess of Whoozis will likely invite a FISH-MONGER to her next dinner dance.

Half the securities, now dearest to the heart of speculation, weren't even LIST-CONSCIOUS during the elder Morgan's regime or the Harriman era.

The main reason why so few spectacular fortunes formerly emerged from Midas Lane was because the bulls and bears were restricted to such a limited choice of pastures, and couldn't sufficiently diversify their hunger for manipulative issues.

Nothing clearer illustrates the changed attitude of the trader than the EAGERNESS with which confirmation of the latest dairy merger is awaited.

A little while ago, anybody with a proposition for Wall Street to participate in a $400,000,000 CHEESE expansion, such as the Kraft-Phenix Corporation is now engineering, would have been referred to the COMIC COLUMNISTS or advised, by the office boy, to QUIT JOKING AND TAKE THE PLOT TO WEBER AND FIELDS.

∴ LISTEN, WORLD! ∴

By Elsie Robinson

WE moderns miss some of the finest experiences in life because we can't stand BEING ALONE.

We spend so little time with ourselves that most of us never become acquainted with our own minds, or the adventures that lie within them.

From birth to death, we're surrounded by rumpus and racket. We spend our lives cheek by jowl with milling millions in tiny apartments, crowded subways, congested offices. Radios, phonographs, sirens shriek at us. Automobiles, motorcycles, aeroplanes, trains, crash across our retina or hurl our bodies through space. Murders, suicides, kidnapings, robberies, scream from every front page, from every talkie screen. From morn until night our five senses are battered, bunted, tickled, yanked, whammed, whacked, larruped and lambasted.

Until we grow used to the uproar . . . come to crave it as an addict craves hop . . . miss it when it lessens . . become bored by silence and terrified by solitude. Spend an evening alone? The thought appalls us. A Whole Long Evening Alone? Horrible! Hastily we call up the Gang and try to organize a table of bridge. Or, failing that, turn on the static. And so . . . miss the REAL SHOW.

For this noisy fracas which we call life isn't the REAL SHOW. The Real Show is inside us, not outside. It is going on all the time, in our own minds and hearts, but few of us have ears to listen or eyes to see. We're like babies. A baby doesn't care a hoot for grand opera. He wants his rattle. We want our rattle . . . and, jingling the rattle, we pass up the opera.

Take your own life, for example. Where do YOU go for your "kick"? To the talkies? But there are more thrilling adventures lying undeveloped in your own mind than ever flashed across the screen. And voices going on, within yourself, which would fill your life with wonder and delight, wisdom and peace, if you would listen to them.

Often you get discontented. You feel that your life isn't amounting to much. But you really aren't living YOUR LIFE at all. You're just making a receiving station of yourself. Plenty's happening outside you BUT NOTHING IS HAPPENING INSIDE YOU. YOU DON'T GIVE IT A CHANCE!

Why don't people pay more attention to you? That's why . . . THERE'S NOTHING TO PAY ATTENTION TO! You're not filled with . . . YOU. You're filled with echoes of the din outside you. You're just a copy of everyone else. The world doesn't give any serious attention to copies. It wants originals . . . PEOPLE WHO HAVE, WITHIN THEMSELVES, A STORE OF POWER AND POISE AND PEACE.

You can make the world pay attention to you. You can build up, in yourself, that force which commands attention. BUT YOU'LL NEVER GET IT BY RUNNING AROUND IN DIZZY CIRCLES AND CUTTING OUT PAPER DOLLS.

You can only get it by being still . . . by letting something happen inside you . . . BY LETTING YOURSELF HAPPEN.

Isn't It So?

A thorn in the flesh is more troublesome than two on the bush.

Sunday has become that day in which you either get bawled out by the preacher or the traffic cop.

Text For Today

But as many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name.

John 1:12.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

THE plant breathes, as we have already noted, and it breathes continually, both by night and by day.

Naturally, the organization of a plant is very different from that of an animal—a mouse, let us say. A mouse has nerves and sense-organs and muscles, and a busy little brain, but what should a plant want with these things?

It has no food to seek, and that is the chief thing that an animal does with its brain. Indeed, if a plant could walk about, it would have to tear up its root at every step! It sits still and spreads its leaves towards the light and its roots into the soil. It lacks digestive apparatus of a mouse, for the mouse consumes energy-yielding fuels that have to be adjusted before they can be fitted into his tiny body.

H. G. Wells

But the plant has no need to consume fuels; it contents itself with the elementary molecules that it finds in the air and soil.

The plant is built up of tiny organized protoplasmic specks just as we are.

In many plant-cells active movements can be seen in progress; the impassive stillness that distinguishes cabbage so markedly from man breaks down.

These movements can naturally be best seen in transparent plant tissue—in the leaves of the Canadian water-weed, in the stinging hairs of a nettle, or in the thin fronds of mosses—and in many of these the protoplasm can be seen to stream regularly round the little box in which it is enclosed, almost as if it were trying to find a way out.

It is obviously and actively living, just as our protoplasm is.

But there are two general differences between animal and vegetable cells. In the first place, the cells of the green parts of a plant contain, in addition to the nucleus, centrosphere, mitochondria, and so forth, that we noticed in the animal cell, little round spherules within which the vital chlorophyll is confined.

After what has been said there is no need to stress the importance of these plastids, as they are called.

The second point is of minor importance: Plant cells almost invariably secrete little boxes around themselves, boxes of a complex substance related chemically to the sugars and called cellulose.

Thus the plant is supported by a framework of non-living boxes, much as we are supported by a framework of non-living lime salts. This, incidentally, is why, if you cut a juicy fruit, such as a melon, in halves with a knife, the whole of the juice does not immediately flow out; it is confined in little boxes, and only from these boxes that have been cut open with the knife does juice escape.

The urgent need of an animal is food; that of a green plant is sunlight—and herein lies the clue to above-ground vegetable architecture.

Air is plentiful enough, and, once its roots have struck in a suitable soil, a supply of moisture and the necessary mineral salts is guaranteed; but the third vital necessity, light, is a thing that has to be fought for.

All over the world, wherever roots can get a grip and an adequate supply of nourishing moisture, plants are wrestling silently with their neighbors for light. Leaves are a net, spread to catch the invigorating rays.

The reader will have noticed the beautiful leaf-mosaics of elm or ivy, the leaves fitting into each other like the fingers of clasped hands so that as little as possible of their area will be shaded, as much as possible directly bathed in radiance.

The primrose, starting early in the year and sacrificing this neatness for a grimmer purpose, flops its rosette of broad leaves hastily around so that any other seedlings that may be sprouting near by are stifled; thus there is no risk of the primroses being put in the shade, in a literal sense, by a taller and more stalwart neighbor.

Other plants race each other upwards, to be the first to drink the raining rays. The trees, spreading their leaves high in the air, get their fill of light and the undergrowth below has to content itself with their leavings, with diffused light and an occasional brisk fleck that has filtered through—the crumbs of light, so to speak, falling from the rich table above.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Thoughts while strolling: Who remembers when the word "lousey" was whispered even around the livery stable? Columbus Circle soap box prophets warning again of the end of the world. Frederick Dorr Steele, the artist, who created Sherlock Holmes in black and white.

A rubberneck wagon megaphonist calls out "The home of David Belasco" while passing the Hotel Marie Antoinette. But it isn't! Bernarr Macfadden, on the long daily hike to his office. Never see anybody in those Drive-Your-Own-Car places. The clatter and bang at Sixty-sixth street and Broadway.

Big John, the traffic cop at Seventy-second street. Crones with gunny sacks who pick up dry twigs and waste paper. Children with their nurses on the Mall. The amazing changes in the Fifth avenue skyline. With Millionaires' Row now only a memory. Col. Frank Knox, a Boston, Mass., boy, who made good in the city.

The exclusive Metropolitan Club. And the thicket of hotels around the Plaza fountain. Tuxedoed clerks in the Sherry-Netherland. And the very British "Very good sir!" flunkies at the Savoy-Plaza. Elmer Rice, the playwright. White shaggy dogs that suddenly sit up for no reason at all.

An ancient cabby shouts: "I used to drive President Roosevelt." Lou Tellegen's rakish velour. People who ask you how you are and don't give a hoot. Bus riders who lift hats passing the cathedral. The modernistic window craze seems dying out.

Limousines at the 5 and 10's. Ladies who parade their beauty as something apart—marketable. The parvenue with rummaging eyes and a lapel nosegay. And the professional poor who slink along mumbling sneers. Aged clubmen with white side whiskers, reddened noses and gold headed canes.

The white of an egg as a temporary face lift was a discovery in stage make up. It is now featured in beauty parlors and one specialist is doing a land office business at $8 a treatment. The egg is smoothed over the face, after a brisk massage, and permitted to dry. Then it is sponged with cold water and with the contraction all wrinkles disappear for four or five hours.

A policeman near an entrance to Central Park tells me of seeing a young girl enter the park after dusk the other evening, glance around furtively and hurl something away. She then hurried on. The next morning he hunted in the area and found a wedding ring. That evening the girl returned and began to search. Presenting his find, she explained: "We quarreled but made up."

The same policeman told of "the moonlight walkers." When the moon is full there are a dozen regulars who come to the park for a walk around the gravel path of the reservoir. He says to all appearances they are not acquainted but seem merely to find odd fascination in promenading at such a time. All, he said, appear to be completely lost in meditation.

* * *

In my neighborhood is a priestly looking gentleman I often see on a certain street when taking my dog for a midnight stroll. He walks slowly with arms folded behind and head bared—mumbling words with long connotations like the Latin service.

Lower Fifth avenue for years has observed two women in black who appear at the same hour in the late evening and walk northward on opposite sides of the street and at Thirty-fourth street turn back and go over the same route. Each seems oblivious of the other and yet keep in perfect step.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

ISN'T it true that you fail to manifest much interest in anything unless it makes an especial appeal to you?

Of course most people are like that, but it is not necessary to be so self-centered, is it?

Wouldn't it be a little better if you would pay attention to some of the enthusiasms of your friends?

Then you would not seem to try to monopolize the conversation so much of the time when you are out in company.

You don't mean to be superior, but your actions lead people to think that your ideas and deductions are better than others, in your own mind.

He does not want to add anything to what he has.

He is past thinking, and tries to foist his opinions on all those with whom he comes in contact.

It makes him unpopular.

But he is too much wrapped up in himself to realize his associates do not take his word for it as law and gospel.

You want to be popular, and come to think of it, you know there are many who are better informed than you, so why not look interested in them.
